YOU ONLY NEED
to do the right thing in the right way to get right results. But in the affairs of life it is not always easy to decide what is the right thing to do. And many people, rather than choose a wrong course, do nothing. Undoubtedly there are circumstances and occasions when it is true wisdom to "wait and see," but such a policy is certainly a mistake when one's health is the matter for consideration. It is wrong to assume that irregularities will right themselves. Even should they do so, it is only at the cost of needless pain and trouble. Irregularities of the organs of digestion and assimilation in particular should not be neglected. It has been stated on good authority that about three-fourths of all general illness has its origin in some derangement of those important functions. Very many troublesome ailments arise therefrom. A sensible plan is a dose or two of Beecham's Pills on the first signs of any indisposition. Much suffering may be avoided by having timely recourse to this famous medicine which has proved its value in countless cases and earned the flattering description of being Worth a Guinea a Box. The first dose gives relief, and the further use of this specific, taken in accordance with the directions, ensures a speedy cure. Weak appetite and feeble digestion, which mean poor nutrition—constipation, which has a host of evils following in its train—sluggish liver and kidneys which give rise to heaviness, depression of spirits and lack of energy; such are best treated at the outset by taking Beecham's Pills, a reliable household remedy, tonic-aperient and general corrective. The periodical use of this excellent medicine conduces materially to good health and condition. You will certainly benefit by the occasional use of

TO TAKE

BEECHAM'S PILLS.
Sold everywhere, in boxes,
Price 1/1½ (56 pills) and 2/9 (168 pills).

EXCEEDING CONTROL PRICES FOR TEA.

In the Northern Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Lupton, James Healy, of Constitution Hill, publican and grocer, was summoned at the suit of the Food Control Committee for having sold one pound of tea to Henry Quail, of Wilkinstown, Navan, for which he charged 3/10. Mr. Quail, in his evidence, stated that when he had paid the money he drew Mr. Healy's attention to the fact that the control price was 2/8. Mr. Healy replied that he could not sell the tea for less than he had charged. At the same time he handed back 1/2.

There was a second summons against Mr. Healy for not having displayed a price list.

On the first summons Mr. Lupton fined the defendant £4, and on the second 20/-. He also made an order that the defendant should pay 16/4 expenses of witnesses from Navan and 6/2 in respect of other witnesses.

Mr. Davis appeared for the prosecution. Mr. Gerald Byrne appeared for the defendant.

The Arbeiter Zeitung publishes, says a Copenhagen telegram, striking figures in regard to the want of food. In German Bohemia in May 809 persons fell sick of starvation, and five died. In the province of Reichenberg in July 1,500 fell sick and 30 died. In Warnsdorff District 650 were sick and seven died.

CANCELLED BANK NOTES IN CIRCULATION.

FURTHER CASES AT THE POLICE COURT.

In the Northern Police Court, Dublin, yesterday, before Mr. Lupton, Martin Dixon, of Ryan's Cottages, Charlemont street, and James Molony, bargeman, of Clondalkin, were charged with having stolen—the former two £5 Bank of Ireland notes, and the latter one £5 note, which were part of a lot of old notes cancelled by the bank, and sent to the Clondalkin Paper Mills for destruction. The men were charged in a second count with having feloniously received the notes, with being in illegal possession of them, and with having uttered them.

Mr. W. G. Bradley appeared for the Bank of Ireland; and Mr. James Brady appeared for Dixon.

Mr. Newman Thompson, an official of the bank, identified the notes as having been cancelled by the bank on the 21st March, 1908, and sent to the Clondalkin Mills on the 9th inst. to be turned into pulp. One of the notes came back to the Bank of Ireland through the Provincial Bank on the 22nd inst., and the second note was presented for payment on the 23rd inst. by the Munster and Leinster Bank. The man Dixon told him that when he was coming home from his work at Lucan on Saturday he won the £5 note and a £1 note while playing "pitch and toss" near the Magazine Fort, Phoenix Park.

Detective-Sergeant Grace deposed to having arrested Dixon in Camden street yesterday morning. In answer to the charge Dixon said he won one of the notes at "pitch and toss" on the bank near the Magazine Fort. That note was won from him some days later in Masterson's lane by a man named Corrigan. He said he received a second note from a soldier, and received £2 for it from a bread-van driver named Keane. At the Bridewell Dixon said he did not steal the notes, and that he had never been in Clondalkin.

Detective-Officer Flanagan stated that he, with Sergeant Grace, arrested Molony at Clondalkin yesterday morning. When he was told the charge Molony said that on Monday last he found two halves of a £5 note in the stable yard. He joined them together with gum, and kept the note till he came to Dublin on Wednesday, when he changed it at Molloy's, of Wentworth place. He got £4 11/9 change, which he had since spent on drink.

The further hearing was adjourned till to-day.

No Sweet Prices List.—In the Northern Police Court yesterday, Elizabeth Cassidy was fined 20/- for not having displayed in her shop at Fairview a list showing maximum retail prices of sweets sold by her.

THE IRISH PAPER MILLS CO., CLONDALKIN,
ASK EVERYBODY TO SAVE WASTE PAPER

It is not only the patriotic duty but is in the individual interests of every man, woman, and child in the country to collect every available Scrap of Paper, so that the Irish Paper Mills may be kept running through this time of shortage of paper-making materials.

THE IRISH PAPER MILLS COMPANY guarantee that packs will be supplied and maximum prices fixed by the Government paid by their Contractors, Messrs. M. Duan and Co.

BANKS, PUBLIC OFFICES, and BUSINESS FIRMS having large stocks of old paper should get rid of it now, as the shortage of paper-making material is becoming very acute, and the problem is to keep Mills running.

THE IRISH PAPER MILLS COMPANY are in a position to guarantee the destruction and repulping of ALL grades of paper, and their contractors will, if necessary, in the case of private documents, prepare the waste paper on the seller's premises and have it taken direct to the Mills and destroyed under the eye of a representative of the seller.

The minimum quantity of waste paper which can be taken in any one consignment is one cwt. Carriage on smaller quantities would be prohibitive.

Send samples, and highest prices will be quoted per return, and cash remitted promptly on receipt of goods.

Books of the Week.

A SOCIAL REVOLUTIONARY.

If the well-informed reader goes to the shelves of a library, he will see that in 1878 there was a second edition of Miss Ellice Hopkins's biography of James Hinton. It is a book which was known, and well known, a generation ago, for Hinton wrote the "Mystery of Pain," which is easily the most thoughtful treatment of the subject. To those in bereavement today or those perplexed by the war we warmly commend this fine booklet. Miss Hopkins's biography enjoys an introduction by Sir William Gull, which forms a striking tribute to Hinton. In 1875 he passed away, leaving material which his life did not enable him to work up. "But," concludes Miss Hopkins, "there are some on this earth to whom to have known and loved James Hinton has given to all life a diviner meaning; and who now live to carry on his work for the world—for that human good which he loved with a passion that found no equal even in the sum of all other desires." The last book to come from the hands of the late Mrs. Havelock Ellis is a sketch of this remarkable man, and we took it up, wondering what she had to say that was new. She saw in him a man of passionately vivid and eager temperament, whose hands could not fail to leave the distinct impress of that temperament on any subject which he touched. This is all true, and we gleaned so much not only from Miss Hopkins's biography, but from his own writings.

Mrs. Havelock Ellis was warmly interested in the relationships of the sexes; so, too, was Hinton. In the old biography this element lay in the background: in the new one it fills the stage. From beginning to end this book is an able study of the views of Hinton—and incidentally of the writer—on the vital issue of the reform of the relationships between the sexes. Mrs. Ellis has discussed the whole matter in a scientific way. She has not written a single salacious line, and such a line, we feel certain, was never in her thoughts. Hinton's solution, roughly, was that polygamy should be permitted. His postulate was that most men and some women are polygamous in their instincts, while most women and a few men are just as decidedly monogamous. The most repellent feature of the biography is not so much the matter analysed as the dogmatic manner in which Hinton announces what he considers to be his results. He quotes Luther, but not even that masterful reformer claimed so arrogantly the privilege of inspiration.

"James Hinton." By Mrs. Havelock Ellis. London: Stanley Paul. 10/6.

THE REICHSTAG.

The Abbé Wetterlé has written a book of singular interest. Since 1898 he sat in the Reichstag for an Alsatian constituency, and he gives us the benefit of his experiences. His book is deeply interesting and is also amusing. On the latter side we have, for example, his story of the dinner organised in the Reichstag building in 1906 for the purpose of affording the members an opportunity of tasting the wine of Alsace. Ministers and deputies between 8 p.m. and 4 a.m. drank no less than 1,400 bottles, and the next day not one of the diners had a headache. The Alsatians had a heart-ache, for the dinner was given to secure orders for their wine, and not a single order was given. The author is best in his account of the Reichstag, and he proves up to the hilt that it is one of the greatest frauds in the world. It is abundantly evident that Germany is an autocracy, with a sham meeting of representatives of the people in a Parliament in which no control is exercised over the Cabinet. Herr Müller, a Centre Party Deputy, holds that "our Budget is absolutely lacking in sincerity. Transfers of sums of money abound in it, and you must be a past-master in the art of handling figures to know where you are. The principal concern of our statesmen is to hide from the foreigner the credits they devote first to military preparations and secondly to propaganda work." The world knows now the way in which Admiral von Tirpitz manipulated the Naval Estimates, and the Abbé Wetterlé adds to our knowledge of such matters.

The tone of the book is not unfair. The author does not give us the impression that he is trying to make a case, but rather that he is simply chronicling experiences which were regarded as a matter of course. That, to our mind, is far more damning than any studied attempts to play on our feelings. Nothing is really so impressive as a plain handling of the facts, with just enough comment to make them alive, and this is the service which the author performs for us. There are vivid portraits of the leading figures in the Reichstag and in the Government, and not the least vivid of these is one of the Kaiser himself.

"Behind the Scenes in the Reichstag." By the Abbé E. Wetterlé. With a prefatory letter by René Doumic. London: Hodder and Stoughton. 6/-.

AEROPLANES AND ENGINES.

Familiar as aviation has now become to most people, in so far as observation goes at all events, a practical, straightforward volume upon the broad principles and practice of flight is extremely welcome. "Avion" is an eminently practical writer, and has most happily gauged the desire for knowledge about flying on the part of the average man. His book not only explains the meaning of technical terms, but interprets them in common language, so that one gains from it a good grasp of the basic principles of flight. The preface describes the treatment as superficial, but that is hardly justice, for the mechanician finds raised and elucidated in the book some points which only present themselves when mechanical principles are applied in a new medium.

So far as war exigencies permit, discoveries and developments due to war service are recorded. A very illuminating chapter is that which explains why an aeroplane flies. Another describes in most interesting manner the construction of a plane; and the various types are contrasted, with clear and helpful illustrations. Not everyone is aware that an aeroplane can skid like a car, and has to be re-rigged after every long flight, to a tenth of an inch. The skilful combination of immense strength with lightness is also a revelation. A chapter is devoted to aeroplanes in peace, and a section to aero-engines, a matter in which, probably, the greatest progress of all has been made. The volume constitutes an encouraging reminder of the great scientific knowledge and enterprise which exist on this side of the German frontier. It is a handy book which can be warmly commended in every respect.

EXAMINATIONS.

Mr. Hartog has written an extremely important book on the relations of examinations to culture and efficiency. He is as clear as most of us are on the evils they bring about, and he is equally clear that they are indispensable. The alternative is influence, and in these democratic days it is impossible to put it forward. Therefore the author concentrates all his hopes on the reform of the examination system. His book is illuminating on the theory of examinations. He discusses the design, methods, and results of the system, and does not forget the past. The author is a scientific man, but he has a careful short account of the work of scholastic philosophy. His survey of what he calls "capacity-tests" on paper is suggestive. He marks off carefully the difference between hurtful and helpful "cram." We were particularly interested in the chapter which discusses the personal equation of the examiner and how far it is responsible for unfairness. Mr. Hartog's subject sounds trite, and in a sense it is trite, but his handling of it imparts freshness and vigour to the whole matter. No one can lay down this book without receiving ideas.

"Examinations and their Relation to Culture and Efficiency." By P. J. Hartog, C.I.E. With a Speech by the late Earl of Cromer. London: Constable. 3/6.

THEOLOGY AND WAR.

The author of "Rough Rhymes of a Padre" has now attempted an essay on religion. The reader will find himself often in sympathy with Mr. Kennedy—he is so manifestly in earnest, and his convictions are so evidently the result of his experiences as an Army chaplain. But the theology that might be tolerated in "Rough Rhymes" will not pass uncriticised in this essay. We distrust a doctrine that is born out of an experience so abnormal as that produced by modern war. War, no doubt, has been chronic in human society; nevertheless, it is an abnormality—a thing contrary to the Divine intention in respect of man. To us it appears that Mr. Kennedy's emphasis on the suffering Christ is exaggerated, and it is certainly not in accord with the New Testament. His apparent suggestion that God is not the Almighty King has affiliations with Mr. H. G. Wells's recently-published views. It is a doctrine drawn from certain facts of human life; but if we are going to make a God for ourselves, each of us out of his own individual and extremely limited experience, it is certain that we shall err, and it is certain also that there will be so many Gods that we may cease to believe in any of them.

SYNONYMS AND ANTONYMS.

This is an excellent book of its kind. About five thousand words are given in alphabetical order, and the synonyms and antonyms comprise several thousand more. To author and journalist, to preacher, public speaker, lawyer, and teacher, and to many others who require effective expression, either written or vocal, this work should prove of much utility. The author is to be congratulated on having compiled such a complete list of words in common use, with their equivalents and opposites. It is a pity, however, that she has departed from the accepted English way of spelling such words as "sceptic," "vigour," "fibre," "accoutre," "colour," etc.

ON THE EDGE OF THE WAR ZONE.

Miss Mildred Aldrich, author of "A Hilltop on the Marne," has collected in this volume a number of her letters written home from her farmhouse of La Creste, Huiry, from the opening of the war till April, 1917. They are a woman's letters—that is to say, they are gossipy, discursive, lively, and much concerned with the simple, elementary things of human life. Incidentally, they reveal not a little of the attitude and temper of the admirable French peasantry under the prolonged strain of the war.

DAWN IN PALESTINE.

Mr. Canton's story of Jewish history, with special reference to the City of Jerusalem, is, within its limits, an exceptionally full and interesting account, and may be warmly commended. His first-hand familiarity with the land and its people, his intimate knowledge of its long and eventful history, his charming literary style are manifest in every page of this little book. We heartily endorse the appeal for support for the Syria and Palestine Relief Fund which forms Mr. Canton's concluding chapter. Several illustrations add considerably to the value of the book.

RECENT FICTION.

Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch's latest novel is at once curious, stimulating, and intensely interesting. The narrator tells it in instalments in a dug-out "Somewhere in France" to an audience of artillery officers, none of whom has anything to do with the tale. The title is compounded of the names of the two central figures—Dr. Foe, the scientific man, who has devoted himself to research, and Farrell, the Philistine tradesman of Tottenham Court road. In an evil and unlucky moment Farrell charges Foe—quite unjustly—with the making of revolting vivisection experiments in his laboratory. A mob attacks the college, and in an hour or two the results of Foe's life-work are gone, never to be picked up. He determines on a terrible revenge—nothing less than the relentless pursuit of the wretched Farrell, no matter in what quarter of the globe he may seek to hide himself. Foe paralyses his unfortunate victim with terror, and our sympathies begin to move in Farrell's favour, as one who is suffering a punishment out of all proportion to his crime.

The whirligig of time brought its revenge. After Farrell's escape from the desert island where Foe, with an abominable refinement of cruelty, left him to die, the rôles are changed. The quarry in his turn becomes the hunter, till at last the inevitable tragedy is reached. "Foe-Farrell" is an epic of hate. Under the influence of the unholy passion each of the principal actors seems to become more and more like his enemy, even to the point of physical appearance—which thing is an allegory and is duly noted as such: if we learn to hate the Germans as they hate us, we are in danger of resembling them in the end. "Foe-Farrell" is an intensely interesting novel, both as a character study and as a story of incident. The description of the experiences of the castaways in an open boat is one of the most powerful and awesome things of its kind that we have read, and Captain Macnaughten is one of the finest seamen in modern fiction.

The rivalry between Messrs. Louvois and Colbert for the favour of Louis XIV. is used by Mr. Hamilton Drummond in following the fortunes of his hero, M. de Gerson. The high-spirited young gentleman-adventurer is drawn into the net of Louvois by a bold and unscrupulous method, and a pretty plot ensues. There are lively scenes in Paris, before de Gerson, perforce, betakes himself to Auvergne. Here, though he finds even more intrigue and adventure than are to his liking, he receives full compensation from fate for the trick played him.

MILITARY SERVICE CASE.

ACCUSED'S RIGHT TO BAIL.

The Master of the Rolls yesterday delivered judgment in the case of the King (Gardiner) v. Lupton, which was heard by his lordship on the previous day. It was an application on behalf of Harry Gardiner, an Englishman, who had been arrested and brought before Mr. Lupton, one of the Police Magistrates of Dublin, on the 22nd inst., on a charge of being an absentee from the Army, under the provisions of the Military Service Act, 1916. Mr. Lupton ordered the accused to be handed over to the military authorities, and agreed, on the application of Gardiner's solicitor, to state a case for the superior Court. Application was then made that the prisoner should be liberated from military custody on proper recognisances being given, but the magistrate refused the application. Then an application was made to the King's Bench, and the judge made a conditional order of mandamus to the magistrate directing him to accept recognisances pending the hearing of the case stated. The application to make absolute the conditional order was heard on Thursday.

The Master of the Rolls held that the decision of the magistrate to state a case was right, and that having so decided he was bound, under the provisions of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1857, on recognisance being tendered to him to discharge the accused from custody, no exception, as was admitted, being taken to the recognisances. He was not much impressed by the point made for the military that no punishment was awarded. The accused was found by the magistrate to have been guilty of the offence of being absent without leave, and it was ordered that he be handed over to the military authorities. That order was based on the determination of the magistrate that the accused had committed the offence. The Lord Chief Justice had decided that delivery over to the military authority does not amount to a conviction, but that decision did not touch the ground on which he decided the present case. The Lord Chief Justice was only dealing with the right of appeal under the Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914. His present decision was based on the sufficient ground that there had been a complaint within the meaning of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1857, which carried with it the right to have a case stated for good and sufficient cause. When a case stated was granted there ensued from it that right of the accused to be discharged from custody if the condition as to recognisances has been performed. Therefore, he made absolute the conditional order.

Mr. Healy, K.C., with whom was Mr. G. Farrell (instructed by Mr. James Brady) for the defendant, asked for costs.

The Master of the Rolls said he had no jurisdiction to give costs against the Crown in a case of this sort.

The accused (Gardiner), who was in Court in custody of a military man, was ordered to be discharged from custody.

Mr. Serjeant Matheson and Mr. Cooper (instructed by the Chief Crown Solicitor) appeared for the Crown.

Military Absentees.—In the Southern Police Court yesterday, Mr. Drury had before him a number of young men charged with being absent from military service. Many of them expressed their willingness to join up, some choosing the Air Force, and others the Jewish Battalion. Several others were handed over to the military authorities.

MR. ROBERT CRAIGIE'S SHEEP SALE.

There were just 4,000 head of sheep entered for Mr. Robert Craigie's annual sale of ewes, store wethers, and lambs in the Dublin Cattle Market yesterday, and, favoured by fine weather, the day's proceedings were got through with the utmost expedition. Business throughout was characterised by extraordinary briskness, prices from start to finish ruling exceedingly high, and constituting a record for the season. There was an excellent show of Roscommons, Galways, and Cheviots, and a complete clearance was effected, many of those present leaving with their wants unsupplied. Roscommons brought up to 112/-, as compared with 80/- at last year's sale, Galways ranging up to 105/-, as against a top of 74/- twelve months ago. Cheviots on this occasion brought up to 80/-, compared with 45/- last year, thus making the largest increase of the season so far. Blackfaced hornies brought up to 51/-, or 1/- less than last year. Appended is a list of the principal sales:—Roscommon ewes—Mrs. Anderson's, 110/- to 112/-; Mr. F. J. Monson's, 106/- to 111/-; Mr. Spencer Tonge's, 108/-. Galway ewes—Mr. John S. Kenny's, 80/- to 97/-; Mr. Edward O'Dea's, 86/- to 106/-; Mr. Michael Flynn's, 76/- to 93/-; Mr. Luke Flynn's, 86/- to 92/-; Mr. P. Stack's, 70/- to 76/-; Mr. M. Stack's, 72/- to 79/-; Mr. M. Corley's, 64/- to 64/6; Mr. P. Henderson's, 67/-; Mr. A. Coyne's, 75/- to 78/-; Mr. John A. Joyce's crossbreds, 56/- to 65/-; Mr. J. Kilcommon's Galways, 78/- to 82/-; Mr. Hanbidge's Border Leicesters, 94/-. Amongst Cheviots, Mr. Patrick Byrne's draft from Enniskerry made the remarkable figure of 80/-; Mr. William Keegan's made 68/-, Mr. William Murray's 75/-, Mr. W. M. Kenny's 76/-, Mr. Thomas Jones' 67/- to 74/-, Mr. J. P. Kelly's 74/-, Mr. N. T. Keegan's 67/-, Mr. Thomas Healy's 67/-, Mr. Peter Young's 64/- to 67/6, Mr. W. Whitmore's 62/-, Mr. W. Fennell's 67/- to 69/6, and Mr. R. O'Hara's 69/-. Blackfaced horned ewes sold as follows:—Mr. John J. Blake's, 48/- to 54/-; Mr. P. King Joyce's, 42/- to 44/-; Mr. Edward Quinn's, 47/6; Mr. D. J. de Janasy's, 45/-; Mr. A. Coyne's, 45/6 to 51/-. Wethers and lambs—Mr. P. King Joyce's b.f. horny wethers, 53/-; Mr. J. S. Kingston's Oxford cross ewe lambs, 53/- to 61/-; Mr. S. Fennell's cross lambs 45/6 to 59/-; Mr. A. Coyne's, 46/- to 66/-. The following were present or represented:—The Duke of Leinster, Colonel Sir Nugent Everard, Bart.; Miss Russell, Captain Connolly, Messrs. W. M. Hatte, S. Tong, C. H. HOTEL & TOURISTS' ASSOCIATION OF IRELAND.

HOTEL STRIKE.

NOTICE.

The Members of this Association regret that, owing to the action of the members of the Irish Transport Workers' Union (Hotel Workers' Branch), they have been left without Staff to enable them to carry on even a small part of their business, and they are now unable to provide accommodation or cater for the Public, with the result that it has become necessary to close their premises and suspend Hotel and Restaurant business until further notice.

On the 13th instant a demand for increase in wages and alterations of the long-established conditions of employment was received from the Workers' Union. This demand the employers were unable to entertain, as the increases asked for were considered excessive, and it was found impossible at the present time, owing to war conditions, to effect the changes in the conditions of employment demanded by the workers without revolutionising the entire trade. A reply to this effect was given to the Union representatives on the 27th inst., with an intimation that the employers recognised that increases of wages, owing to the increased cost of living, were justified in certain cases, at the same time requesting the workers to present a modified proposal, which would be carefully and sympathetically considered by the employers, and in the event of an agreement not being arrived at, the employers were willing to go to arbitration. Two meetings between the representatives of the Employers and the Workers were held on Tuesday, 27th instant, and Wednesday, 28th instant. At the second of these meetings modified proposal was submitted by the Workers and a further offer of increase in advance of the first offer made by the Employers was also submitted, but no agreement could be come to; and the meeting terminated with a request from the Workers' Representatives that as many members of the staff as could be dispensed with that night should be allowed off in order to attend a meeting to deal with the Employers' proposals. The necessary permission was at once given.

The next phase was the announcement in the morning papers of the 29th instant of a mass meeting of Hotel Workers on yesterday afternoon. No request was made that the staff should be allowed off, and, as the public are already aware, all work ceased at 2.30 p.m., the various staffs not returning last night.

From this morning's papers it appears that by 1,166 votes to 11 the workers refused the terms offered by the Employers. The members of the Association do not know and have no means of knowing, what issues were submitted to the meeting, but they find it difficult to believe that the Workers present at this meeting decided to go on strike rather than submit the differences as to wages by reason of war conditions to arbitration.

The fact remains, however, that without any notice whatever a general strike of Hotel and Restaurant Workers has been in existence since 2.30 p.m. yesterday.

The members of the Association are still willing to go to Arbitration, and desire to express their regret for any inconvenience or dislocation of business which may be brought about by the action of the Hotel Workers.

By Order of the Committee,

GORDON FOX.
SECRETARY.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1918.

Labour and the War.

Yesterday the British Government gave an official luncheon to the leader of the American Labour movement, and the Prime Minister proposed the toast of his health. It is one of the thousand incidents of to-day that would have been almost inconceivable four years ago. Mr. Samuel Gompers, born in Spitalfields, is now the head of the largest, most powerful, and, at present, most solidly united organisation of Labour in the world. American Labour speaks with one voice on the war, and Mr. Gompers is in England in order to convince British Labour of that tremendous fact. His visit is very welcome, and should have valuable results. The Trade Union Congress will meet next week at Derby. Mr. Gompers will attend it as a "fraternal delegate," and will hear many curious things. Some trade unions will demand immediate peace negotiations with Germany; others will call for an international conference with Russian Bolsheviks, Prussian Socialists, and fishy neutrals. It is even possible that these or similar proposals may be adopted by majorities which will seem, on paper, to carry an immense weight. Such performances are likely to puzzle and sadden American and French Labour at a moment when the armed democracies of Britain, France, and the United States are smashing Germany's armies north and south of the Somme. Mr. Gompers will, perhaps, furnish the Trade Union Congress with some "straight" American talk. Certainly his visit will instruct him in the real feelings of British Labour about the war, and will enable him to clear American Labour's mind of many mischievous misconceptions. He will discover that Mr. Lloyd George spoke plain truth yesterday when he said that the heart of British Labour is perfectly sound, and that ninety-five per cent. of the British working classes are resolved on the defeat of Germany, and are prepared to make any sacrifice for it. Mr. Gompers will learn very quickly that the machinery of British trade unionism has gone "all wrong"—that a small minority of word-spinners has secured a large control over it, and that the "card vote" has become an elaborate imposture. He will be able to tell American Labour that the minority has acquired this control chiefly because the vast majority, busily engaged in winning the war, finds no time to counteract the arts of the wily intriguers of British Socialism.

American Labour must be surprised, however, at the existence of even a small minority of Labour "pacificists" in England. We, perhaps, have been equally surprised at the complete absence of a similar minority in the United States. We had believed that there was a big streak of sentiment in the American character. American journalism and fiction had led us to suppose that the national mind was prone to idealism. Material seemed to exist for a large and troublesome party whose hatred of penal action would be a clog on the efforts of the United States Government to prosecute the war. Britons were right, we believe, about the idealism, and even about the sentiment; but the war has taught them a new thing—that American idealism, while of the loftiest kind, is severely logical. There is a vast difference between the practical idealism of the American democracy in this war and the sloppy idealism of Mr. Arthur Henderson and the British Socialists. The ideals, indeed, are identical; the difference consists in the methods of realising them. British "pacificism," sick—as we all are sick—of so much bloodshed and suffering, wishes to stop it immediately by any means. It credits the German people, rightly, perhaps, with its own desires, but, wrongly, with the power to fulfil them. It is ready to make peace to-morrow with undefeated German militarism on the strength of the canting utterances of a bureaucracy which now sees its only hope of escape in a negotiated peace. American idealism, too, seeks peace and a League of Nations—but a lasting peace and a League of Nations that will be a real guarantee of international security. Its very hatred of bloodshed steels it in the resolve that this war must see the end of the brutal aggressions of a military caste. It perceives that the world's present disorders cannot be healed by a plaster, but demand a radical operation. Germany must be defeated in the field. The German people must be convinced by severe, but just, penalties that a conscienceless militarism does not pay. When it is so convinced we shall have a peace worthy of our utmost sacrifices. That is the mind of American Labour. Mr. Gompers will discover that is also the mind of the mass of those who support the Labour movement in Great Britain.

Against this tremendous solidarity of the English-speaking world a few hundreds of thousands of Irishmen hurl a puny and ignorant defiance. Sane men must be tempted sometimes to feel that some malignant destiny is behind the abysmal folly of Sinn Fein—to wonder whether this country's epitaph will not be found in the words, si fata deûm, si mens non laeva fuisset. Ireland's destinies are in the hands of the British democracy, whose future attitude to us will be influenced largely by the sentiments and wishes of the sister democracy of the United States. Labour has a potent voice in American politics to-day. In Great Britain, as Mr. Lloyd George said yesterday, the power of Labour has been doubled during the last four years. British Labour was once friendly to Nationalist Ireland, and for many generations American Labour was more than friendly. The war gave her an opportunity to grapple the two mighty democracies to her heart with hooks of steel. There was nothing that she might not have asked of them if she had come as an enthusiastic partner into their common cause. Instead, she has presented to the world the tragic spectacle of a land which, once famous for its exalted outlook on human affairs, has forgotten all its ideals, trampled on all its traditions, made itself a byword for stupidity and selfishness. After the war, unless she repents at the eleventh hour, Nationalist Ireland will not have a single friend among the Powers that will refashion all the fortunes of mankind. The future lies with nations which she has deserted in their hour of need. She will have no claim upon their help and sympathy; she will have every claim on their contempt. The world is full of tragedies to-day, but, on the spiritual plane, none is more terrible than Nationalist Ireland's loss of her soul.

The German Retreat.

There was an appreciable stiffening in the German resistance yesterday, and consequently the progress of the Allied Armies was somewhat slower than it had been during the previous two days. Nevertheless, the day brought further important gains. The chief of these was the capture of Bullecourt, in the Arras sector. As we pointed out yesterday, the enemy must endeavour to hold the British forces in this area at all costs, for here they are threatened with the turning of the Hindenburg line, an event which would be little short of disastrous for them. Bullecourt was carried only after the most persistent and determined fighting, and our troops then progressed towards the "switch" line which runs from Quéant to Drocourt, and is the real defensive zone. It consists of five distinct lines of traversed trenches, which are honeycombed with machine-gun emplacements and dug-outs. Riencourt, which was one of the bastions guarding Drocourt, Vaulx-Vraucourt, and Vraucourt were all captured in the morning, and we advanced to within a mile of the "switch" line. Later in the day the enemy brought up strong reinforcements and launched a series of heavy counter-attacks. As a result we were obliged to yield some of the ground gained. We were forced back to the western outskirts of Bullecourt and of Hendecourt. Between these villages we fell back to the trenches from which we had driven the enemy a few hours previously. Further north Canadian troops made a brilliantly successful attack astride the Arras-Courtrai road, and stormed the village of Haucourt. In the Lys sector the enemy continued his withdrawal, and evacuated Bailleul, which is again in our possession. South of Bapaume our advance was strongly contested, but the enemy had to give way before the impetuous attacks of General Rawlinson's forces. Combles, the scene of such bitter struggles in 1916, was carried by storm, and further to the south Cléry-sur-Somme was also captured. Péronne is now outflanked on the south, where our advance elements have forced their way across the river at Biaches and Eterpigny, and its fall can be only a question of days, or, indeed, of hours. British troops have already established themselves in the suburbs. It is likely, however, that the enemy will defend it with no less stubbornness than they defended Bapaume, for on its retention depends their hope to delay the progress of the Allies on the line which roughly follows the Tortille, the Somme from Péronne to Rouy-la-Grande, and the Canal-du-Nord. They could not, it is true, hope to stand on this line for any considerable period, but their aim would be to check the pursuit long enough to allow their main forces to reach the Hindenburg line. The progress of the French on the Noyon-Ham road, apart from the pressure of the British forces, would render the retention of such a line impossible except for a brief period. Meanwhile the French have crossed the Lower Ailette, and have pushed forward along the southern bank of the Oise and into the outskirts of the Coucy Forests, which lie below La Fère, the southern extremity of the Hindenburg line. They overlook the flank and rear of the Germans retreating from Noyon, but the River Oise and the canal form strong protection for the enemy.

Tobacco and Matches.

It will be good news for smokers that the supplies of tobacco will be more plentiful a few weeks hence than they are at present. In common with other cities, Dublin is suffering from an acute shortage of the commodity. Many of the more popular brands of cigarettes and smoking mixtures have been virtually unobtainable for some weeks. The conditions in Dublin, however, are not so bad as those that prevail in Birmingham, where the retailers have been compelled to think of closing their establishments for a week. It appears that, owing to the scarcity of shipping, the imports of tobacco during the first three months of the year were far below the amount required. The Shipping Controller was approached by the Tobacco Control Board, and undertook to make such tonnage available as would bring the year's imports up to the total of last year. That has been done, but the shipments for June and July will not be available for the smoker at once. Other factors which tend to accentuate the shortage are the difficulty in transporting the material from London, Liverpool, and Glasgow, the chief ports of importation, to the manufacturers; the shortage of labour and machinery in the factories; the necessity for maintaining the supplies to our Expeditionary Forces; and the presence in the United Kingdom of large bodies of American troops. Satisfaction at the prospect of increased supplies of tobacco would be increased if the Control Board could hold out a similar promise in regard to matches. The supply in Dublin is wholly inadequate to the demand. It is rumoured that huge stocks of matches have been held up by the Control Board for some inexplicable reason.

LORD ARDEE.

Brigadier-General Lord Ardee, son of the Earl of Meath, has recovered from the effects of gas-poisoning.

DEGRADED FROM DEGREE OF KNIGHT BACHELOR.

The Home Office last night issued the following announcement:—The King has been pleased by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom to degrade Sir Joseph Jonas from the degree of Knight Bachelor.

THE IRISH UNIONIST ALLIANCE.

A meeting of the County Mayo Branch of the Irish Unionist Alliance was held at Castlemacgarrett, Claremorris, on August 29th—Lord Oranmore and Browne, K.P., the President, in the chair. The following resolution, proposed by the Marquis of Sligo, H.M.L., and seconded by Mr. H. C. Knox, was carried unanimously:—

"That we, the members of the County Mayo Branch of the Irish Unionist Alliance, reaffirm our conviction that the Legislative Union with Great Britain affords the best security for the social, commercial, and agricultural development of Ireland. We tender our thanks to the delegates who represented us on the Irish Convention, which was called together to frame a government for Ireland within the Empire, for the efforts which they made to secure for Unionists, in the event of the establishment of Home Rule, those safeguards for their liberty and prosperity and for that share in the future government of this country to which they are entitled by their numbers and by their contribution to national expenditure, and which were so conspicuously absent from the Government of Ireland Act of 1914."

THE PAGEANT OF WOMAN'S WORK.

It is pleasant to announce the success of all the preliminaries of the Pageant of Woman's Work. Nothing of a similar nature has been organised in Dublin before, and the idea seems to have seized the popular imagination at once. The Pageant procession will embrace many valuable sections of women's work, and detachments of land workers, W.A.A.C.'s, shell factory workers, detachments from the Red Cross, St. John Ambulance, 40 Merrion square, representatives of arts and crafts, home industries, etc., will be included. There will be an Exhibition of very varied industries covering a large section of work of all kinds. The art exhibits (the work of women only) are under the organisation of Mr. James Ward, Mr. Reeves, and Miss Jacob, of the School of Art, and promise to be most interesting.

Aeroplanes will be a prominent feature in the Pageant, and a wing, kindly lent by Belfast, as a sample of the work done in that city, will be on view. The side-shows are many and varied, and include a baby show, a dog show, a cat show, a hare and rabbit show, and many other shows all well worth a visit. Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Tyacke have charge of the tea-tent, and a feature of interest will be the Café Chantant, in which the very popular "Cyclones" will give their attractive entertainment.

The Pageant is in aid of the Nation's Tribute to Nurses, and will be held on Saturday, September 14th, in Viscount Iveagh's Grounds. The Hon. Secs. will be glad to answer any inquiries at 23 Kildare street, Dublin.

MR. BONAR LAW'S TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN TROOPS.

Before the Canadian Press delegates returned to Canada they were entertained at a luncheon given by the Chancellor of the Exchequer at No. 11 Downing street, London. In bidding the editors farewell, Mr. Bonar Law reminded them that Canada was his birth-place, and of his sympathies towards his native country. After referring to the part played by Canadian, Australian, and other Colonial troops, Mr. Bonar Law said he would be greatly disappointed if they did not go back to Canada with the feeling that the people of the old country have played their part in the struggle, too. If the same spirit was shown to the end as hitherto, the result would not be in doubt. Power was on our side, right and justice were on our side, and nothing but our own weakness could prevent us from winning. He was sure that this weakness would not come from the Dominions, who had played so noble a part, or from the men of the mother country, who were so proud of the part the Dominions had played.

ATHLONE FARMER FIRED ON.

Denis Doyle, a small farmer, living near Ballycumber, Athlone, who two years ago took over eight acres of meadow on the strength of an unsatisfied mortgage, was shot at yesterday morning from behind a hedge and wounded in the neck and right arm. The wounds are not regarded as serious. Twice since his occupation the farm was "spiked" and rendered valueless for the season. His house on another occasion was fired into, and a heifer grazing on the disputed land was shot dead. The police are prosecuting inquiries, but have made no arrests.

The Executive Committee of the South Shields Liberal Association has asked Mr. Havelock Wilson to contest the borough at the next General Election.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

The Allies continue to make remarkably good progress in all directions on the western front, and the Canadians are now reported to be only one mile from the Hindenburg switch line. The breaking of this switch line, when it comes about, will be a very serious matter for the enemy, and it may be regarded as certain that there will be a strenuous defence before the Allies are able to break through. Once the Allies succeed in getting through the Hindenburg line the German retreat may develop into a rout at any moment. The German High Command knows this, and will do all that is possible to stem the Allied tide of victory.

News comes to-day that Italy has sent troops to Russia, and that these were received with enthusiasm recently at a British seaport on their way. The forces included Alpini, Bersaghlieri, and special artillery units, and all were men of remarkably fine physique. The appearance of the men aroused admiration among a people used to fine men. It seems that Italy has carefully picked the troops sent to Russia. Most of them are ski-ers, used to mountains and snows, to whom the Russian climate will be more agreeable than to men from the Italian lowlands.

I never thought to see the time when the London constables—that "splendid force," as Mr. Hawtrey used to say in "A Message from Mars"—would come out on strike in a body. There were one or two sectional strikes a few years ago, but they never spread to the main body. One cannot help thinking that there must have been undue delay in attending to their grievances to have caused such a woeful lapse on the part of the guardians of law and order.

Fortunately, London is much better able to cope with such a strike than it was before the war. In the first place, the traffic, in handling which the London policeman is the envy of the civilised world, is much smaller than it used to be, and, in the second, there is now a large body of experienced special constables, the great majority of whom answered promptly to the morning call for their services, though a few declined on the ground that they were not going to act as "blacklegs." So, on the whole, we have got through the day very well, though we shall all be glad when a settlement is effected and the "boys in blue" return to duty.

Whenever a session of Parliament draws to a close the story goes round that the Speaker intends to retire. Mr. Lowther, however, has promptly headed off the story this year. He thinks that the end of the war would be a good opportunity for the election of a new Speaker, and in the meanwhile is willing to continue. This decision will be welcome news to most members of the House of Commons, where great confidence is reposed in the impartiality and courtesy of Mr. Lowther.

He has already beaten the record for length of service of his three immediate predecessors—Mr. Gully (ten years), Mr. Peel (eleven years), and Mr. Brand (twelve years)—and, if we add to the thirteen years that he has been Speaker the ten years that he spent as Chairman of Committees, we have to go back to the early eighteenth century to find a longer tenure of the Chair. Speaker Onslow occupied it from 1728 to 1761.

The suggestion is made to-day that Mr. James Gerard, late United States Ambassador at Berlin, may be sent to London to succeed Dr. Page. The selection would be welcomed here, for Mr. Gerard did well in Berlin under most difficult circumstances, while his splendid work on behalf of the British prisoners of war is well remembered. Then, again, Mr. Gerard has a thorough knowledge of German mentality, which would be invaluable when peace begins to be talked about.

I have recently had the pleasure of seeing a number of Welsh miners, recently called to the Colours, under training, and was greatly impressed by their fine physique and high spirits. Many of them are quite young fellows, and these are most anxious to take their turn of active service. Welsh miners without music are unknown, and the singing of these men is delightful to listen to. They often favour the inhabitants of the town near their quarters with some fine glee-singing, and, taken all round, they are extremely popular.

Here is a passage from General Maurice's article on the war prospects which ought to receive wide publicity:—"If we, as a nation, can be made to realise that full and complete victory is certain, that every able-bodied man sent to France brings the end nearer, that upon us depends the saving of life and treasure by shortening the war, shall we not make a supreme effort to overcome all difficulties and keep our ranks full? Ireland will be lost for all time if she prolongs the war by refusing her help."

The report of the National Gallery for last year has just been issued. It includes the names and descriptions of thirty-nine pictures, mainly of the modern French school, left to the Gallery by the late Sir Hugh Lane. They will eventually be housed in a gallery for modern foreign art which a generous donor, at present anonymous, has offered to build at Millbank as soon as circumstances permit.

COLONEL LYNCH, M.P., AND ULSTER.

When his recent statement that the ideal method of solving the Irish question would be to grant him a mandate with wide powers in the matter was recalled, the Colonel said he still adhered to that statement. He always "stuck to his guns." Asked as to how he proposed to deal with the objections of Ulster to Home Rule, Colonel Lynch said that this was hardly the moment for discussing details. That time would come when the main broad principle had been accepted. One guiding line with him would be that he did not regard the Irish question as that of Ulster versus the rest of Ireland. No solution would be satisfactory to him at any rate—he was simply giving his own views—which did not meet the just demand of Ulster, and make Ulster a happy, as well as a powerful, component of a united nation. He would like to say on the one hand that Ulstermen should look sympathetically on their demand for self-government of the widest scope, also that Nationalists should endeavour to see the matter from Ulster's standpoint, and be prepared to give the fullest assurances—that was to say, assurances of the most substantial kind—on the score of religion and finance. He was inclined to think on the whole that they were beating the air a little on the question of religion, and that when Ireland did finally obtain self-government, which was now inevitable, that the bogey of religious intolerance would vanish at a touch. Be that as it may, he proceeded, he would say also that although his whole political life had been occupied in the struggle for Home Rule, yet if he thought that any man in Ireland would be disparaged on account of his religion under self-government, he would even now turn aside and fight strongly against Home Rule.

On the question of finance also Ulstermen, he heard, were naturally jealous of the position they had attained in the commercial world, and did not wish to be mulcted by unjust taxation which would cripple their industries. If there was danger on that score their objections would be in great part justified, but he believed it would be possible—in fact, it could be done with no great difficulty—to frame a form of self-government and administration that would remove any such danger and leave these great Northern industries intact and secure in such a position that they could look forward to a still greater development.

PRIVATION IN PERSIA.

Recent reports from Persia show that the people are suffering great privation through famine. The Times, on the authority of an Armenian clergyman, states that 40,000 are starving at Teheran, while the C.M.S. and Jews' Society missionaries report that 50,000 are in a similar predicament at Ispahan. An appeal on behalf of these people will be made at Rathmines Parish Church to-morrow evening at the 7 o'clock Service.

HOTEL & TOURISTS' ASSOCIATION OF IRELAND.

HOTEL STRIKE.

NOTICE.

The Members of this Association regret that, owing to the action of the members of the Irish Transport Workers' Union (Hotel Workers' Branch), they have been left without Staff to enable them to carry on even a small part of their business, and they are now unable to provide accommodation or cater for the Public, with the result that it has become necessary to close their premises and suspend Hotel and Restaurant business until further notice.

On the 13th instant a demand for increase in wages and alterations of the long-established conditions of employment was received from the Workers' Union. This demand the employers were unable to entertain as the increases asked for were considered excessive, and it was found impossible at the present time, owing to war conditions, to effect the changes in the conditions of employment demanded by the workers without revolutionising the entire trade. A reply to this effect was given to the Union representatives on the 27th inst., with an intimation that the employers recognised that increases of wages, owing to the increased cost of living, were justified in certain cases, at the same time requesting the workers to present a modified proposal which would be carefully and sympathetically considered by the employers and in the event of an agreement not being arrived at, the employers were willing to go to arbitration. Two meetings between the representatives of the Employers and the Workers were held on Tuesday, 27th instant, and Wednesday, 28th instant. At the second of these meetings modified proposal was submitted by the Workers and a further offer of increase in advance of the first offer made by the Employers was also submitted, but no agreement could be come to, and the meeting terminated with a request from the Workers' Representatives that as many members of the staff as could be dispensed with that night should be allowed off in order to attend a meeting to deal with the Employers' proposals. The necessary permission was at once given.

The next phase was the announcement in the morning papers of the 29th instant of a mass meeting of Hotel Workers on yesterday afternoon. No request was made that the staff should be allowed off, and, as the public are already aware, all work ceased at 2.30 p.m., the various staffs not returning last night.

From this morning's papers it appears that by 1,166 votes to 11 the workers refused the terms offered by the Employers. The members of the Association do not know and have no means of knowing, what issues were submitted to the meeting, but they find it difficult to believe that the Workers present at this meeting decided to go on strike rather than submit the differences as to wages by reason of war conditions to arbitration.

The fact remains, however, that without any notice whatever a general strike of Hotel and Restaurant Workers has been in existence since 2.30 p.m. yesterday.

The members of the Association are still willing to go to Arbitration, and desire to express their regret for any inconvenience or dislocation of business which may be brought about by the action of the Hotel Workers.

By Order of the Committee,
GORDON FOX,

SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1918.

Labour and the War.

Yesterday the British Government gave an official luncheon to the leader of the American Labour movement, and the Prime Minister proposed the toast of his health. It is one of the thousand incidents of to-day that would have been almost inconceivable four years ago. Mr. Samuel Gompers, born in Spitalfields, is now the head of the largest, most powerful, and, at present, most solidly united organisation of Labour in the world. American Labour speaks with one voice on the war, and Mr. Gompers is in England in order to convince British Labour of that tremendous fact. His visit is very welcome, and should have valuable results. The Trade Union Congress will meet next week at Derby. Mr. Gompers will attend it as a "fraternal delegate," and will hear many curious things. Some trade unions will demand immediate peace negotiations with Germany; others will call for an international conference with Russian Bolsheviks, Prussian Socialists, and fishy neutrals. It is even possible that these or similar proposals may be adopted by majorities which will seem, on paper, to carry an immense weight. Such performances are likely to puzzle and sadden American and French Labour at a moment when the armed democracies of Britain, France, and the United States are smashing Germany's armies north and south of the Somme. Mr. Gompers will, perhaps, furnish the Trade Union Congress with some "straight" American talk. Certainly his visit will instruct him in the real feelings of British Labour about the war, and will enable him to clear American Labour's mind of many mischievous misconceptions. He will discover that Mr. Lloyd George spoke plain truth yesterday when he said that the heart of British Labour is perfectly sound, and that ninety-five per cent. of the British working classes are resolved on the defeat of Germany, and are prepared to make any sacrifice for it. Mr. Gompers will learn very quickly that the machinery of British trade unionism has gone "all wrong"—that a small minority of word-spinners has secured a large control over it, and that the "card vote" has become an elaborate imposture. He will be able to tell American Labour that the minority has acquired this control chiefly because the vast majority, busily engaged in winning the war, finds no time to counteract the arts of the wily intriguers of British Socialism.

American Labour must be surprised, however, at the existence of even a small minority of Labour "pacificists" in England. We, perhaps, have been equally surprised at the complete absence of a similar minority in the United States. We had believed that there was a big streak of sentiment in the American character. American journalism and fiction had led us to suppose that the national mind was prone to idealism. Material seemed to exist for a large and troublesome party whose hatred of penal action would be a clog on the efforts of the United States Government to prosecute the war. Britons were right, we believe, about the idealism, and even about the sentiment; but the war has taught them a new thing—that American idealism, while of the loftiest kind, is severely logical. There is a vast difference between the practical idealism of the American democracy in this war and the sloppy idealism of Mr. Arthur Henderson and the British Socialists. The ideals, indeed, are identical; the difference consists in the methods of realising them. British "pacificism," sick—as we all are sick—of so much bloodshed and suffering, wishes to stop it immediately by any means. It credits the German people, rightly, perhaps, with its own desires, but, wrongly, with the power to fulfil them. It is ready to make peace to-morrow with undefeated German militarism on the strength of the canting utterances of a bureaucracy which now sees its only hope of escape in a negotiated peace. American idealism, too, seeks peace and a League of Nations—but a lasting peace and a League of Nations that will be a real guarantee of international security. Its very hatred of bloodshed steels it in the resolve that this war must see the end of the brutal aggressions of a military caste. It perceives that the world's present disorders cannot be healed by a plaster, but demand a radical operation. Germany must be defeated in the field. The German people must be convinced by severe, but just, penalties that a conscienceless militarism does not pay. When it is so convinced we shall have a peace worthy of our utmost sacrifices. That is the mind of American Labour. Mr. Gompers will discover that is also the mind of the mass of those who support the Labour movement in Great Britain.

Against this tremendous solidarity of the English-speaking world a few hundreds of thousands of Irishmen hurl a puny and ignorant defiance. Sane men must be tempted sometimes to feel that some malignant destiny is behind the abysmal folly of Sinn Fein—to wonder whether this country's epitaph will not be found in the words, si fata deûm, si mens non laeva fuisset. Ireland's destinies are in the hands of the British democracy, whose future attitude to us will be influenced largely by the sentiments and wishes of the sister democracy of the United States. Labour has a potent voice in American politics to-day. In Great Britain, as Mr. Lloyd George said yesterday, the power of Labour has been doubled during the last four years. British Labour was once friendly to Nationalist Ireland, and for many generations American Labour was more than friendly. The war gave her an opportunity to grapple the two mighty democracies to her heart with hooks of steel. There was nothing that she might not have asked of them if she had come as an enthusiastic partner into their common cause. Instead, she has presented to the world the tragic spectacle of a land which, once famous for its exalted outlook on human affairs, has forgotten all its ideals, trampled on all its traditions, made itself a byword for stupidity and selfishness. After the war, unless she repents at the eleventh hour, Nationalist Ireland will not have a single friend among the Powers that will refashion all the fortunes of mankind. The future lies with nations which she has deserted in their hour of need. She will have no claim upon their help and sympathy; she will have every claim on their contempt. The world is full of tragedies to-day, but, on the spiritual plane, none is more terrible than Nationalist Ireland's loss of her soul.

The German Retreat.

There was an appreciable stiffening in the German resistance yesterday, and consequently the progress of the Allied Armies was somewhat slower than it had been during the previous two days. Nevertheless, the day brought further important gains. The chief of these was the capture of Bullecourt, in the Arras sector. As we pointed out yesterday, the enemy must endeavour to hold the British forces in this area at all costs, for here they are threatened with the turning of the Hindenburg line, an event which would be little short of disastrous for them. Bullecourt was carried only after the most persistent and determined fighting, and our troops then progressed towards the "switch" line which runs from Quéant to Drocourt, and is the real defensive zone. It consists of five distinct lines of traversed trenches, which are honeycombed with machine-gun emplacements and dug-outs. Riencourt, which was one of the bastions guarding Drocourt, Vaulx-Vraucourt, and Vraucourt were all captured in the morning, and we advanced to within a mile of the "switch" line. Later in the day the enemy brought up strong reinforcements and launched a series of heavy counter-attacks. As a result we were obliged to yield some of the ground gained. We were forced back to the western outskirts of Bullecourt and of Hendecourt. Between these villages we fell back to the trenches from which we had driven the enemy a few hours previously. Further north Canadian troops made a brilliantly successful attack astride the Arras-Courtrai road, and stormed the village of Haucourt. In the Lys sector the enemy continued his withdrawal, and evacuated Bailleul, which is again in our possession. South of Bapaume our advance was strongly contested, but the enemy had to give way before the impetuous attacks of General Rawlinson's forces. Combles, the scene of such bitter struggles in 1916, was carried by storm, and further to the south Cléry-sur-Somme was also captured. Péronne is now outflanked on the south, where our advance elements have forced their way across the river at Biaches and Eterpigny, and its fall can be only a question of days, or, indeed, of hours. British troops have already established themselves in the suburbs. It is likely, however, that the enemy will defend it with no less stubbornness than they defended Bapaume, for on its retention depends their hope to delay the progress of the Allies on the line which roughly follows the Tortille, the Somme from Péronne to Rouy-la-Grande, and the Canal-du-Nord. They could not, it is true, hope to stand on this line for any considerable period, but their aim would be to check the pursuit long enough to allow their main forces to reach the Hindenburg line. The progress of the French on the Noyon-Ham road, apart from the pressure of the British forces, would render the retention of such a line impossible except for a brief period. Meanwhile the French have crossed the Lower Ailette, and have pushed forward along the southern bank of the Oise and into the outskirts of the Coucy Forests, which lie below La Fère, the southern extremity of the Hindenburg line. They overlook the flank and rear of the Germans retreating from Noyon, but the River Oise and the canal form strong protection for the enemy.

Tobacco and Matches.

It will be good news for smokers that the supplies of tobacco will be more plentiful a few weeks hence than they are at present. In common with other cities, Dublin is suffering from an acute shortage of the commodity. Many of the more popular brands of cigarettes and smoking mixtures have been virtually unobtainable for some weeks. The conditions in Dublin, however, are not so bad as those that prevail in Birmingham, where the retailers have been compelled to think of closing their establishments for a week. It appears that, owing to the scarcity of shipping, the imports of tobacco during the first three months of the year were far below the amount required. The Shipping Controller was approached by the Tobacco Control Board, and undertook to make such tonnage available as would bring the year's imports up to the total of last year. That has been done, but the shipments for June and July will not be available for the smoker at once. Other factors which tend to accentuate the shortage are the difficulty in transporting the material from London, Liverpool, and Glasgow, the chief ports of importation, to the manufacturers; the shortage of labour and machinery in the factories; the necessity for maintaining the supplies to our Expeditionary Forces; and the presence in the United Kingdom of large bodies of American troops. Satisfaction at the prospect of increased supplies of tobacco would be increased if the Control Board could hold out a similar promise in regard to matches. The supply in Dublin is wholly inadequate to the demand. It is rumoured that huge stocks of matches have been held up by the Control Board for some inexplicable reason.

COURT CIRCULAR.

VICEREGAL LODGE, DUBLIN.

FRIDAY, 30TH AUGUST.

LORD ARDEE.

DEGRADED FROM DEGREE OF KNIGHT BACHELOR.

The Home Office last night issued the following announcement:—The King has been pleased by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom to degrade Sir Joseph Jonas from the degree of Knight Bachelor.

THE IRISH UNIONIST ALLIANCE.

A meeting of the County Mayo Branch of the Irish Unionist Alliance was held at Castlemacgarrett, Claremorris, on August 29th—Lord Oranmore and Browne, K.P., the President, in the chair. The following resolution, proposed by the Marquis of Sligo, H.M.L., and seconded by Mr. H. C. Knox, was carried unanimously:—"That we, the members of the County Mayo Branch of the Irish Unionist Alliance, reaffirm our conviction that the Legislative Union with Great Britain affords the best security for the social, commercial, and agricultural development of Ireland. We tender our thanks to the delegates who represented us on the Irish Convention, which was called together to frame a government for Ireland within the Empire, for the efforts which they made to secure for Unionists, in the event of the establishment of Home Rule, those safeguards for their liberty and prosperity and for that share in the future government of this country to which they are entitled by their numbers and by their contribution to national expenditure, and which were so conspicuously absent from the Government of Ireland Act of 1914."

THE PAGEANT OF WOMAN'S WORK.

It is pleasant to announce the success of all the preliminaries of the Pageant of Woman's Work. Nothing of a similar nature has been organised in Dublin before, and the idea seems to have seized the popular imagination at once. The Pageant procession will embrace many valuable sections of women's work, and detachments of land workers, W.A.A.C.'s, shell factory workers, detachments from the Red Cross, St. John Ambulance, 40 Merrion square, representatives of arts and crafts, home industries, etc., will be included. There will be an Exhibition of very varied industries covering a large section of work of all kinds. The art exhibits (the work of women only) are under the organisation of Mr. James Ward, Mr. Reeves, and Miss Jacob, of the School of Art, and promise to be most interesting.

Aeroplanes will be a prominent feature in the Pageant, and a wing, kindly lent by Belfast, as a sample of the work done in that city, will be on view. The side-shows are many and varied, and include a baby show, a dog show, a cat show, a hare and rabbit show, and many other shows all well worth a visit. Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Tracke have charge of the tea-tent, and a feature of interest will be the Café Chantant, in which the very popular "Cyclones" will give their attractive entertainment.

The Pageant is in aid of the Nation's Tribute to Nurses, and will be held on Saturday, September 14th, in Viscount Iveagh's Grounds. The Hon. Secs. will be glad to answer any inquiries at 23 Kildare street, Dublin.

MR. BONAR LAW'S TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN TROOPS.

Before the Canadian Press delegates returned to Canada they were entertained at a luncheon given by the Chancellor of the Exchequer at No. 11 Downing street, London. In bidding the editors farewell, Mr. Bonar Law reminded them that Canada was his birth-place, and of his sympathies towards his native country. After referring to the part played by Canadian, Australian, and other Colonial troops, Mr. Bonar Law said he would be greatly disappointed if they did not go back to Canada with the feeling that the people of the old country have played their part in the struggle, too. If the same spirit was shown to the end as hitherto, the result would not be in doubt. Power was on our side, right and justice were on our side, and nothing but our own weakness could prevent us from winning. He was sure that this weakness would not come from the Dominions, who had played so noble a part, or from the men of the mother country, who were so proud of the part the Dominions had played.

ATHLONE FARMER FIRED ON.

Denis Doyle, a small farmer, living near Ballycumber, Athlone, who two years ago took over eight acres of meadow on the strength of an unsatisfied mortgage, was shot at yesterday morning from behind a hedge and wounded in the neck and right arm. The wounds are not regarded as serious. Twice since his occupation the farm was "spiked" and rendered valueless for the season. His house on another occasion was fired into, and a heifer grazing on the disputed land was shot dead. The police are prosecuting inquiries, but have made no arrests.

The Executive Committee of the South Shields Liberal Association has asked Mr. Havelock Wilson to contest the borough at the next General Election.

FRIDAY NIGHT.

The Allies continue to make remarkably good progress in all directions on the western front, and the Canadians are now reported to be only one mile from the Hindenburg switch line. The breaking of this switch line, when it comes about, will be a very serious matter for the enemy, and it may be regarded as certain that there will be a strenuous defence before the Allies are able to break through. Once the Allies succeed in getting through the Hindenburg line the German retreat may develop into a rout at any moment. The German High Command knows this, and will do all that is possible to stem the Allied tide of victory.

News comes to-day that Italy has sent troops to Russia, and that these were received with enthusiasm recently at a British seaport on their way. The forces included Alpini, Bersaghlieri, and special artillery units, and all were men of remarkably fine physique. The appearance of the men aroused admiration among a people used to fine men. It seems that Italy has carefully picked the troops sent to Russia. Most of them are ski-ers, used to mountains and snows, to whom the Russian climate will be more agreeable than to men from the Italian lowlands.

I never thought to see the time when the London constables—that "splendid force," as Mr. Hawtrey used to say in "A Message from Mars"—would come out on strike in a body. There were one or two sectional strikes a few years ago, but they never spread to the main body. One cannot help thinking that there must have been undue delay in attending to their grievances to have caused such a woeful lapse on the part of the guardians of law and order.

Fortunately, London is much better able to cope with such a strike than it was before the war. In the first place, the traffic, in handling which the London policeman is the envy of the civilised world, is much smaller than it used to be, and, in the second, there is now a large body of experienced special constables, the great majority of whom answered promptly to the morning call for their services, though a few declined on the ground that they were not going to act as "blacklegs." So, on the whole, we have got through the day very well, though we shall all be glad when a settlement is effected and the "boys in blue" return to duty.

Whenever a session of Parliament draws to a close the story goes round that the Speaker intends to retire. Mr. Lowther, however, has promptly headed off the story this year. He thinks that the end of the war would be a good opportunity for the election of a new Speaker, and in the meanwhile is willing to continue. This decision will be welcome news to most members of the House of Commons, where great confidence is reposed in the impartiality and courtesy of Mr. Lowther.

He has already beaten the record for length of service of his three immediate predecessors—Mr. Gully (ten years), Mr. Peel (eleven years), and Mr. Brand (twelve years)—and, if we add to the thirteen years that he has been Speaker the ten years that he spent as Chairman of Committees, we have to go back to the early eighteenth century to find a longer tenure of the Chair. Speaker Onslow occupied it from 1723 to 1761.

The suggestion is made to-day that Mr. James Gerard, late United States Ambassador at Berlin, may be sent to London to succeed Dr. Page. The selection would be welcomed here, for Mr. Gerard did well in Berlin under most difficult circumstances, while his splendid work on behalf of the British prisoners of war is well remembered. Then, again, Mr. Gerard has a thorough knowledge of German mentality which would be invaluable when peace begins to be talked about.

I have recently had the pleasure of seeing a number of Welsh miners, recently called to the Colours, under training, and was greatly impressed by their fine physique and high spirits. Many of them are quite young fellows, and these are most anxious to take their turn of active service. Welsh miners without music are unknown, and the singing of these men is delightful to listen to. They often favour the inhabitants of the town near their quarters with some fine glee-singing, and, taken all round, they are extremely popular.

Here is a passage from General Maurice's article on the war prospects which ought to receive wide publicity:—"If we, as a nation, can be made to realise that full and complete victory is certain, that every able-bodied man sent to France brings the end nearer, that upon us depends the saving of life and treasure by shortening the war, shall we not make a supreme effort to overcome all difficulties and keep our ranks full? Ireland will be lost for all time if she prolongs the war by refusing her help."

The report of the National Gallery for last year has just been issued. It includes the names and descriptions of thirty-nine pictures, mainly of the modern French school, left to the Gallery by the late Sir Hugh Lane. They will eventually be housed in a gallery for modern foreign art which a generous donor, at present anonymous, has offered to build at Millbank as soon as circumstances permit.

COLONEL LYNCH, M.P., AND ULSTER.

When his recent statement that the ideal method of solving the Irish question would be to grant him a mandate with wide powers in the matter was recalled, the Colonel said he still adhered to that statement. He always "stuck to his guns." Asked as to how he proposed to deal with the objections of Ulster to Home Rule, Colonel Lynch said that this was hardly the moment for discussing details. That time would come when the main broad principle had been accepted. One guiding line with him would be that he did not regard the Irish question as that of Ulster versus the rest of Ireland. No solution would be satisfactory to him at any rate—he was simply giving his own views—which did not meet the just demand of Ulster, and make Ulster a happy, as well as a powerful, component of a united nation. He would like to say on the one hand that Ulstermen should look sympathetically on their demand for self-government of the widest scope, also that Nationalists should endeavour to see the matter from Ulster's standpoint, and be prepared to give the fullest assurances—that was to say, assurances of the most substantial kind—on the score of religion and finance. He was inclined to think on the whole that they were beating the air a little on the question of religion, and that when Ireland did finally obtain self-government, which was now inevitable, that the bogey of religious intolerance would vanish at a touch. Be that as it may, he proceeded, he would say also that although his whole political life had been occupied in the struggle for Home Rule, yet if he thought that any man in Ireland would be disparaged on account of his religion under self-government, he would even now turn aside and fight strongly against Home Rule.

On the question of finance also Ulstermen, he heard, were naturally jealous of the position they had attained in the commercial world, and did not wish to be mulcted by an unjust taxation which would cripple their industries. If there was danger on that score their objections would be in great part justified, but he believed it would be possible—in fact, it could be done with no great difficulty—to frame a form of self-government and administration that would remove any such danger and leave these great Northern industries intact and secure in such a position that they could look forward to a still greater development.

PRIVATION IN PERSIA.

Recent reports from Persia show that the people are suffering great privation through famine. The Times, on the authority of an Armenian clergyman, states that 40,000 are starving at Teheran, while the C.M.S. and Jews' Society missionaries report that 50,000 are in a similar predicament at Ispahan. An appeal on behalf of these people will be made at Rathmines Parish Church to-morrow evening at the 7 o'clock Service.

IRISH RAILWAY WINTER SERVICES.

DRASTIC CURTAILMENTS EXPECTED.

It is stated that the Railway Executive Committee are at present engaged in reviewing the train services on the different railway lines, and that some very drastic curtailments of the existing services are under consideration. The whole matter is being reconsidered in relation to the coal shortage which has to be faced this winter.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

THE GERMAN PLAN.

If the enemy, says The Times, cannot hold the Drocourt-Quéant line, it is difficult to see where they will make a stand. The piercing of the "Switch," which is now a clear possibility, would affect all the German plans for a very long distance to the south-west. It is said that there is yet another line further back, but it is inconceivable that any line behind can have had the same amount of care and labour which were lavished on the "Switch." The position is that when the last great attempt of the enemy to break through on the Marne and to march on Paris ended in ignominious failure in mid-July, it was apparently decided to retire to a winter line which would give the Allies a maximum of discomfort, and possibly leave the Germans with divisions to spare for their usual autumnal advertisement somewhere else. The rapidity with which Marshal Foch, who plainly read their mind, struck a succession of smashing blows all the way from Arras to Soissons has upset the German plans. We can see the nature of their intention in the skeleton character of their defences, revealed by our attacks at certain points. But we can also see, in the extensive capture of prisoners and material, and in the disorder of their retreat in the Somme area, that they were surprised before their preparations were complete. The weaker divisions have shown a greater readiness to surrender than the Germans have hitherto displayed, but where they could hurry up fresh units they have fought exceedingly stubborn rear-guard actions. The clue to the German plan is probably furnished by the very stout resistance offered north of Bapaume. From St. Léger to the Scarpe, and north of the river also, our troops have had to struggle for every inch of the way, at any rate, after the taking of Monchy. They have not been engaged in a pursuit, but in an extremely hard offensive. The inference seems to be that the Germans intended to make their winter stand on the "Switch," and on the Hindenburg line below Quéant, through St. Quentin, to La Fère. Whether they can do so now depends, as our Special Correspondent points out to-day, upon whether the Higher Command decide to attack "the great barrier" formed by the "Switch." It is premature to assume, just yet, that any withdrawal of a far more sweeping kind will be witnessed.

NEAR THE QUEANT LINE.

The Special Correspondent of The Times telegraphs:—We have made the extremely interesting approach to the Drocourt-Quéant-Hindenburg line. This area is all undulating land of hill and hollow. Bullecourt is on the slopes of one hill or ridge; that lies well behind us now. Across the valley, with irregular indented sides, Riencourt crowns the next rise. Between, and to the north, in the dip between the hills, lies Hendecourt, and then beyond another dip the ground rises to the village of Cagnicourt. Cagnicourt is on the other side of the main Drocourt-Quéant line, the successive trenches of which wind north and south across the slopes of the rise. It is little over a mile from Riencourt to Cagnicourt, and it may be that, as I write, our men are actually fighting in those trenches. It may be, also, that we have no intention to attack the line at present. But what is certain is that there is now no deep outpost zone in front of it, no wide region of elastic defence. The great barrier is bare to us if we choose to attack, and, doubtless, those who direct and overlook the whole course of the battle are weighing the cost of assault against the advantage which would come from piercing the enemy chief line of resistance and turning all his positions to the south. The brilliance of the recent strategy gives assurance that whatever alternative they choose will be the wise one.

THE HINDENBURG LINE.

The Times Correspondent on War writes:—By the capture of Riencourt we acquired an unmistakable bastion of the Switch Line. The enemy put a great big patch on his defences at the juncture of the switch on the Hindenburg Line proper. Riencourt is part of this patch. Bullecourt is also very near it, though it is, as the Australians found last year, a very bad place to debouch from. Unfortunately we were not able yesterday to retain our hold completely on these places, though it is, of course, possible that we may recover them, and, it is to be hoped, improve them. The extreme obstinacy and strength of the enemy's counter-attacks show how great is the importance that he attaches to their possession. He could not abandon places of such great strategic moment without a fierce effort. But, should we succeed in regaining the ground lost here yesterday, and in improving our positions, then, of two things—(1) Either the enemy has a new Switch behind the Quéant positions; or (2) we are on the eve of a much bigger retreat than that of last year. The new Switch might run from La Bassée or Lens, immediately in front of Douai, and so on in a straight line to Marcoing, near Cambrai. But if this new switch does not exist, and we are able to keep the enemy on the move, there would seem to be no line so good as the Hindenburg Line until we reached a line through Valenciennes. It comes, therefore, to this—if we carry the Drocourt-Quéant Switch, and there is no other line behind it, what it means is that Hindenburg will have to be prepared to retire to a line running generally south-east in front of Lille and Valenciennes, to the Meuse. That would be an amazing retreat, but the bare possibility of it, if all goes well, makes the present one of the crises of the war. We shall probably know very soon—perhaps, within a week, if our progress in the Bullecourt region continues at its present rate.

THE LONDON POLICE STRIKE.

So far as present information goes, says The Times, the case seems remarkably clear and simple. The men want two things—more pay and "recognition" of the union they have formed. We are told that the only increase of pay that they have had since the war began is 12s. a week. They ask for £1, and also for an additional war bonus of 12½ per cent., and we do not see how it can be refused them at this time of day. Millions doing less responsible work have already received larger advances than the £1, and the 12½ per cent. is, of course, Mr. Churchill's snowball, now become an avalanche, and long past all control. The time to have stopped it was before it was sent rolling down-hill. Attempts to check it now are worse than futile, and only increase the damage done by its progress. On the other hand, the demand that the £1 advance shall be a permanent addition to wages is much more doubtful. There are some precedents, perhaps, but they are not very good ones. The ground on which war bonuses have been given all along is the cost of living in war-time. To make them permanent is to shift on to quite different ground, and is at least premature. As to recognition of the union, which is probably the more serious difficulty between the Police Force and the authorities, it is another matter altogether, and one involving questions of principle not easy to decide.

THE GERMAN ARMIES NOW IN RETREAT.

The Prime Minister, replying to a telegram of congratulation to the British Army sent by Signor Orlando, Prime Minister of Italy, says:—"I am very grateful for your telegram of congratulations to the British Army. Since our last meeting at the Supreme War Council there has, indeed, been a welcome transformation of the military situation. Thanks to the brilliant leadership of Marshal Foch and the Allied Generals and the splendid valour and enthusiasm of all the Allied troops the German armies are now in retreat. I feel sure that this success is the beginning of the end of the dominance of German militarism."

Yesterday morning the military and police arrested Ignatius and Alexander O'Neill, sons of Mr. P. H. O'Neill, general merchant, Miltown-Malbay. They were removed by military motor waggon to Ennis, and thence to Cork.

Lord Pirrie yesterday concluded an extensive tour of shipyards and marine works on the North-East Coast, with a visit of inspection to the shipbuilding and repairing establishment of Smith's Dock Company, Limited, where new works are under construction. His lordship also visited the dockyard at Middlesbrough, where standard ships and a special type of meat boats are being built.

HOTEL & TOURISTS' ASSOCIATION OF IRELAND.

HOTEL STRIKE.

NOTICE.

The Members of this Association regret that, owing to the action of the members of the Irish Transport Workers' Union (Hotel Workers' Branch), they have been left without Staff to enable them to carry on even a small part of their business, and they are now unable to provide accommodation or cater for the Public, with the result that it has become necessary to close their premises and suspend Hotel and Restaurant business until further notice.

On the 13th instant a demand for increase in wages and alterations of the long-established conditions of employment was received from the Workers' Union. This demand the employers were unable to entertain, as the increases asked for were considered excessive, and it was found impossible at the present time, owing to war conditions, to effect the changes in the conditions of employment demanded by the workers without revolutionising the entire trade. A reply to this effect was given to the Union representatives on the 27th inst., with an intimation that the employers recognised that increases of wages, owing to the increased cost of living, were justified in certain cases, at the same time requesting the workers to present a modified proposal, which would be carefully and sympathetically considered by the employers and in the event of an agreement not being arrived at, the employers were willing to go to arbitration. Two meetings between the representatives of the Employers and the Workers were held on Tuesday, 27th instant, and Wednesday, 28th instant. At the second of these meetings modified proposal was submitted by the Workers and a further offer of increase in advance of the first offer made by the Employers was also submitted, but no agreement could be come to; and the meeting terminated with a request from the Workers' Representatives that as many members of the staff as could be dispensed with that night should be allowed off in order to attend a meeting to deal with the Employers' proposals. The necessary permission was at once given.

The next phase was the announcement in the morning papers of the 29th instant of a mass meeting of Hotel Workers on yesterday afternoon. No request was made that the staff should be allowed off, and, as the public are already aware, all work ceased at 2.30 p.m., the various staffs not returning last night.

From this morning's papers it appears that by 1,166 votes to 11 the workers refused the terms offered by the Employers. The members of the Association do not know and have no means of knowing, what issues were submitted to the meeting, but they find it difficult to believe that the Workers present at this meeting decided to go on strike rather than submit the differences as to wages by reason of war conditions to arbitration.

The fact remains, however, that without any notice whatever a general strike of Hotel and Restaurant Workers has been in existence since 2.30 p.m. yesterday.

The members of the Association are still willing to go to Arbitration, and desire to express their regret for any inconvenience or dislocation of business which may be brought about by the action of the Hotel Workers.

By Order of the Committee,

GORDON FOX.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1918.

Labour and the War.

Yesterday the British Government gave an official luncheon to the leader of the American Labour movement, and the Prime Minister proposed the toast of his health. It is one of the thousand incidents of to-day that would have been almost inconceivable four years ago. Mr. Samuel Gompers, born in Spitalfields, is now the head of the largest, most powerful, and, at present, most solidly united organisation of Labour in the world. American Labour speaks with one voice on the war, and Mr. Gompers is in England in order to convince British Labour of that tremendous fact. His visit is very welcome, and should have valuable results. The Trade Union Congress will meet next week at Derby. Mr. Gompers will attend it as a "fraternal delegate," and will hear many curious things. Some trade unions will demand immediate peace negotiations with Germany; others will call for an international conference with Russian Bolsheviks, Prussian Socialists, and fishy neutrals. It is even possible that these or similar proposals may be adopted by majorities which will seem, on paper, to carry an immense weight. Such performances are likely to puzzle and sadden American and French Labour at a moment when the armed democracies of Britain, France, and the United States are smashing Germany's armies north and south of the Somme. Mr. Gompers will, perhaps, furnish the Trade Union Congress with some "straight" American talk. Certainly his visit will instruct him in the real feelings of British Labour about the war, and will enable him to clear American Labour's mind of many mischievous misconceptions. He will discover that Mr. Lloyd George spoke plain truth yesterday when he said that the heart of British Labour is perfectly sound, and that ninety-five per cent. of the British working classes are resolved on the defeat of Germany, and are prepared to make any sacrifice for it. Mr. Gompers will learn very quickly that the machinery of British trade unionism has gone "all wrong"—that a small minority of word-spinners has secured a large control over it, and that the "card vote" has become an elaborate imposture. He will be able to tell American Labour that the minority has acquired this control chiefly because the vast majority, busily engaged in winning the war, finds no time to counteract the arts of the wily intriguers of British Socialism.

American Labour must be surprised, however, at the existence of even a small minority of Labour "pacificists" in England. We, perhaps, have been equally surprised at the complete absence of a similar minority in the United States. We had believed that there was a big streak of sentiment in the American character. American journalism and fiction had led us to suppose that the national mind was prone to idealism. Material seemed to exist for a large and troublesome party whose hatred of penal action would be a clog on the efforts of the United States Government to prosecute the war. Britons were right, we believe, about the idealism, and even about the sentiment; but the war has taught them a new thing—that American idealism, while of the loftiest kind, is severely logical. There is a vast difference between the practical idealism of the American democracy in this war and the sloppy idealism of Mr. Arthur Henderson and the British Socialists. The ideals, indeed, are identical; the difference consists in the methods of realising them. British "pacificism," sick—as we all are sick—of so much bloodshed and suffering, wishes to stop it immediately by any means. It credits the German people, rightly, perhaps, with its own desires, but, wrongly, with the power to fulfil them. It is ready to make peace to-morrow with undefeated German militarism on the strength of the canting utterances of a bureaucracy which now sees its only hope of escape in a negotiated peace. American idealism, too, seeks peace and a League of Nations—but a lasting peace and a League of Nations that will be a real guarantee of international security. Its very hatred of bloodshed steels it in the resolve that this war must see the end of the brutal aggressions of a military caste. It perceives that the world's present disorders cannot be healed by a plaster, but demand a radical operation. Germany must be defeated in the field. The German people must be convinced by severe, but just, penalties that a conscienceless militarism does not pay. When it is so convinced we shall have a peace worthy of our utmost sacrifices. That is the mind of American Labour. Mr. Gompers will discover that is also the mind of the mass of those who support the Labour movement in Great Britain.

Against this tremendous solidarity of the English-speaking world a few hundreds of thousands of Irishmen hurl a puny and ignorant defiance. Sane men must be tempted sometimes to feel that some malignant destiny is behind the abysmal folly of Sinn Fein—to wonder whether this country's epitaph will not be found in the words, si fata deûm, si mens non laeva fuisset. Ireland's destinies are in the hands of the British democracy, whose future attitude to us will be influenced largely by the sentiments and wishes of the sister democracy of the United States. Labour has a potent voice in American politics to-day. In Great Britain, as Mr. Lloyd George said yesterday, the power of Labour has been doubled during the last four years. British Labour was once friendly to Nationalist Ireland, and for many generations American Labour was more than friendly. The war gave her an opportunity to grapple the two mighty democracies to her heart with hooks of steel. There was nothing that she might not have asked of them if she had come as an enthusiastic partner into their common cause. Instead, she has presented to the world the tragic spectacle of a land which, once famous for its exalted outlook on human affairs, has forgotten all its ideals, trampled on all its traditions, made itself a byword for stupidity and selfishness. After the war, unless she repents at the eleventh hour, Nationalist Ireland will not have a single friend among the Powers that will refashion all the fortunes of mankind. The future lies with nations which she has deserted in their hour of need. She will have no claim upon their help and sympathy; she will have every claim on their contempt. The world is full of tragedies to-day, but, on the spiritual plane, none is more terrible than Nationalist Ireland's loss of her soul.

The German Retreat.

There was an appreciable stiffening in the German resistance yesterday, and consequently the progress of the Allied Armies was somewhat slower than it had been during the previous two days. Nevertheless, the day brought further important gains. The chief of these was the capture of Bullecourt, in the Arras sector. As we pointed out yesterday, the enemy must endeavour to hold the British forces in this area at all costs, for here they are threatened with the turning of the Hindenburg line, an event which would be little short of disastrous for them. Bullecourt was carried only after the most persistent and determined fighting, and our troops then progressed towards the "switch" line which runs from Quéant to Drocourt, and is the real defensive zone. It consists of five distinct lines of traversed trenches, which are honeycombed with machine-gun emplacements and dug-outs. Riencourt, which was one of the bastions guarding Drocourt, Vaulx-Vraucourt, and Vraucourt were all captured in the morning, and we advanced to within a mile of the "switch" line. Later in the day the enemy brought up strong reinforcements and launched a series of heavy counter-attacks. As a result we were obliged to yield some of the ground gained. We were forced back to the western outskirts of Bullecourt and of Hendecourt. Between these villages we fell back to the trenches from which we had driven the enemy a few hours previously. Further north Canadian troops made a brilliantly successful attack astride the Arras-Courtrai road, and stormed the village of Haucourt. In the Lys sector the enemy continued his withdrawal, and evacuated Bailleul, which is again in our possession. South of Bapaume our advance was strongly contested, but the enemy had to give way before the impetuous attacks of General Rawlinson's forces. Combles, the scene of such bitter struggles in 1916, was carried by storm, and further to the south Cléry-sur-Somme was also captured. Péronne is now outflanked on the south, where our advance elements have forced their way across the river at Biaches and Eterpigny, and its fall can be only a question of days, or, indeed, of hours. British troops have already established themselves in the suburbs. It is likely, however, that the enemy will defend it with no less stubbornness than they defended Bapaume, for on its retention depends their hope to delay the progress of the Allies on the line which roughly follows the Tortille, the Somme from Péronne to Rouy-la-Grande, and the Canal-du-Nord. They could not, it is true, hope to stand on this line for any considerable period, but their aim would be to check the pursuit long enough to allow their main forces to reach the Hindenburg line. The progress of the French on the Noyon-Ham road, apart from the pressure of the British forces, would render the retention of such a line impossible except for a brief period. Meanwhile the French have crossed the Lower Ailette, and have pushed forward along the southern bank of the Oise and into the outskirts of the Coucy Forests, which lie below La Fère, the southern extremity of the Hindenburg line. They overlook the flank and rear of the Germans retreating from Noyon, but the River Oise and the canal form strong protection for the enemy.

Tobacco and Matches.

It will be good news for smokers that the supplies of tobacco will be more plentiful a few weeks hence than they are at present. In common with other cities, Dublin is suffering from an acute shortage of the commodity. Many of the more popular brands of cigarettes and smoking mixtures have been virtually unobtainable for some weeks. The conditions in Dublin, however, are not so bad as those that prevail in Birmingham, where the retailers have been compelled to think of closing their establishments for a week. It appears that, owing to the scarcity of shipping, the imports of tobacco during the first three months of the year were far below the amount required. The Shipping Controller was approached by the Tobacco Control Board, and undertook to make such tonnage available as would bring the year's imports up to the total of last year. That has been done, but the shipments for June and July will not be available for the smoker at once. Other factors which tend to accentuate the shortage are the difficulty in transporting the material from London, Liverpool, and Glasgow, the chief ports of importation, to the manufacturers; the shortage of labour and machinery in the factories; the necessity for maintaining the supplies to our Expeditionary Forces; and the presence in the United Kingdom of large bodies of American troops. Satisfaction at the prospect of increased supplies of tobacco would be increased if the Control Board could hold out a similar promise in regard to matches. The supply in Dublin is wholly inadequate to the demand. It is rumoured that huge stocks of matches have been held up by the Control Board for some inexplicable reason.

COURT CIRCULAR.

VICEREGAL LODGE, DUBLIN.

FRIDAY, 30TH AUGUST.

LORD ARDEE.

DEGRADED FROM DEGREE OF KNIGHT BACHELOR.

The Home Office last night issued the following announcement:—The King has been pleased by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom to degrade Sir Joseph Jonas from the degree of Knight Bachelor.

THE IRISH UNIONIST ALLIANCE.

A meeting of the County Mayo Branch of the Irish Unionist Alliance was held at Castlemacgarrett, Claremorris, on August 29th—Lord Oranmore and Browne, K.P., the President, in the chair. The following resolution, proposed by the Marquis of Sligo, H.M.L., and seconded by Mr. H. C. Knox, was carried unanimously:—

"That we, the members of the County Mayo Branch of the Irish Unionist Alliance, reaffirm our conviction that the Legislative Union with Great Britain affords the best security for the social, commercial, and agricultural development of Ireland. We tender our thanks to the delegates who represented us on the Irish Convention, which was called together to frame a government for Ireland within the Empire, for the efforts which they made to secure for Unionists, in the event of the establishment of Home Rule, those safeguards for their liberty and prosperity and for that share in the future government of this country to which they are entitled by their numbers and by their contribution to national expenditure, and which were so conspicuously absent from the Government of Ireland Act of 1914."

THE PAGEANT OF WOMAN'S WORK.

It is pleasant to announce the success of all the preliminaries of the Pageant of Woman's Work. Nothing of a similar nature has been organised in Dublin before, and the idea seems to have seized the popular imagination at once. The Pageant procession will embrace many valuable sections of women's work, and detachments of land workers, W.A.A.C.'s, shell factory workers, detachments from the Red Cross, St. John Ambulance, 40 Merrion square, representatives of arts and crafts, home industries, etc., will be included. There will be an Exhibition of very varied industries covering a large section of work of all kinds. The art exhibits (the work of women only) are under the organisation of Mr. James Ward, Mr. Reeves, and Miss Jacob, of the School of Art, and promise to be most interesting.

Aeroplanes will be a prominent feature in the Pageant, and a wing, kindly lent by Belfast, as a sample of the work done in that city, will be on view. The side-shows are many and varied, and include a baby show, a dog show, a cat show, a hare and rabbit show, and many other shows all well worth a visit. Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Tyacke have charge of the tea-tent, and a feature of interest will be the Café Chantant, in which the very popular "Cyclones" will give their attractive entertainment.

The Pageant is in aid of the Nation's Tribute to Nurses, and will be held on Saturday, September 14th, in Viscount Iveagh's Grounds. The Hon. Secs. will be glad to answer any inquiries at 23 Kildare street, Dublin.

MR. BONAR LAW'S TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN TROOPS.

Before the Canadian Press delegates returned to Canada they were entertained at a luncheon given by the Chancellor of the Exchequer at No. 11 Downing street, London. In bidding the editors farewell, Mr. Bonar Law reminded them that Canada was his birth-place, and of his sympathies towards his native country. After referring to the part played by Canadian, Australian, and other Colonial troops, Mr. Bonar Law said he would be greatly disappointed if they did not go back to Canada with the feeling that the people of the old country have played their part in the struggle, too. If the same spirit was shown to the end as hitherto, the result would not be in doubt. Power was on our side, right and justice were on our side, and nothing but our own weakness could prevent us from winning. He was sure that this weakness would not come from the Dominions, who had played so noble a part, or from the men of the mother country, who were so proud of the part the Dominions had played.

ATHLONE FARMER FIRED ON.

Denis Doyle, a small farmer, living near Ballycumber, Athlone, who two years ago took over eight acres of meadow on the strength of an unsatisfied mortgage, was shot at yesterday morning from behind a hedge and wounded in the neck and right arm. The wounds are not regarded as serious. Twice since his occupation the farm was "spiked" and rendered valueless for the season. His house on another occasion was fired into, and a heifer grazing on the disputed land was shot dead. The police are prosecuting inquiries, but have made no arrests.

The Executive Committee of the South Shields Liberal Association has asked Mr. Havelock Wilson to contest the borough at the next General Election.

FRIDAY NIGHT.

The Allies continue to make remarkably good progress in all directions on the western front, and the Canadians are now reported to be only one mile from the Hindenburg switch line. The breaking of this switch line, when it comes about, will be a very serious matter for the enemy, and it may be regarded as certain that there will be a strenuous defence before the Allies are able to break through. Once the Allies succeed in getting through the Hindenburg line the German retreat may develop into a rout at any moment. The German High Command knows this, and will do all that is possible to stem the Allied tide of victory.

News comes to-day that Italy has sent troops to Russia, and that these were received with enthusiasm recently at a British seaport on their way. The forces included Alpini, Bersaghlieri, and special artillery units, and all were men of remarkably fine physique. The appearance of the men aroused admiration among a people used to fine men. It seems that Italy has carefully picked the troops sent to Russia. Most of them are ski-ers, used to mountains and snows, to whom the Russian climate will be more agreeable than to men from the Italian lowlands.

I never thought to see the time when the London constables—that "splendid force," as Mr. Hawtrey used to say in "A Message from Mars"—would come out on strike in a body. There were one or two sectional strikes a few years ago, but they never spread to the main body. One cannot help thinking that there must have been undue delay in attending to their grievances to have caused such a woeful lapse on the part of the guardians of law and order.

Fortunately, London is much better able to cope with such a strike than it was before the war. In the first place, the traffic, in handling which the London policeman is the envy of the civilised world, is much smaller than it used to be, and, in the second, there is now a large body of experienced special constables, the great majority of whom answered promptly to the morning call for their services, though a few declined on the ground that they were not going to act as "blacklegs." So, on the whole, we have got through the day very well, though we shall all be glad when a settlement is effected and the "boys in blue" return to duty.

Whenever a session of Parliament draws to a close the story goes round that the Speaker intends to retire. Mr. Lowther, however, has promptly headed off the story this year. He thinks that the end of the war would be a good opportunity for the election of a new Speaker, and in the meanwhile is willing to continue. This decision will be welcome news to most members of the House of Commons, where great confidence is reposed in the impartiality and courtesy of Mr. Lowther.

He has already beaten the record for length of service of his three immediate predecessors—Mr. Gully (ten years), Mr. Peel (eleven years), and Mr. Brand (twelve years)—and, if we add to the thirteen years that he has been Speaker the ten years that he spent as Chairman of Committees, we have to go back to the early eighteenth century to find a longer tenure of the Chair. Speaker Onslow occupied it from 1723 to 1761.

The suggestion is made to-day that Mr. James Gerard, late United States Ambassador at Berlin, may be sent to London to succeed Dr. Page. The selection would be welcomed here, for Mr. Gerard did well in Berlin under most difficult circumstances, while his splendid work on behalf of the British prisoners of war is well remembered. Then, again, Mr. Gerard has a thorough knowledge of German mentality, which would be invaluable when peace begins to be talked about.

I have recently had the pleasure of seeing a number of Welsh miners, recently called to the Colours, under training, and was greatly impressed by their fine physique and high spirits. Many of them are quite young fellows, and these are most anxious to take their turn of active service. Welsh miners without music are unknown, and the singing of these men is delightful to listen to. They often favour the inhabitants of the town near their quarters with some fine glee-singing, and, taken all round, they are extremely popular.

Here is a passage from General Maurice's article on the war prospects which ought to receive wide publicity:—"If we, as a nation, can be made to realise that full and complete victory is certain, that every able-bodied man sent to France brings the end nearer, that upon us depends the saving of life and treasure by shortening the war, shall we not make a supreme effort to overcome all difficulties and keep our ranks full? Ireland will be lost for all time if she prolongs the war by refusing her help."

The report of the National Gallery for last year has just been issued. It includes the names and descriptions of thirty-nine pictures, mainly of the modern French school, left to the Gallery by the late Sir Hugh Lane. They will eventually be housed in a gallery for modern foreign art which a generous donor, at present anonymous, has offered to build at Millbank as soon as circumstances permit.

COLONEL LYNCH, M.P., AND ULSTER.

When his recent statement that the ideal method of solving the Irish question would be to grant him a mandate with wide powers in the matter was recalled, the Colonel said he still adhered to that statement. He always "stuck to his guns." Asked as to how he proposed to deal with the objections of Ulster to Home Rule, Colonel Lynch said that this was hardly the moment for discussing details. That time would come when the main broad principle had been accepted. One guiding line with him would be that he did not regard the Irish question as that of Ulster versus the rest of Ireland. No solution would be satisfactory to him at any rate—he was simply giving his own views—which did not meet the just demand of Ulster, and make Ulster a happy, as well as a powerful, component of a united nation. He would like to say on the one hand that Ulstermen should look sympathetically on their demand for self-government of the widest scope, also that Nationalists should endeavour to see the matter from Ulster's standpoint, and be prepared to give the fullest assurances—that was to say, assurances of the most substantial kind—on the score of religion and finance. He was inclined to think, on the whole that they were beating the air a little on the question of religion, and that when Ireland did finally obtain self-government, which was now inevitable, that the bogey of religious intolerance would vanish at a touch. Be that as it may, he proceeded, he would say also that although his whole political life had been occupied in the struggle for Home Rule, yet if he thought that any man in Ireland would be disparaged on account of his religion under self-government, he would even now turn aside and fight strongly against Home Rule.

On the question of finance also Ulstermen, he heard, were naturally jealous of the position they had attained in the commercial world, and did not wish to be mulcted by unjust taxation which would cripple their industries. If there was danger on that score their objections would be in great part justified, but he believed it would be possible—in fact, it could be done with no great difficulty—to frame a form of self-government and administration that would remove any such danger and leave these great Northern industries intact and secure in such a position that they could look forward to a still greater development.

PRIVATION IN PERSIA.

Recent reports from Persia show that the people are suffering great privation through famine. The Times, on the authority of an Armenian clergyman, states that 40,000 are starving at Teheran, while the C.M.S. and Jews' Society missionaries report that 50,000 are in a similar predicament at Ispahan. An appeal on behalf of these people will be made at Rathmines Parish Church to-morrow evening at the 7 o'clock Service.

IRISH RAILWAY WINTER SERVICES.

DRASTIC CURTAILMENTS EXPECTED.

It is stated that the Railway Executive Committee are at present engaged in reviewing the train services on the different railway lines, and that some very drastic curtailments of the existing services are under consideration. The whole matter is being reconsidered in relation to the coal shortage which has to be faced this winter.

THE GERMAN PLAN.

If the enemy, says The Times, cannot hold the Drocourt-Quéant line, it is difficult to see where they will make a stand. The piercing of the "Switch," which is now a clear possibility, would affect all the German plans for a very long distance to the south-west. It is said that there is yet another line further back, but it is inconceivable that any line behind can have had the same amount of care and labour which were lavished on the "Switch." The position is that when the last great attempt of the enemy to break through on the Marne and to march on Paris ended in ignominious failure in mid-July, it was apparently decided to retire to a winter line which would give the Allies a maximum of discomfort, and possibly leave the Germans with divisions to spare for their usual autumnal advertisement somewhere else. The rapidity with which Marshal Foch, who plainly read their mind, struck a succession of smashing blows all the way from Arras to Soissons has upset the German plans. We can see the nature of their intention in the skeleton character of their defences, revealed by our attacks at certain points. But we can also see, in the extensive capture of prisoners and material, and in the disorder of their retreat in the Somme area, that they were surprised before their preparations were complete. The weaker divisions have shown a greater readiness to surrender than the Germans have hitherto displayed, but where they could hurry up fresh units they have fought exceedingly stubborn rear-guard actions. The clue to the German plan is probably furnished by the very stout resistance offered north of Bapaume. From St. Léger to the Scarpe, and north of the river also, our troops have had to struggle for every inch of the way, at any rate, after the taking of Monchy. They have not been engaged in a pursuit, but in an extremely hard offensive. The inference seems to be that the Germans intended to make their winter stand on the "Switch," and on the Hindenburg line below Quéant, through St. Quentin, to La Fère. Whether they can do so now depends, as our Special Correspondent points out to-day, upon whether the Higher Command decide to attack the great barrier formed by the "Switch." It is premature to assume, just yet, that any withdrawal of a far more sweeping kind will be witnessed.

NEAR THE QUEANT LINE.

The Special Correspondent of The Times telegraphs:—We have made the extremely interesting approach to the Drocourt-Quéant-Hindenburg line. This area is all undulating land of hill and hollow. Bullecourt is on the slopes of one hill or ridge; that lies well behind us now. Across the valley, with irregular indented sides, Riencourt crowns the next rise. Between, and to the north, in the dip between the hills, lies Hendecourt, and then beyond another dip the ground rises to the village of Cagnicourt. Cagnicourt is on the other side of the main Drocourt-Quéant line, the successive trenches of which wind north and south across the slopes of the rise. It is little over a mile from Riencourt to Cagnicourt, and it may be that, as I write, our men are actually fighting in these trenches. It may be, also, that we have no intention to attack the line at present. But what is certain is that there is now no deep outpost zone in front of it, no wide region of elastic defence. The great barrier lies bare to us if we choose to attack, and, doubtless, those who direct and overlook the whole course of the battle are weighing the cost of assault against the advantage which would come from piercing the enemy chief line of resistance and turning all his positions to the south. The brilliance of the recent strategy gives assurance that whatever alternative they choose will be the wise one.

THE HINDENBURG LINE.

The Times Correspondent on War writes:—By the capture of Riencourt we acquired an unmistakable bastion of the Switch Line. The enemy put a great big patch on his defences at the juncture of the switch on the Hindenburg Line proper. Riencourt is part of this patch. Bullecourt is also very near it, though it is, as the Australians found last year, a very bad place to debouch from. Unfortunately we were not able yesterday to retain our hold completely on these places, though it is, of course, possible that we may recover them, and, it is to be hoped, improve them. The extreme obstinacy and strength of the enemy's counter-attacks show how great is the importance that he attaches to their possession. He could not abandon places of such great strategic moment without a fierce effort. But, should we succeed in regaining the ground lost here yesterday, and in improving our positions, then, of two things—(1) Either the enemy has a new Switch behind the Quéant positions; or (2) we are on the eve of a much bigger retreat than that of last year. The new Switch might run from La Bassée or Lens, immediately in front of Douai and so on in a straight line to Marcoing, near Cambrai. But, if this new switch does not exist, and we are able to keep the enemy on the move, there would seem to be no line so good as the Hindenburg line until we reached a line through Valenciennes. It comes, therefore, to this—if we carry the Drocourt-Quéant Switch, and there is no other line behind it, what it means is that Hindenburg will have to be prepared to retire to a line running generally south-east in front of Lille and Valenciennes, to the Meuse. That would be an amazing retreat, but the bare possibility of it, if all goes well, makes the present one of the crises of the war. We shall probably know very soon—perhaps, within a week, if our progress in the Bullecourt region continues at its present rate.

THE LONDON POLICE STRIKE.

So far as present information goes, says The Times, the case seems remarkably clear and simple. The men want two things—more pay and "recognition" of the union they have formed. We are told that the only increase of pay that they have had since the war began is 12s. a week. They ask for £1, and also for an additional war bonus of 12½ per cent., and we do not see how it can be refused them at this time of day. Millions doing less responsible work have already received larger advances than the £1, and the 12½ per cent. is, of course, Mr. Churchill's snowball, now become an avalanche, and long past all control. The time to have stopped it was before it was sent rolling down-hill. Attempts to check it now are worse than futile, and only increase the damage done by its progress. On the other hand, the demand that the £1 advance shall be a permanent addition to wages is much more doubtful. There are some precedents, perhaps, but they are not very good ones. The ground on which war bonuses have been given all along is the cost of living in war-time. To make them permanent is to shift on to quite different ground, and is at least premature. As to recognition of the union, which is probably the more serious difficulty between the Police Force and the authorities, it is another matter altogether, and one involving questions of principle not easy to decide.

THE GERMAN ARMIES NOW IN RETREAT.

The Prime Minister, replying to a telegram of congratulation to the British Army sent by Signor Orlando, Prime Minister of Italy, says: "I am very grateful for your telegram of congratulations to the British Army. Since our last meeting at the Supreme War Council there has, indeed, been a welcome transformation of the military situation. Thanks to the brilliant leadership of Marshal Foch and the Allied Generals and the splendid valour and enthusiasm of all the Allied troops the German armies are now in retreat. I feel sure that this success is the beginning of the end of the dominance of German militarism."

Yesterday morning the military and police arrested Ignatius and Alexander O'Neill, sons of Mr. P. H. O'Neill, general merchant, Miltown-Malbay. They were removed by military motor waggon to Ennis, and thence to Cork.

Lord Pirrie yesterday concluded an extensive tour of shipyards and marine works on the North-East Coast, with a visit of inspection to the shipbuilding and repairing establishment of Smith's Dock Company, Limited, where new works are under construction. His lordship also visited the dockyard at Middlesbrough, where standard ships and a special type of meat boats are being built.

OPEN WARFARE.

FRESH BRITISH ADVANCE.

TOWARDS WOTAN LINE.

MOBILE ARTILLERY WORK.

ENEMY SHELLING BAILLEUL.

Writing on Friday, the Press Association's Special Correspondent at the Correspondents' Headquarters in France says:—Both north and south in the great British battle area open warfare is becoming more open still. The attack launched by the Third Army at dawn this morning has been completely successful, and I believe we are now at one place actually within about three hundred yards of the Quéant-Drocourt line. This system is an even more elaborate obstacle than the original Hindenburg line, consisting, as is reported, of five distinct lines of traversed trenches, honeycombed with machine gun emplacements and deep dug-outs, and wired with belts of great depth.

This morning's attack was on a comparatively limited front, as battles go now. Ecoust St. Menin seems to have been garnered after sharp resistance, and the strong redoubt in the ruin of Bullecourt Station has been cleared of the enemy. Fighting their way through Hendecourt, some of our troops apparently reached the eastern fringe of Riencourt, which is practically one of the bastions guarding the Drocourt line. Here the struggle became very bitter. It is interesting to learn that a new division has been identified in this fighting, which was last heard of at Château-Thierry, where it was so cut up by the Americans that it was withdrawn as no longer war-worthy. From what I hear this description would still seem to apply to the infantry, although the machine gunners fought stoutly. The same West Lancashire and London troops who did so well yesterday have gained fresh distinction in to-day's battle, not the least important feature in which is the fact of having penetrated further east in this region than we have yet been since 1914. Further north, and nearer the Scarpe, in the fighting of yesterday afternoon, British battalions had thrust forward to an average depth of a mile, whilst beyond the Scarpe Scottish troops had still further enlarged our war map. I am referring to these successes of the previous day because, although they are now old news, the later operations must be regarded in relation to them. We have been gradually straightening our front towards the German Wotan line, as they themselves call the Drocourt system.

EFFECTIVE ARTILLERY WORK.

One of the most remarkable features of the fighting now in progress is the promptitude with which our artillery moves forward. I am not speaking only of the field batteries, which are necessarily mobile. The manner in which our heavies have been moved over broken and littered roads and across shell-tossed country is little short of marvellous. This afternoon quite a concentration of heavy howitzers and 60-pounders has sprung into being on what was yesterday the front line, and these weapons are plastering the enemy positions widely. There is another point, apropos of this, which must compel admiration. In the earlier days of the war we still cherished the old belief that it took seven years to make a gunner. We were wont to attribute the fact that our new Army batteries could make even decent practice to the static conditions of the conflict. Once a trench or a redoubt has been registered, marksmanship is comparatively simple. But now we find our field guns galloping into action, or our "heavies" trundling into position with their teams, unlimbering, swinging around, and picking up the ranges with a smartness and a precision which has laid that seven years' superstition for ever in the dust. Whatever differences of opinion you may hear amongst the various arms of the Service, their tribute to the gunners is unanimous in its heartiness.

Eastward of Bapaume our line has flowed steadily, although not uninterruptedly, forward, throughout the day. The important little town of Vaulx-Vraucourt appears to be in our hands, and we are fighting at or near Beaulencourt, Fremicourt, and Bancourt. The rattle of intense machine-gunfire was proceeding from the ruins of Morval this morning, and evidently there are Boche pockets in the place, which our men are dealing with. The tanks are doing great service in tackling difficult spots of obstinate resistance, although I believe we are using these somewhat sparingly.

From much further northward comes a very interesting bits of news. The Germans are reported to have been shelling Bailleul heavily during the morning. This may not necessarily mean that we are in the place, but, if true it certainly looks as if they were out of it and expected us to be there.

The weather is ideal for fighting—clear and crisp—and our airmen are taking a greater hand in harassing and observing the enemy than has been possible for some time.

It is rather interesting to learn that some of the latest prisoners taken by the Fourth Army speak of the present bad phase as only temporary, being convinced that Ludendorff will shortly restore the situation. They were under the impression that the reverse was quite local, and were genuinely incredulous when told the extent of the German set-back.

BULLECOURT TO THE SCARPE.

THE BRITISH ADVANCE.

The Press Association, dealing with the military situation early on Friday, says—The latest information is to the effect that the British have made an advance of approximately two thousand yards on a front of, roughly, seven miles from Bullecourt to the Scarpe River. Our troops in this region are now well over the Hindenburg line, and have reached a point within about a mile of the Drocourt-Quéant switch line near Riencourt lez Cagnicourt, south of Bullecourt, which is in British hands.

The French now hold the line of the Somme River and canal down to Noyon. They occupy the northern and eastern suburbs of this town, and also the village of Morlincourt.

The British line, according to the latest information, now runs from Arleux, west of Oppy, over Greenland Hill, where we hold the old German line west of Plouvain and Boiry-Notre Dame, east of Lonnoy Mill, and Remy-Haucourt to Riencourt lez Cagnicourt. Further south our troops occupy the general line of Beaulencourt-Morval-Combles and east of Maurepas. Then we hold the River Somme from Buscourt, where the Somme turns in a southernly direction, and right away down we border on the river. North of Biaches we have an advance post over the Somme.

LONDON POLICE STRIKE.

REMARKABLE SITUATION.

The London City Police have been called out on strike to join their brothers of the Metropolitan Force, and this evening Mr. Carmichael, Secretary of the London Trades Council, stated that the City Police had struck to a man. A body of 150 police in plain clothes marched from Scotland Yard to the Home Office, where they were addressed by Mr. Marston. He told them they had been invited to meet General Smuts, who previously had received a deputation from the superintendents of the police in the London area. Inside the Home Office the Executive were told that General Smuts would only see a committee of two representatives from each police division. The Executive thereupon withdrew.

About six thousand police met on the Tower Hill last night. Mr. James Marston said the Labour movement was in full sympathy with the police. He did not blame the superintendents for going to the Home Office to represent the rank and file, but he blamed the men who had submitted to the system. All branches of the movement and the City men had come in, and every branch would remain on strike until they obtained their object.

Mr. Carmichael, Secretary of the London Trades Council, said he informed Sir Frederick Woodhouse at Scotland Yard on Tuesday that there was likely to be trouble, but he did not believe it. The Manchester men were waiting for the call, and would come out if they did not get their demands. They were going to send a notice to the authorities that the Executive would be at the Home Office at twelve o'clock.

AN EXCITING INCIDENT.

A procession was then formed, and marched to the West End. The march was not without incident. Special constables were endeavouring to regulate the traffic, and were bantered. The 'bus girls shouted, "Stick it and you'll win, the same as we did." The venue of the procession proved to be Vine street Police Station, where it was supposed that uniform men were being detained. This proved to be due to a misunderstanding, and threatened serious disorder. The crowd rushed for the entrance, and surged backwards and forwards, and for a time pandemonium prevailed.

The absence of police from the streets was very noticeable all the way from the City to the West End. Trafalgar square at noon was a mass of uncontrolled traffic, but the coolness and skill of the drivers prevented accidents.

At Bow street Police Court several remand cases, which should have been dealt with yesterday, had to be postponed owing to the non-arrival of the prison van from Brixton, it being understood that the police officers usually in charge of the van were on strike. At Rochester row Police Station only inspectors and sergeants were on duty, and as the morning wore on the sergeants joined the strikers.

It is officially stated that the men have been told that, provided they return to duty, the Government will give full and sympathetic consideration to their representations.

SIBERIAN FIGHTING.

An Exchange Tientsin official notification states that Japanese, discovering the mutilated bodies of comrades on the battlefield of the Ussuri front, charged in the teeth of machine guns and routed their opponents. The Allies are progressing without serious checks.

WAR SITUATION.

THE GERMAN RESISTANCE STIFFENING.

ENEMY VACATE BAILLEUL.

FRENCH ADVANCE NORTH OF SOISSONS.

Discussing the military situation on Friday night, the Press Association says:—According to reports reaching London up to 3.30 this afternoon, it would appear that the German resistance to our advance along the Somme battle front has to some extent stiffened, and the progress of the British Forces during the day has somewhat slackened down. Advanced posts, however, have been established across the Somme, north of Eterpigny and south of Biaches. The holding of these positions will give the British command of Péronne. Cléry-sur-Somme, three miles north-west of Péronne, is also safely in our hands.

Travelling further north, we still retain a firm hold of Combles, but Morval and Beaulencourt are held by the Germans. From there our line runs through Riencourt-les-Bapaume, and we are also in possession of Fremicourt, a place three miles east of Bapaume, on the Bapaume-Cambrai road. The captures of Vaulx-Vraucourt and Vraucourt are also reported, but the sugar factory west of Vraucourt is still held by the enemy, though nearly surrounded. The enemy is still resisting at Ecoust St. Menin.

From Bullecourt northwards the progress during the day has been fairly satisfactory, and at some points we have advanced our line across the Hindenburg line to within a mile of the famous switch line running from Quéant to Drocourt.

The principal captures in the areas are Reincourt-les-Cagnicourt, Hendecourt, and Haucourt. We have also taken Lannoy Mill, one and a half miles north-east of Haucourt, and, on the banks of the Sensée, Pelves, Greenland Hill, and Gavrelle are wholly in our possession; but we are still west of Plouvain and Oppy.

The enemy still continue to retreat in Flanders, and have evacuated Bailleul and Noote Boom, three miles south of Bailleul. The Germans, however, still hold Monte-des-Lille, which is about 1,000 yards south-east of Bailleul.

The French are reported to have made a successful advance north of Soissons, where they have captured Hill 159 and the high ground south of Leury.

BRITISH HOLD DEFENCES OF PERONNE.

The Paris Correspondent of the Press Association says:—The latest news from the front states that, following on the capture of Combles and Cléry, the battle is continuing under excellent conditions. The British now hold all the defences of Péronne.

L'Heure reports that fighting is taking place in the suburbs of Péronne, which the British are attacking in force.

The Intransigeant writes:—To the north and east of Soissons the struggle is continuing with violence. To the north-east of Nesle, in the elbow formed by the Somme and the Canal du Nord, the Germans are putting up a desperate resistance, but we may take it that they will not remain there long, and we shall soon be masters of Ham.

RECRUITING CAMPAIGN.

MEETING IN NEWRY.

COLONEL LYNCH'S APPEAL.

EXCITING INCIDENTS.

Considerable excitement characterised the recruiting rally held at Newry last night under the auspices of the local Recruiting Committee, the military having to be called out. The chief speakers were Colonel Lynch, Serjeant Sullivan, and Captain O'Grady, and as soon as Colonel Lynch rose to speak the Sinn Feiners at once made their presence known by vigorous booing, groaning, and the singing of the "Soldier's Song." There were counter cheers and groans, and at one period the police drew their batons and dispersed the disturbers, who, however, reassembled in front of the police cordon, and noisily interrupted the proceedings. A message was sent to the military barracks, and a party of thirty armed men of the Royal Defence Corps arrived at the scene of the meeting, which was in Marcus square, while sixty more stood by in the military barracks. Their services were not required, but the Sinn Feiners, nevertheless, still kept up their interruptions. Aeroplanes circled over the meeting while it was in progress. The proceedings were, save for the interrupters, most enthusiastic, and close on thirty recruits were obtained.

At the outset of the meeting Colonel Robertson, V.C., presented Mr. Patrick Kelly, of High street, Newry, with the military medal won by his son, Private Patrick Kelly, Irish Fusiliers, who had since been killed in action.

Serjeant Sullivan, K.C., who was heard without interruption, asked if it would not be better for the Irish people to keep the old flag flying along with the Stars and Stripes on the Ancre and the Somme. (Cheers.) Forty years ago they raised an Irish Brigade that fought the Prussian at Sedan on behalf of gallant France. To-day he asked them to forget political and other grievances, and strike a blow for the greatest right, because if Germany came out victorious in this war liberty could not exist. (Cheers.)

On Colonel Lynch coming forward groans and disorder immediately broke out, the Sinn Feiners indulging in such vigorous vocalism and booing that he could scarcely make himself heard beyond the brake from which he spoke. Newry, he said, had set a noble example in the matter of recruiting that would be an inspiration to him throughout the length and breadth of Ireland. It required greater courage, he assured the interrupters, to face the German bullets than to stand there shooting off their mouths under the camouflage of a noble patriotism. (Cheers and disorder.) This war, he mentioned, was Ireland's war as much as it was France's, America's, England's, or Italy's, and but for the British Fleet they would know what invasion was by Germany. Any young man who had the strength to bear arms should, he asserted, be ashamed to live in the country of his birth if he was not prepared to defend it.

Captain O'Grady, who was also subjected to running comments and general interruptions, appealed to Irishmen to do their duty in this the greatest struggle in the world's history.

The crowd, which numbered between 5,000 and 6,000 persons, remained in the vicinity of the meeting for hours afterwards, singing.

AID OF THE BIOSCOPE.

The following message to "young Ireland" from Colonel Lynch and Captain O'Grady will be shown on the screen at the Dublin cinema theatres next week:—

"Democracy will judge our fellow-Irishmen by their attitude towards the war. Hitherto the response to the call to play their part in this world struggle has been magnificent, but circumstances demand greater effort. The military defeat of Germany is certain, but that certainty will be the more speedily realised if young Ireland will resolve now to be in at the victory. Patriotic young Irishmen, carry on the splendid fighting tradition of our race; join Lynch's Irish Brigade."

NUMBERS RECRUITED.

The dial at the Recruiting Headquarters, Kildare street, last night showed that the total number of recruits attested in the Dublin area to date was a few over 800. The quota for the Dublin area is 12,600.

RECRUITS' DEPARTURE FROM DUBLIN.

Seventy-two new recruits marched down to the North Wall last evening, and were embarked by the usual line of cross-Channel steamers for conveyance to training quarters in Great Britain. Eighty-two similar voluntary recruits were sent away from Dublin on the preceding day. It might be added that a batch of other men—who were not either Irishmen or voluntary recruits, but collected "absentees from the Reserve"—were also sent across the Irish Sea from Dublin yesterday, but happily by an earlier steamer than that employed to convey the new recruits.

SATISFACTORY RESPONSE IN LIMERICK.

Since the opening of voluntary recruiting in Limerick about a fortnight ago, under the supervision of Colonel Williamson, Royal Munster Fusiliers, close on three hundred volunteers have been obtained. The outlook is promising for a successful attempt to reach the required quota.

PROGRESS IN WEXFORD.

Captain W. Redmond, M.P., D.S.O., accompanied by General Hammond and Lieutenant Richardson, of the Recruiting Department, visited Wexford, and interviewed the Mayor, ex-Mayor, and some prominent citizens with a view to furthering local recruiting. A conference has been arranged. General Hammond states that the citizens he interviewed are in favour of an immediate local campaign, and hopes to meet with a good response. The number of recruits attested in Wexford within the past few weeks totals 50, of whom 20 joined this week.

CONSCRIPTION AND NORTH-WEST RECRUITING.

The recruiting authorities in the North-West, in an appeal for 5,700 recruits, addressed to the young men of the district, ask: "Will you join now as free men able to choose your unit in the Army, Navy, or Air Force, or will you wait till you have to join, and have no chance as to where you are sent? Will you give your quota, or must three times as many be taken under compulsion?"

Two German prisoners escaped from Brimwead Camp yesterday.

HEAVY FIGHTING AT MANY POINTS.

FIERCE STRUGGLE FOR BULLECOURT.

FURTHER IMPORTANT CAPTURES.

MANY TANKS TAKE PART IN THE FIGHTING.

A feature of the official reports from the Western front is the references to the hard fighting which is taking place at various points, indicating a stiffening of the German resistance.

In the morning communiqué Sir Douglas Haig reported the capture of Bullecourt and Hendecourt les Cagnicourt, also Cléry-sur-Somme and Combles. In the night communiqué he reports that we have entered Riencourt and Bancourt. We have also captured Fremicourt and Vaulx-Vraucourt.

In consequence of heavy enemy pressure at Bullecourt and Hendecourt our troops have been forced to the western outskirts of these villages.

According to the German report, tanks have played an important part in the fighting. The enemy claims to have destroyed many.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

Friday, 11.25 a.m.

In spite of the destruction of the river bridges, our advanced troops have crossed the Somme both south and west of Péronne.

We have taken Cléry Sur Somme and Combles, and in this area alone took over 200 prisoners and a few guns.

North of Bapaume, London and West Lancashire troops made important progress yesterday afternoon east of the Sensée River, capturing Bullecourt, Hendecourt, and Les Cagnicourt, after hard fighting, together with powerful German trench systems protecting these villages.

Between Hendecourt and the Arras-Cambrai road an attack delivered by Canadian troops early this morning is reported to be developing favourably.

Astride the Scarpe English and Scottish Divisions continued their advance yesterday afternoon, and have gained valuable ground in the direction of Eterpigny and Hamblain les Pres and Plouvain.

The village of Remy is held by us.

A number of prisoners were captured by us in these operations.

In the valleys of the Lawe and Lys Rivers our troops continue to push forward.

8.5 p.m.

East and north of Bapaume our operations are proceeding satisfactorily, in spite of increased hostile resistance. Hard fighting has taken place on the greater part of this front, and a number of heavy counter-attacks have been made by the enemy. Our troops have entered Riencourt Les Bapaume and Bancourt, where they have been actively engaged with the enemy throughout the day.

They have captured Fremicourt and Vaulx-Vraucourt, taking a number of prisoners, and have reached the western outskirts of Beugny.

At Ecoust St. Mein the enemy is still maintaining an obstinate defence, though closely pressed by our troops, who have taken a number of prisoners in this locality.

At Bullecourt and Hendecourt hostile counter-attacks, delivered with much determination by strong forces, compelled our troops to fall back to the western outskirts of these villages, and to the German trench system between them, where the enemy's attack was stopped by our fire.

North of these villages the attack launched this morning by Canadian troops astride the Arras-Cambrai road has been successful.

The enemy's defences between Hendecourt and Haucourt have been captured, together with the latter village and several hundred prisoners.

South of Bapaume our troops have maintained a vigorous pressure upon the enemy, and have gained ground. We have made progress east and north-east of Cléry, and in this sector have taken 300 prisoners.

In the Lys sector the enemy is continuing his withdrawal, closely followed by our troops.

The town of Bailleul is again in our possession.

Aviation.—Eleven hostile machines were shot down by us on August 23, and 10 driven down out of control. One German balloon was set on fire. Nine of our machines are missing. Our airmen were actively engaged in all departments of their work throughout the day. 15½ tons of bombs were dropped on a variety of targets, including Bruges Docks and the many railway connections beyond the battle zone. Unfavourable weather stopped night flying.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Friday.

On the Somme and in the region of the Canal du Nord there was no change during the night.

Between the Ailette and the Aisne we repulsed several enemy counter-attacks east of Pasly, and we maintained our gains.

On the Vesle and in Champagne enemy raids did not achieve any result.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

Friday.

Army Groups of Crown Prince Rupprecht and General von Boehn.—There have been forefield engagements on both sides of the Lys and north of the Scarpe.

South-east of Arras the enemy's infantry and tanks advancing on the battlefield were taken under the effective fire of our artillery and battleplanes. Towards noon the enemy resumed his attacks. Their centre of gravity yesterday was south of the Arras-Cambrai road. In severe fighting we beat back the enemy, who launched several assaults from Chérsy and Fontaine against Handecourt.

Further south the British penetrated into Bullecourt and Reincourt. Bitter fighting raged here in the trench system and craterfield of former battles. Reincourt was wrested again from the enemy, and the eastern part of Bullecourt was recaptured.

At noon the enemy extended his attacks as far as the north-east of Bapaume. For the most part they broke down under our fire. Five times he attacked in vain from St. Leger and Mory. A great number of tanks were destroyed.

North of the Somme, in connection with the movements carried out south of the river, we have shifted our defence to a line running east of Bapaume to north-west of Péronne.

Yesterday the enemy followed hesitatingly, advancing beyond the line Bapaume-Combles-Maurchas.

Between Péronne and the Oise infantry engagements took place on the west bank of the Somme and of the canal. Strong attacks, which the enemy launched south-east of Nesle, and from Noyon against our new lines north-east of the town, were repulsed.

On the Ailette the French obtained a footing on the east bank west of Formbray, but only to a slight depth. Between the Ailette and the Aisne they resumed their attacks in co-operation with Americans. Between Pont St. Mard and Chauvigny they stormed our lines from the early morning. Tanks constantly advanced anew in front of dense attacking waves of infantry. Magdeburg, Hanoverian, Thuringan, and the Guard regiments completely frustrated the heavy attacks of the enemy, which were carried out with double superiority of forces. Seventy-two tanks were shot to pieces. The non-commissioned officer, Cropmeir, and the private soldiers, Manske and Schlottan, of the 1st Machine Gun Company of the 1st Foot Guards Regiment, together, destroyed five tanks. Twenty tanks were destroyed by the 155th Infantry Regiment. The French suffered a severe defeat here yesterday. Their losses were unusually high. We captured prisoners from ten different divisions.

Friday Evening.

Great English attacks on a wide front south-east of Arras have failed. There have been local engagements north-east of Noyon and on the Ailette.

GERMANY'S PERIL.

CAPTAIN VON SALZMANN'S COLD COMFORT.

Captain von Salzmann, in Wednesday's Vossische Zeitung, writes under the heading "Close up the Ranks":—We have everything to lose by a big step forward on the part of the enemy. On the other hand, if we advance, our enemies lose comparatively little, for behind them is always the open sea, which is dominated by Great Britain and her satellites. We cannot give in; we must continue to fight. Moreover, it is not in our hands to end the war. So long as our enemies want to destroy our State we must defend ourselves. A great offensive battle in the West is at the present being fought in the terrain between the old line of 1914 and the Hindenburg line. We are drawing the enemy into that terrible wilderness in order then to hold him upon given lines. Almost insurmountable difficulties of supply will then remain on the British, French, and American side, thus placing in question from the start the success of every future offensive between Arras and Laon. That is one of the express aims of our Army Command. I am far from asserting that Foch is not a worthy opponent. Quite the reverse. But what has Foch hitherto attained? He has nowhere on the entire front been able to produce on the German side the disorder which would alone have rendered possible a break through of the German lines. So long as Hindenburg and Ludendorff can maintain their divisions, their artillery, their airmen, and their supplies in the manner they have hitherto done, there is no danger, and we have no reason to fear that this state of affairs will alter in the immediate future. Had Hindenburg and Ludendorff at their disposal the inexhaustible human material forces which Foch has, then the German soldiers would long since have been not only in Paris, but spread over the entire world. With us every man is fighting for his existence. If Britain dictates peace to us there can be no doubt that Germany will disappear from the map.

WAR IN THE AIR.

GOOD RESULTS OF WEEK'S FIGHTING.

The Press Association, in the weekly résumé of the war in the air, says:—During the week we have bombed nine German cities in the course of seventeen raids into Germany. In addition, we have maintained a ceaseless assault by air upon German coastal strongholds in Belgium. At the same time, we have engaged and defeated the enemy's main air forces upon a front extending for over fifty miles. During the past week British airmen have dropped over two hundred tons of bombs upon the enemy organisations in the battle area alone. By day and night, vigorous and most successful attacks have been made upon railways and centres of communication behind the enemy lines, including the railway junctions at Douai, Valenciennes, Marcoing, Cambrai, and Semain. From photographs taken by British airmen over Cambrai, where a big fire was started by one of our bombs, it was seen to be still burning furiously twenty-four hours later, having twice burned through the station, and spread ultimately to some large sheds outside.

The Independent Air Force communiqué of last night says:—On the morning of 30th inst. our machines attacked the railway station at Conflans and a hostile aerodrome. Direct hits were observed both on the hangars at the aerodrome and the railways at Conflans. In the course of fighting, one enemy aeroplane was destroyed, all our machines returning safely. Another attack was carried out by one of our squadrons on the stations at Conflans and Thionville. This squadron engaged a largely superior number of hostile machines. Fierce fighting ensued, in the course of which one enemy aeroplane was destroyed, and one put out of control. Four of our machines are missing.

According to the frontier correspondent of the Telegraaf, travellers from Germany state that 40 persons were killed in the last aerial attack on Cologne. It is also reported that entire streets in Mannheim have been devastated by British attacks, and that the Bingen and Coblenz Aniline Works have been levelled to the ground by bombs dropped by the Allies.

LABOUR AND THE WAR.

PREMIER'S TRIBUTE TO MR. GOMPERS.

GERMAN LABOUR AND MILITARISM.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labour, and other members of the American mission were entertained at an official luncheon yesterday at the Carlton Hotel, London. Mr. Barnes presided, and those present included Mr. Lloyd George, Viscount Milner, Mr. Churchill, Lord Robert Cecil, Lord Reading, and others.

Mr. Lloyd George, proposing "Our Guests," said—My task is to offer a welcome to our eminent guests. I do so for two reasons. One is that the country which they come from, and which they represent at this moment—a great country, a country cradled in freedom and nurtured in freedom, a country which has been the refuge of millions in many generations who have fled from political and economic servitude in many lands, and a country which, during all its great traditions has been the champion and the protector of freedom—that country is now engaged in an undertaking and is placing the whole of its resources at the disposal of this great struggle for liberty, the greatest struggle the world has ever seen. We welcome them for the great country they represent as we salute the flag of their glorious land. (Cheers.) We welcome them also for their own sakes. They are the official leaders of the great labour community of America. Mr. Samuel Gompers's name is one of the few international names, one of the few names which is as well known in other countries as it is in his own. If I may say so, he is as well known as the Mississippi. (Laughter and cheers.) I think I may claim him to myself as a kindred spirit. He was one of the very few people who approved of me before the war—(laughter)—and, therefore, to me his presence here is doubly welcome. He and I have very largely the same ideals; we can say that we are fighting the same battle, and he and I, when the war came, in a true Christian spirit have forgiven the people who were suspicious of us—(laughter)—and we are fully prepared to co-operate with them for the attainment of ideals we have always fought for.

DEMOCRATIC PROGRESS.

Mr. Gompers has devoted his life and his great abilities to democratic progress. He is fighting the same battle now in the war as he was fighting before. (Cheers.) It is not that he has changed his mind. It is not that he has changed his direction. It is not that he has altered his purpose. It is not that he has started a new career. He is pursuing the same career now. He is climbing towards the same ideals. He is struggling for the same aims as he has devoted his long and honourable career to before the war. (Cheers.) In this war men of all classes have contributed. (Hear, hear.) They have contributed in the sacrifices; they have contributed in suffering. There has been no distinction of classes in this land during the war either in intention, in action, or in endurance. (Cheers.) For all that I say without any hesitation that victory in this war—and I am sure Mr. Gompers will agree with me—that victory in this war means more to those who have to get their bread by the sweat of their brow than it does for any other class. And it is a very remarkable fact—it is, at any rate, a significant fact—that if you look at this country, with very few exceptions—I do not know that I can recall them now—the genuine leaders of Labour, the men who work themselves, the men who know what the need of the worker is, what the worker's conditions are, it is significant that without exception those men have convinced themselves that victory in this war is essential to what they have been championing all their lives—that is true here. It is true in France, it is true in Italy, and it is true in America; and the fruit of it is that we have the distinguished and famous leader of trades unionism in America throwing the whole of his great strength into the prosecution of this war.

GERMAN LABOUR.

Before the war German Labour was becoming more and more convinced that it could never attain its ideals, or achieve the emancipation of the class it represented without overthrowing the domination of Prussian militarism. Each election demonstrated that that force was deepening and broadening in Germany. But they failed. The task which they failed to accomplish by pacific means we are endeavouring to achieve by other means in this great war. We are achieving for them, not merely security to the world against the menace which they suffered from, but we are achieving emancipation from the bondage which they endured. It was becoming more and more intolerable to them year by year. It was becoming so intolerable to them that it was obvious to every man who saw what was going on in Germany that if it had gone on for several years you would have had an uprising which would have overthrown all military domination. That is why we are at war to-day. If that class which made war were to succeed the condition of the working classes in Germany would be worse; but not merely that; that domination would sweep beyond the frontiers of Germany and extend to all parts of the world, and that is why we find the leaders of Labour in every country and continent throwing the whole of their strength into the attainment of victory. You could have no more genuine proof of the conviction of those who are prosecuting the war, not merely that it is in the interests of the working classes themselves that you should secure victory, but that the working classes themselves know and understand that fact, than that during the war we have in this country doubled the power of the working classes. And those who are most afraid of asking the question whether the war should be prosecuted with all the vigour and power of the nation are not those who know Labour best. Our guests come from a land whose passion for liberty is deep as the ocean that washes its shores, as wide as the great plains of that Continent, as restless as the mighty sweep of its rivers.

Mr. G. H. Roberts, Minister of Labour, in supporting the toast, said he agreed with their guests that we had to prosecute the war vigorously, and so long as pride and pity remained in the world we would never forget the crimes committed by Germany in this war. We know, went on Mr. Roberts, that the contact of our guests with patriotic labour in this country will help us to defeat the efforts of those who would trick us into meeting with enemy subjects. I have always opposed manœuvres of that kind, because I believe Stockholm and other vices are inspired by the German Government, who would not allow passports to any except those they regarded as safe from their point of view.

LORD READING.

Lord Reading, who also spoke to the toast, described Mr. Gompers as one of the best friends and staunchest supporters of the Allied cause. Mr. Gompers not only spoke the view of the working-people of the United States, but he led opinion, and ran very great risks in consequence. He took those risks determined that if necessary he would fall in the cause he believed was honest and just, and in that spirit he carried along with him in a great flood of enthusiasm the working-people of America. He had shown also that, after all, capital and labour might work together in a good cause. If this co-operation could be continued after the war it would, after all, be the best safeguard which human ingenuity could devise for the benefit of humanity and the progress of the world, preservation of liberty, and the continuance of justice and security, which alone made life worth living.

MR. GOMPERS.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, replying to the toast, said that, as one in part representing the great masses of the workers of America, he could claim that they were whole-heartedly in this struggle. It was realised in America that nothing is quite so important now as winning the war. Those who were pacifists before the war were in a twinkle transformed into fighting men. It was their object to secure such a peace as would ensure the freedom of the world.

THE SPANISH SITUATION.

The Madrid newspapers, says a Reuter's telegram, devote great space to an examination of the situation of Spain from the international point of view. The Imparcial says:—We consider absolute silence is not at all opportune. The Cabinet should be supported by the confidence of the country, but should not conceal from it the enormous responsibility resulting from decisions which will have great influence on our future. The international situation presents serious difficulties for Spain. The moment is not critical, but it does require the serious attention of the country. The Government should immediately summon Parliament so that it may be brought into touch with the feelings of the representatives of the nation.

FIRE IN DUBLIN.

A serious fire occurred this morning at the premises of the Dublin Clothing Co., Ltd., Mespil road. Much damage was done to the factory and its contents. When two sections of the Pembroke Fire Brigade, in charge of Captain Hutson, arrived on the scene, the premises were well ablaze. Several lines of hose were at once laid down, and up to three o'clock this morning the fire was still in progress, the flare being visible from a considerable distance.

It is stated that the damage amounts to several thousand pounds. The factory, which employs 120 hands, was completely gutted.

DUBLIN HOTELS TO CLOSE.

EFFECT OF STRIKE.

AWKWARD SITUATION OF CITY VISITORS.

PROPOSED ARBITRATION.

Unless some unexpected development occurs, all the Dublin and district hotels, restaurants, and cafés, whose proprietors are members of the Hotel and Tourists' Association of Ireland, will be closed to-night, and business suspended "until further notice." Such is the decision made at a meeting of the proprietors yesterday morning. Their announcement is to the effect that, owing to the action of the members of the Irish Transport Workers' Union (Hotel Workers' Branch), they are left without staff to enable them to carry on even a small part of their business. The proprietors reiterate that they are still willing to submit the matters in dispute to arbitration.

Two meetings of the employés were held yesterday at the Trades Hall. The first was delayed in starting by prospects of some minor settlements, and work was resumed on agreed terms with the proprietors at the Standard Hotel, Harcourt street, Woolworth's Café, Henry street, and Flynn's Café, D'Olier street. The second meeting was devoted to organisation of strike arrangements, picketing, and so on. Picketing was not very much in evidence during the early part of the day, probably owing to the meetings, at which there was a large attendance. Capel street, outside the Trades Hall, was thronged with hotel employés and other persons on strike. In the middle of the day, however, delegates of the union entered the premises of the Café Cairo, and interviewed the manageress. The occurrence attracted a large crowd, which had to be dispersed by the police. The café remained open, and was largely patronised, and two other cafés in Grafton street were also open.

THE RESTAURANTS.

A walk down Grafton street in the afternoon was illuminating as to the situation. Fry's Café, opposite to the Café Cairo, bore on its bolted doors the word "Closed." At Woolworth's Café chairs were piled together, and the rooms were empty, while Mitchell's and the Princess Café both wore a Sabbath appearance with their closed doors. The same sight presented itself at the Wicklow Hotel, a popular dining resort, and all the doors of Jammet's Restaurant were closed tight also. Roberts's Café, however, was open, and presented a busy scene. In Westmoreland street the D.B.C. and Harrison's Restaurant had ceased business, but at Bewley's Oriental Café it was proceeding as usual, as it was on Thursday, while round the corner, in D'Olier street, the Red Bank Restaurant was closed. Some of R. J. Wilson's cafés managed to survive the stress. The Empire Restaurant, Nassau street, was closed, but the Bon Bouche Restaurant, in Grafton street, continued its business.

Some relief was found by mid-day diners at the public-house bars, while others met the situation by bringing food with them to town, or making hurried visits to their homes.

CLUBS UNAFFECTED.

Inquiries at the leading clubs showed them to be unaffected by the strike, and in consequence of it there was an influx of visitors with members to solve the lunch problem.

It was at the hotels that the strike was felt most severely, and the managers had an anxious time in providing in some fashion for the wants of their guests. Most of the hotels are full, the season being one in which they have to cater for people in Dublin for the purpose of attending race meetings, while the numerous men up from the country have in many instances brought their wives with them to enjoy the pleasures of the city. In addition, a large business is done in providing accommodation for commercial travellers. Many military and naval officers also are in town.

At the Shelbourne Hotel the notice was exhibited, "This hotel is closed," and an officer, who asked if he could have anything to eat, got the reply, "No servants, no meals." None of the hotels is receiving new visitors, who have to find what accommodation they may in private lodgings and boarding houses. Visitors remaining in the hotels made the best they could of the situation, and had to turn and do what they could for themselves. Some of them who had friends in the city or suburbs looked them up at an early hour, and one unfortunate householder found his visitor so ravenous that his appetite could only be stayed with three eggs costing fivepence each. However, hotel guests as a rule got breakfasts of some kind, and, if they were of an obliging disposition, lent a hand in "cleaning up" afterwards. Luncheon generally was a make-shift affair, but some of the hotels managed to provide a fair sort of meal.

The question was put to two or three hotel managers as to whether members of their staff living in returned to the premises to sleep, but the replies were that nothing had been seen of them since Thursday afternoon.

CATERING FOR "COMMERCIALS."

As a rule, the managers were not loquacious on the situation, but the remarks of the manager of Jury's Hotel, which does a large business with "commercials" and with the diningroom, threw interesting light upon it. The hotel was very quiet, like most of them, the "commercials" having gone off by early trains, while new guests had to be refused accommodation. "Out of a staff of forty-three, there are two left, myself and my wife. I have been up all night preparing early breakfasts for the 'commercials.' We managed to get seventy or eighty breakfasts—boiled eggs and tea. The guests came along, and took their own food from the stillroom. We had to turn away fifty or sixty persons looking for lunch and numbers who wanted bedrooms; which are left with the bed unmade and everything just as it stood."

At the Granville Hotel the manager said: "We fed our people on Thursday night: it was not dinner, but an evening meal. The hotel is full; we have been full for the past two months. Our guests have looked after themselves in a very helpful way, but they have no sympathy with the strikers now, though they had some at first. We are carrying on in a rough-and-ready way with our present guests. As to rooms, all we can tell them is that 'the beds are there, but they will be at night as they were left in the morning. We can shelter, but not feed you.'"

The doors of the hotel were closed, as were those of the Gresham Hotel close by, and those of the Edinburgh Hotel on the other side of the street.

In reply to a question, one hotel manager said that the result of the proprietors' decision was that guests would have to leave the hotels this evening.

EMPLOYES' STATEMENT.

A statement, in reply to that published yesterday by the proprietors, has been issued on behalf of the employés. It states that in most of the establishments affected a notice was posted by the management on Thursday, 29th inst., to the effect that business would be suspended between 2.30 and 5.30 p.m., owing to the absence of the staffs, who had gone to take a ballot vote on offers made by the employers. During the course of the ballot the representatives of the workers requested the representatives of the employers to meet them that evening, in order that a joint statement containing terms of reference for arbitration might be issued for consideration of a general meeting of workers on Thursday evening and the general meeting of the employers on Friday morning. This suggestion was made in order that at the last moment an amicable settlement might be arrived at. The representatives of the employers, however, unanimously declined to agree to this suggestion, and it was their refusal to meet the representatives of the workers on Thursday evening that made the workers unanimously decide to adjourn their meeting of Thursday until 12 noon on Friday. This adjournment was made in order that the employers might have every opportunity of continuing negotiations with the workers. At the general meeting of the workers the Union's representatives fulfilled their undertaking to place the whole of the employers' offers before a general body, and all the documents presented by the employers were discussed by the workers. Amongst the employers' proposals was the suggestion that the question of wages alone be submitted to arbitration. To this limited arbitration the workers were unable to agree. Throughout the negotiations, and as late as 4.45 p.m. on Thursday—that is, during the ballot of the workers—the Union and the workers were quite willing to submit their whole body of claims to arbitration. This full arbitration has been refused by the employers, but the workers are still agreeable to submit their whole case to arbitration. In the meanwhile the meeting of the workers stands adjourned until the Association is willing to meet their representatives with or without an arbitrator.

PROPOSED ARBITRATION.

In consequence of the willingness of the employers to refer the matters in dispute to arbitration, the Lord Mayor has communicated with the officials of the employés Association, who state that they are also willing to arbitrate. With a view to bringing about a settlement, the Lord Mayor has appealed to both parties to come together at once, and, with that object, he has invited them to meet in conference at the Mansion House this morning at 11.30 o'clock.

The servants at Bray Head Hotel struck work yesterday morning.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

BOLSHEVIK DEFEAT IN SIBERIA.

JAPANESE PURSUIT.

Mr. Falk, Special Correspondent of the Daily Mail in the Far East, telegraphs:—The Bolsheviks have suffered a heavy defeat on the Ussuri (the river which divides Manchuria and the maritime province of Siberia, in which Vladivostok lies). In three days of fighting they have been driven back quickly, and are now in flight towards Khabarovsk (400 miles north of Vladivostok, and at the confluence of the Ussuri and Amur Rivers). They have lost 4,000 in killed.

FURTHER GAINS BY THE FRENCH.

Last night's French communiqué says:—

During the day we hurled back on the eastern bank of the Canal du Nord enemy elements which were still holding out. Catigny and Sermaize are ours.

Continuing their progress, our troops crossed the Canal at two places opposite Catigny and Beauvrains, captured Chevilly and Hill 69, and penetrated into Genvry.

In the course of these actions we took several hundred prisoners. Between the Oise and the Aisne the struggle was no less keen. On the northern banks of the Ailette we captured the village of Champs. North of Soissons we gained possession of Chauvigny and Cuffies, and carried our lines to the outskirts of Crouy.

Aviation.—During the night of August 29th our day bombing machines attacked the Forest of Pinon and the railway stations of Anizy le Château, and the crossings of the Ailette in this region. More than 48 tons of projectiles were dropped. Twenty enemy aeroplanes were shot down, or fell in a damaged condition.

TO BERLIN.

Americans, says the Washington Correspondent of the Morning Post, are in a buoyant frame of mind, and while they are not foolishly talking about the war being over when they know there is still much very stiff fighting to be done, they are certain the Hun is on the run, and that the increasing number of men which America is supplying will accelerate his progress. As the Allied Armies continue to drive the German back to his own soil, Americans think more and more of the time when their armies will be in Germany, and deep and wide and ineffaceable they will make their mark. I talked to-day with a man who has an international reputation. A year ago he wanted Germany defeated, but any suggestion of revenge or reprisal he dismissed as unworthy. To-day he made no apology when he said: "We must not end this until we have put our mark upon Germany and our troops have marched through Berlin."

WRETCHED GERMANS.

Describing a visit to Bapaume, Mr. Philip Gibbs, Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, says:—In all these places there were German wounded, and down the tracks from Bapaume came many German prisoners captured a few hours ago in the new battle on the heights outside. They seemed to me a most wretched-looking lot of men, and I saw some hundreds of them newly caught. They had a dazed, senseless look, and were drooping and downcast, like beaten animals—the worst looking set of Germans I have seen in recent days. And no wonder, for they must have had a dreadful and terrifying time, without rest from the pursuit of our men, and have been driven into the fight relentlessly by officers behind the lines. The roses on my table, plucked at Bapaume, are a sweeter sight than the things that lie about the battlefields, but the sweetness of life to our soldiers is that their courage and their sacrifice have not been in vain. To-day, as on many recent days, they are reaping the fruits of victory from one end of the line to the other, and the whole British Army is moving forward with a great vision in front of it—the vision of the last victory which will end all this fighting.

NORWAY AND GERMAN SUBMARINES.

"Pertinax," writing in the Echo de Paris on the advantages gained over the German submarines, says:—One can rest assured that by the end of the year the Allies will have built a million tons of shipping more than the tonnage lost by torpedoes. He declares that Norway has failed to prevent the German submarines from making use of her territorial waters, and says that the Allies have made a joint demand to Norway to see that her neutrality is respected.

WHISKEY AT 18/4 A BOTTLE.

Many London publicans yesterday increased the price of whiskey in their saloon bars from 7d. to 8d. a tot (five to the quartern), says the Daily Mail. Others retained their prices at 6d. and 7d. Although the controlled price of whiskey is 9s., a bottle containing 5½ quarterns, retailed at 8d. a tot, works out at 18s. 4d.

KING INSPECTS AIR FORCE CADETS.

PRINCE ALBERT A SQUADRON COMMANDER.

When the King went to a South coast town yesterday morning he saw one of the most effective and inspiring sights which could well be imagined in these days when the Royal Air Force is coming into daily increasing prominence. The object of the visit was to see the Royal Air Force Cadet Brigade in training, and an additional incentive was supplied by the fact that Prince Albert, His Majesty's second son, is a cadet in command of one of the squadrons. His Majesty was attended by Commander Sir Charles Cust, R.N., and the Earl of Cromer, and the visit was as informal as it was possible to make it.

General Critchley, in command of the brigade, and the Mayor of the town, received the King, and the huge crowd gave him a loyal welcome. But all ceremony was dispensed with. Outside the arrival station an Empire guard of honour was posted, consisting of men of six feet and over, from all parts of the Empire, including the British Isles, Canada, Australia, South Africa, and New Zealand. A Canadian band was in attendance, and played the National Anthem as His Majesty emerged to take the salute of this particularly fine guard of honour.

The Royal visitor learned that one of the principal aims of the depôt is to stimulate army and civilian interest in the science of aviation in view of the enormous potentialities of the Air Force in a future which its supporters believe will not be far distant. Care is taken to instil discipline of the highest and most exacting kind under the novel plan of leaving it largely to the honour of the cadets themselves. They, and not the officers, deal with any breaches that may arise, and their pride in their profession, with their zeal for its good name, have proved such strong factors that the behaviour of these cadets is little short of exemplary. General Critchley is full of wholesome enthusiasm, and the King saw early evidence that he has succeeded in inspiring officers and men alike.

The cadets in all their evolutions yesterday worked like a perfect machine, and would have done no discredit to a brigade of seasoned Guardsmen.

HUMAN FLAG UNFURLED.

His Majesty saw the brigade drawn up in review order in imposing array, and on the sunny slope of a hill in the rear of the parade ground was what appeared to be a huge flag painted in khaki, with the letters R. A. F. beneath. The emblem and initials were formed by cadets of No. 8 wing, who, at a given signal discarded their great coats, and disclosed the red, yellow, and light blue, which go to make up the R.A.F. colours. Simultaneously the men broke into song, and rendered the National Anthem with great effect. Presently at a further signal, flag and monogram rose and retired over the hill, keeping their perfect formation meanwhile.

After a close inspection and evolutions of various kinds, the brigade marched past, and the King had the satisfaction of seeing Prince Albert lead one of the smartest of its squadrons.

A SERIES OF INSPECTIONS.

Highly satisfied with the performances of the brigade, His Majesty motored to another part of the district, where he witnessed a march-past of the entire Cadet Brigade.

In the course of an extended drive the King had further opportunity of seeing the performances of these smart young fellows on the march, and then in some ornamental gardens watched physical training and massed boxing with evident interest. Afterwards No. 8 Wing, still wearing the colours which had gone to constitute the human flag already referred to, had a march-past of their own.

INCREASED BREAD PRICES.

The Dublin Master Bakers' Committee announce that, in accordance with the Food Controller's licence, they have decided to increase the price of bread. The retail prices on and after Monday next will be—4lb. loaf, 9d.; 2lb. loaf, 4½d.; 1lb. loaf, 2¼d. These figures apply to sales across the counter. In the case of bread delivered to consumers' houses the respective prices will be 9½d., 4¾d., and 2½d. The wholesale prices will be—4lb. loaf, or two 2lb. loaves, 8½d. net, or 9d. less ½d. discount; 1lb. loaf, 2¼d. net, or 2½d. less ¼d. discount.

AMERICAN AIRMAN'S GREAT EXPLOIT.

ACCOUNTED FOR SEVEN ENEMY MACHINES.

THRILLING AIR FIGHT AND ITS SEQUEL.

[The following account of an American aviator's gallant adventure, by Mr. John Russell, has been received from the United States Public Information Committee.]

Some talk of Alexander
And some of Hercules;
Of Hector and Lysander
And such great names as these—

But what about Chamberlain? The world should presently ring with the story of the American boy, who went out in search of action from the fighting line, and achieved one of the greatest personal triumphs and most amazing single-handed adventures that all the gloriously crowded records of these days can show. Let me introduce to fame the name of First Lieutenant Edwin G. Chamberlain, of the United States Marine Corps, who crowded more dash, nerve, skill, brilliance and success into a few short hours than fiction could invent for a lifetime, and who won recommendations for the Victoria Cross and its American equivalent, the Congressional Medal, both in the same stupendous morning.

Lieutenant Chamberlain took part in a fight with twelve German planes, smashed five of them while his own machine was badly crippled, shot down two others, enabled his British companions to escape, swooped out of the air and charged headlong into a detachment of Hun infantry; routed it, "bluffed" his captors with a fake grenade, took one of them prisoner; rescued a wounded French soldier, swam a river under fire while he drove the prisoner before him, and carried the other; finally landed right side up with both trophies in the Allied lines—and then wouldn't give his name for fear of being scolded.

His story is absolutely authentic. He suddenly presented himself one day about four weeks ago at the quarters of a British Major, commanding a certain squadron of the Royal Air Force somewhere in France, and demanded a job.

"He came to my command as a visitor," says the Major's report, "and explained that he had the personal, but not the official, permission of the American Force Commander to be there."

The boy's own superior backs the band in the same style.

"Chamberlain requested of me permission to visit the front at the time fighting was in progress, in an unofficial capacity, as he had a few days, before going back to B——, and wished to acquire as much experience as possible which would be of use to him in day-bombing at D——." And, again:—"I would have issued him official orders had he requested them, and as a matter of fact he was there to gather information to be used in the discharge of his duty."

To the lay mind it is a relief to know that Chamberlain was not playing hookey. Meanwhile all this quibbling between official and unofficial is the essential military touch to the yarn. It was never quite absent from the mind of the boy himself, and since it had a curious bearing on his subsequent actions it deserves to be noted.

FOUND HIS CHANCE.

Chamberlain had come to the front looking for "experience," and he had certainly come to the right shop. The date was July 27th. The scene was one of the hottest sectors on the line. Foch's smashing blows had started the Boche reeling backward. French, British, and American Armies were achieving their immortal squeeze of the Soissons-Rheims pocket, and completing the second victory of the Marne. It was a time and a place for high hearts, and Chamberlain found his chance.

"I was very short of experienced pilots," writes the Major, "and was covering the enemy retreat. Knowing Chamberlain had been over the lines, and had been reported as a dangerous fighter with a PQ-X, I requested to be allowed to let him go on the morning offensive patrol unofficially in the circumstances."

That American kid airman returned a few hours afterwards with a record of one enemy plane shot down in flames, and another forced to descend.

"My leaders were very pleased with the flying of the Yank," reports the Major, "so I put him on the afternoon patrol, where he again did the right thing."

This was doing fairly well for a visitor. But Chamberlain had only begun. The next day the squadron with which he had palled took on a big thing. French bombing planes were to make a heavy attack over the enemy lines of communication. They needed a British escort. The Major called up the best men he could find. And one of them, by virtue of luck, pluck, and proved ability, was Lieutenant Edwin C. Chamberlain, U.S.M.C., the earnest seeker after experience.

The crisp official report takes up the tale:—"Our formation was attacked by about thirty enemy aircraft and each side lost three planes. Soon afterwards our formation was again attacked by some forty enemy aircraft, and in the fight that followed Lieutenant Chamberlain's engine was damaged, and his right hand gun jammed. Up to this time he had already forced one enemy plane to leave the fight."

Chamberlain was now supposed to be definitely out of action. By every rule, official or unofficial, a damaged plane saves itself as best it can. He ought to have been satisfied with the experience already gained. He ought to have headed straight for home. Instead, he stayed by one of the bombers to help escort him in company with two Britishers, Captain L—— and Lieutenant H——, and the four were still well behind the enemy lines when a final pack of twelve enemy aircraft closed on them for a finish fight.

Chamberlain's engine was running badly. Apparently the feed was damaged; it would come live for a few minutes, miss, and stop dead. He lost speed and altitude. Moreover, his right gun was still jammed, and he had only one hundred rounds left in the other. But when one of the enemy singled him out he promptly opened at long range, and forced the Hun to earth in a fast dive.

REFUSES TO ESCAPE.

Again Chamberlain had every opportunity to escape. Captain L—— and Lieutenant H—— had gone ahead at a faster clip, and were hotly engaged. Under cover of their action he might have slipped away with the bomber. Again he refused, turned back, and launched the lone attack which undoubtedly saved the lives of both his British companions.

Climbing into the sun unobserved, he picked off the nearest Hun with a burst of twenty rounds at thirty yards. The next he shattered with twenty-five rounds at twenty yards. Five of the enemy attacked him, and his engine went dead at the same minute. In a haze of bullets he cut up through a loop, dodged into a side-slip, and shot a wing off another Hun. The leader of the German squadron then came for him head-on, but Chamberlain had power again, and he planted his remaining shots point blank. The leader went down on his back, with his body hanging from the grey-yellow machine as it circled to a crash. Thereupon the rest of the enemy quit a bad game. They had had enough of Lieutenant Chamberlain, and they drew off, while the two rescued Britishers pelted for safety.

Meanwhile Chamberlain himself was not so fortunate. After many mishaps, his engine had finally departed this life, and the best he could do was to start a long downward glide toward home, while German machine and anti-aircraft gunners took their whack at him from every post and battery as he passed above. But one last reserve he had won back into hand—he had unjammed his second machine gun with a magazine almost full—and when it became evident to him that he would soon have to land somewhere he picked his destination carefully. Very carefully, indeed. Taking a wide sweep, he steered for a support unit of German troops which he spied some hundreds of yards away.

There they were, perhaps a score of them, marching along a strip of road through a patch of woods, a compact group of field-grey reinforcements. Like the black angel of vengeance, Chamberlain swooped for them, pumping a stream from his machine gun, cutting them down, scattering them right and left like frightened quail into the crops. At an altitude of only a few feet, he cut over and among them, and came to ground under partial cover about one-eighth of a mile in front of the enemy main line, and a quarter of a mile from the French outposts.

BRITISH MAJOR'S TRIBUTE.

What followed is best told in the report of the British Major, a bit of laconic description which would be hard to beat. "Chamberlain attempted to save his instruments, and got the compass before the enemy shelled the plane, and coolly tried to set fire to the plane with his maps. He then crawled to a wood, where he encountered an enemy patrol of three Huns escaping from the French lines, and, although being unarmed, he threatened the enemy with his round compass, which looked like a grenade, and two of the enemy ran and one surrendered, and Lieutenant Chamberlain brought him in a prisoner. Further along, on a stream, he found a French Colonial wounded soldier, and, under the fire of enemy snipers, he boldly carried the wounded man through the open stream, his clothes being torn by enemy fire, and delivered both the wounded Colonial and prisoner to a French outpost. He then reached a phone, and reported 'Ready for duty' in typical Yankee fashion."

What the young phenomenon did next was equally extraordinary. He tried to hide the whole affair. He refused to give the French his name or any account of himself. He wanted to get away, and to have nothing said of it. He had no notion that he had accomplished anything in particular, but he did have a very clear notion of that official-unofficial quibble about his status. With a stunt to his credit that the whole tribe of dare-devil airmen might have envied, he was chiefly worried lest he might have exceeded his military permission "to acquire experience"!

"The Yank's voice over the 'phone was the best thing I have heard for some time," continues the Major. "I sent for him in a car, and he made me a report. At his suggestion, however, I arranged that his work be 'washed out' and reported as 'unknown assistance.'"

Luckily, the thing could not be done. It was too big to be kept officially-unofficially quiet, even if the hero had been playing hookey, and when inquiries began to be made the Major came through like a Major.

"If the Yank had been attached at the time to my squadron," he says, "I would not hesitate to recommend him for the V.C., and, if the Commander-in-Chief would approve, I would recommend him for the V.C., as he undoubtedly deserves the highest reward for his valour in the air as well as on the ground. . . . It was a series of the most gallant acts I have ever had the pleasure of investigating, and I have had two officers given the V.C. on my recommendation. . . . No doubt that the entire circumstances were entirely out of ordinary line of duty, even if he had been officially attached, for, with his engine as it was and a jammed gun, under the more or less protection of the bomber, and with his low altitude at the time of attack, no one could have asked more than that he drive off any machine attacking and accompany the bomber home; but as for attacking when so outnumbered, that was beyond anyone's duty. To pick up a wounded soldier after the performance of the foregoing actions and carry him through an open stream was a most gallant action in any case."

SUPERIOR'S RECOGNITION.

Chamberlain's own superiors were not slow in recognising the facts, and we can all rejoice to know that his Force Commander, with all the reports on hand, has sent the following recommendation to the Secretary of the Navy:—"In forwarding the attached correspondence, I take great pleasure in recommending First Lieutenant Edwin G. Chamberlain, U.S. Marine Corps, be promoted to the rank of Captain, be given the Medal of Honour, and that a letter of commendation be placed on his record. The gallant conduct of this young officer is worthy of the best traditions of the Service, and should in my opinion be fully recognised."

HERO'S ACCOUNT OF HIS LANDING.

In the course of a personal narrative of the affair, in which he described the fighting as given above, Lieutenant Chamberlain details what happened after he came to earth, thus:—

"I landed in a sloping depression near a wood, about an eighth of a mile beyond the enemy outposts, in a wheat field, about one hundred yards from some thick trees which were being swept by enemy machine guns. The enemy outposts could not see anything but the top wings of my machine, but they began to shell it, so I tore out the round iron compass and maps and tried to burn the machine with the maps, but I only set the wheat afire, and shells were getting close, so I crawled for the wood. I came to a small water-filled ditch, where I lost my heart, and was sure I was, after all, in the German lines, for there on the other side were three Huns crawling my way. I was unarmed, but remembered my compass looked like a grenade, so I hauled back as if to throw it. Two of them jumped and ran, one falling, hit by his own fire; the third yelled 'Comrade,' and threw down his rifle. I got to that rifle, and then took his pistol, and ordered him to crawl ahead. He looked startled when I spoke English, and in good English answered and begged me not to kill him, as he was a married man. I told him to 'shut up' and crawl on, and if he did not try to run he would be unharmed. We got to the wood of thick brambles, which was swept by machine guns and shells. In the middle of the wood there was a stream about five feet wide and four feet deep. As we came to it I heard a whispered groan in French, so I crawled up a few yards, and there lay a wounded Colonial, hit in the leg and neck.

"The Hun prisoner followed me, and without a word started to give the man a drink out of his canteen, but I took the canteen, washed it out, and then gave the African a drink, and washed his wound so he could move; then I picked him up and ordered the German to wade across, with his hands up (all this whispered). He did, and drew no fire, and then I went in. Some German snipers took three shots at me, but they only splashed about me. The brush was very thick on the other bank, and I had to drag the French Colonial, with the German helping, through the thicket. Then suddenly we were fired on, and then a challenge in French. I replied in very bad French: 'Officer Militaire American aux bless Colonial?' 'Aviator American,' as an after-thought—about all the French I know. Then a string of French came back, and I repeated 'Advance.' Then the German said: 'They say crawl into the open with your hands up.' So I did, and then two men and a French officer came to me. He bristled at the Hun, but I pointed to my gun and the wounded Colonial, and the Colonial talked fast, whereupon the Frenchman threw his arms about me and talked a lot. We crawled to an outpost, and then I helped the wounded Colonial to a dressing station that was being shelled, the Hun acting as assistant and interpreter, as he spoke good French. He said he had been in England and the United States. He gave me a lot of valuable information, and I took him back to Divisional Headquarters. I pretended not to know what they wanted to know, and would not give my name.

"After a time I succeeded in getting to a 'phone, and reported by 'phone to my commander."

APPRENTICESHIPS IN CULTIVATION OF FLAX.

The American Senate has passed a bill, favouring the total prohibition of manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors after June 30, 1919. It is believed the House will pass the bill.

Sir Martin Conway, the distinguished traveller, author, and art critic, has consented to stand as Conservative and Unionist candidate for the new English University.

There have just arrived in England, having escaped from a German prison camp, two members of the Gordon Highlanders—Private J. Leith and Private A. Reid.

When the war was over the governing masses would insist upon being told the truth.

LABOUR DISPUTES.

Printers' Association and the Dublin Typographical Society, for the purpose of discussing the situation caused by the dispute in the printing trade. After a lengthy discussion the conference was adjourned.

The dispute is seriously interfering with the publication of the results lists of the Intermediate Board examinations. Yesterday morning the principals of schools received typewritten lists of the results in the Senior Grade. The list contains candidates' examination numbers only, and there is no analysis of the results generally. The Intermediate Education authorities hope to issue the Middle Grade results in the same form in a week or so, and the Junior Grade results later on.

OTHER DUBLIN DISPUTES.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin has issued the terms of his award in reference to the demands made by the members of the Irish National Union of Vintners', Grocers', and Allied Trades' Assistants. The terms of the award are as follows:—One apprentice shall be allowed in each house, and further apprentices in the proportion of one to every four paid hands. That the minimum wage for assistants shall be—For the first and second years after apprenticeship, £1 12s. 6d. per week; for the third year, £1 17s. 6d. per week; and for the fourth and subsequent years, £2 2s. 6d. per week. The minimum rate for charge hands has been fixed at £2 7s. 6d. The award further states:—"These rates are based upon outdoor conditions. Where employés are indoor, the rates are to be reduced by £1 per week. The terms of the award are to take effect as from 1st of July, 1918."

Sir D. Plunket Barton, arbitrator in the dispute between the Rathmines U.C. and its employés has issued his award, which grants:—8/- a week to all unskilled workingmen, to be paid from first pay day after August 7, provided that in no case shall any such workingman receive more than £1 per week over the pre-war rates of wages. This is to be irrespective of any increments on the merit increases granted in December, 1917. The 12½ p.c. bonus is granted to all workingmen engaged in the electricity works and the refuse destructor, but not to the lamplighters.

The women employés in Messrs. Goodbody's tobacco factory, to the number of about 100, have left work owing to a dispute in reference to wages.

Demands for increases of wages and improved working hours have been forwarded to the proprietors by the employés in several Dublin picture houses.

Mr. James Andrews, K.C., the Arbitrator, has issued his award in connection with the claims of certain employés of the Dublin Port and Docks Board, who applied for advances of 10s. on their existing wages of 32s. per week and a bonus of 12½ per cent. on earnings. The award grants an additional 4s. 6d. per week to all labourers employed in the engineering department and at the Custom House Docks, payment to be retrospective as from the financial day following 15th July. It is understood that the award has not been considered satisfactory, and the officials of the Transport Union are communicating with the Ministry of Labour with a view to having the case reheard.

DISPUTES IN CLONMEL.

Following an offer of 4s. advance to the demand for an increase of 10s. per week made by the Clonmel bakers, the matter has been referred to arbitration.

The Trades Council for Clonmel, which fell through years ago, has been revived, and now includes members of the local branches of the Postmen's Federation, Bakers' Amalgamated Union, Clerical Workers, Post Office Clerks, Asylum Workers, Drapers' Assistants, Typographical Association, Tailors' Union, Grocers' Union, and Teachers' Association.

LOSS TO CORK PORT.

Fearing a delay in their discharge at Cork owing to the dockers strike, the Shipping Controller has diverted to other ports three vessels, two with cargoes of wheat consigned to Messrs. Green, of Cork, and one with flour.

EXCITING SCENE AT OMAGH.

An exciting scene took place on Thursday at Omagh in connection with the strike at Harris, Detriclisen and Company's factory at Irishtown. A large hamper of material was being removed from the railway station to the factory, when the horse and cart were held up by the employés, and the hamper thrown on the roadway. Girls took possession of the hamper, and proceeded to roll it to the Campsie Bridge, where it was torn asunder and the contents flung into the river.

DERRY DOCKERS DEFY TRADES UNION.

At midnight last night the Derry dockers ceased work. Cross-Channel steamship companies have suspended all sailings. The trades union being opposed to the strike, a large number of the dockers are not in favour of the "down tools" policy, but have been prevailed upon by the more advanced section to fall into line with them. The men will receive no strike pay. The firms are leaving the matter in the hands of the Government, and it is understood Sir George Askwith is sending over a special Commissioner to investigate the dispute.

PLATFORM AND STAGE.

The spirit of optimism which has been created by the turn of the war tide during the past few weeks is reflected in the briskness associated with matters theatrical. Not alone are the theatres in all the leading centres constantly crowded, but the demand for new productions is more insistent than ever. In London this week four new plays have been staged. Drury Lane Theatre was re-opened on Wednesday with an American musical play, "Shanghai," which is described as a spectacular operette. At Wyndham's Theatre Mr. H. V. Esmond's new comedy, "The Law Divine," in which the author plays the leading part, was also successfully performed. At St. Martin's Theatre a spy play, entitled "The Live Wire," in which Messrs. Sydney Blow and Douglas Hoare have collaborated, has been favourably received; while the same authors are responsible for the musical farce, "Telling the Tale" at the Ambassador's Theatre.

"By Pigeon Post," a play in three acts, by Austin Page, will be the attraction at the Gaiety Theatre next week. It is described as a "spy play," and has been performed with much success at the Garrick Theatre. The story deals with the career of a gallant soldier, Allan Jeayes, who loves two great causes, his land and his girl, a doctor who nursed him back to life. For his country he has engineered a pigeon post to thwart the foe, and much is told of carrier-pigeons and war strategy. There will be matinées on Wednesday and Saturday at 2.30.

Some well-known artists will appear at the Theatre Royal next week. The Frasco Five, an American quintette with a high reputation, will provide one of the leading items, while another important engagement is that of the Westminster Singers, a well-known male voice quartette. The popular comedian Fred Curran will sing some of his latest songs, and Rajard and Brownie, who are stated to be accomplished vocalists, will also contribute. Amongst the performers in the dramatic sketch, "The Brass Door Knob," will be Miss Elizabeth Young and Mr. Earle Grey, two prominent Dublin artists. Other contributors to the programme will be Harrigan and Holt, comedians, and Mamie Dingle, child vocalist.

At the Queen's Theatre next week Mr. P. P. Nayr's company of Irish players will present a new Irish drama, "The Bride of Garryowen," by Thos. Finigan, in which the part of Danny Boy will be taken by Mr. J. Cheevers, who will be supported by other local artists. At each performance Mr. Nayr's choir of Irish vocalists will sing a selection of songs. On Sunday evening the series of concerts organised to encourage promising talent will be continued.

An interesting musical event will take place at the Theatre Royal on Sunday, September 15th, when a programme of instrumental music will be provided by the massed orchestras of the Dublin theatres of over 100 performers, in aid of the Amalgamated Musicians' Union and the National Union of Railwaymen's Orphan and Benevolent Funds. An attractive programme has been arranged. The vocalists will be Mr. A. Lucas, Mr. F. J. West, and Miss Mary Maguire. A further interesting item will be a recitative and song written and composed for the occasion by "Florence Angelus."

"The King of Dublin" will provide the attraction at the Empire Theatre next week. It was originally performed at the Queen's Theatre, where it enjoyed a most successful week's run. Since then, however, the work has been practically re-written. Many new numbers have been added to the score, and the cast very substantially strengthened. The extravaganza is in four scenes, and amongst others in a good cast may be mentioned—Miss Bridie Moloney, Miss Muriel Munroe, and Messrs. George Casey, Tom Dunne, Harry O'Donovan, and Bryan Herbert. In addition there are the Royal troupe of dancers and a full chorus. The bioscope pictures, which are proving very popular, will be repeated to-morrow evening at 8.30 p.m.

Many attractive items are included in the programme arranged at the Tivoli Theatre next week. Amongst the principal artists will be Charles Kasrac and his "Devil-May-Cares." The well-known whistler and mimic, Charles Mildare, is also one of the leading artists. A musical act will be provided by The Ernestos, and amongst others who will contribute to the programme are—Thelma Hamilton, soprano vocalist; Jack Edwin, comedian; Ricard and Mountford, comedy acrobats; Lal Wyndham, comedienne and dancer; and Wm. Murray, late of the O'Mara Opera Company.

WAR NOTICES AND APPEALS.

IRISH COUNTIES WAR HOSPITAL.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Irish Counties War Hospital was held at Marlborough Hall on Wednesday last, the 28th instant. In the chair, Mr. Gage S. Green. Present:—Mr. C. Wisdom Hely, J.P.; Sir John Moore, Colonel Carr Ellison, Major Steele, Mrs. Odlum, Mr. Geoghegan, M.B.E.; Mr. Henry Hanna, K.C., and the Secretary, Mr. Litton Cary.

Apologies for absence were received from the Lord Chief Justice, Sir Thomas Power, Bart.; Sir Frederick Moore, Sir John Lumsden, Lieutenant-Colonel Pringle, Captain Woods, Mr. Harding, and Mr. Kelly.

The minutes of the last Executive Committee meeting, held on the 6th August, and of the Sub-Committee meeting, held on the 9th August, were read, confirmed, and signed, and the minutes of the Finance Committee meeting held on the 26th instant, were read and approved.

A letter was read from the Lord Chief Justice, thanking the Executive Committee for the resolution passed by them at the last meeting, congratulating him on his recent appointment.

The Secretary reported that the painting and general touching-up of the interior of the building which was being carried out had now been completed; this was considered satisfactory.

Owing to the sudden illness, and consequent resignation, of the recently-appointed Secretary, Mr. McKinley Hillcoat, it had been necessary to call a special meeting to consider the applicants for the post thus rendered vacant. The appointment had been given to Mr. H. J. Litton Cary, late D.I. R.I.C., who was able to take up duty immediately.

It was unanimously agreed that the name of Captain A. R. Woods, former Secretary, should be added to the Executive Committee. Captain Woods thanked the Committee for this honour, and stated that, although he would very seldom be able to attend the meetings, he would be glad to keep in touch with the hospital as much as possible, and would be very pleased at any time to render any service which lay in his power.

A report from Captain Crawford, acting C.O., was submitted, in which he informed the meeting that a number of the patients had been invited by the organisers to attend a Boxing Matinée that afternoon in the Theatre Royal, and that Mr. R. J. Duggan had kindly provided tea for them in the Winter Gardens. The Secretary was directed to write letters of thanks to all those concerned for their kindness.

The following further subscriptions are very gratefully acknowledged:—

The St. Vincent de Paul Society and the institution of which he was secretary, in addition to numerous other city charities, were enabled through his efforts to enlarge their respective works of beneficence.

ADDITIONAL STAMPS ON CHEQUES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—On Monday last you were good enough to insert a letter from me, to the effect that my banker had informed me that cheques presented for payment after 31st August must have an extra penny stamp, even though dated, drawn, and issued before 1st September. I wrote at the same time to the Secretary, Inland Revenue, Somerset House, London, and I have just received the following satisfactory reply:—

"In reply to your letter of the 24th inst., respecting the incidence of the increased stamp duty on cheques, etc., I am directed by the Board of Inland Revenue to acquaint you that, if a cheque is drawn and issued before the 1st September, it will not be liable to the increased duty of 2d. The liability is determined by the date of drawing and issue, and is in no way affected by the date of presentation for payment."

It would seem to be reasonable that the banks generally should give definite instructions to their officials on the subject.—Yours, etc.,

"SCRUTATOR."

WOMEN WORKERS AND WAGES PROBLEM.

Miss Tucker, President of the Federation of Women Workers, speaking at the Conference at Manchester yesterday, said there were 300,000 women trade unionists, as against 350,000 before the war. Every sensible man knew that men had nothing to fear from women trained, educated, and organised, for such women could not be exploited and used against men. The industrial question was not the sex question; it had to be decided in terms of skill, for men's and women's interests were identical. One of the things which would make the struggle between the sexes impossible was that of equal pay for equal work. (Cheers.) Women were determined that they would not be used to degrade the standard of living. (Cheers.) Many people were very much alarmed about the immediate future of women. She did not think that view need be taken. There would be a great arrears of civil work to be done. She spoke of the importance of Trade Boards, and said that women must have shorter hours of work and better conditions, which might be brought about by factory legislation. There ought to be the same opportunities for education for all, and they must not allow the question of a Ministry of Health to drop. Wives and widows ought to be in a position to stay at home and look after the children.

The annual report, which was adopted, stated that the Women's Federation could not rest content until every woman was entitled to vote by virtue of her womanhood. Special attention was called to the development of the Federation in Ireland.

Mrs. Fawcett, of Birmingham, raised the question of the investment of funds in War Loan and wanted to know from whom the suggestion to make the investment came. She thought it a deplorable thing that the National Federation of Women should invest money in War Loan. As mothers and prospective mothers they ought to avoid doing anything to assist the terrible conflict now going on. In her view it was nothing less than blood money.

Miss Macarthur, Secretary, announced that the Labour Party were about to start a big agitation to establish the rights of women to enter Parliament, to which end a bill was being promoted, to be moved immediately on the reassembling of Parliament.

PROVINCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Teachers and Blackberry Gathering.—The principals of the National schools in Bangor (Co. Down) have organised a scheme of blackberry gathering, subject to the sanction of the National Board.

Child Killed at Fintona.—A child named James Colhoun, aged 3½ years, of Killymoonan, Fintona, was killed on Thursday while climbing on a gate beside his father's home. The gate rebounded with great force, and dislocated the child's neck.

Wexford Dockyard Development.—A project is on foot to provide Wexford with a dockyard and motor fishing fleet, and it is stated that there is a capital of £25,000 behind the enterprise. It is proposed to open the dockyard at Ferrycarrig, where the motor boats will be erected and repaired.

The Late Mr. J. S. Thompson.—Regret is felt in Wexford at the death of Mr. J. S. Thompson, of the firm of Messrs. Thompson Brothers, engineers and contractors. He was a prominent member of the Society of Friends in Ireland, and actively took part in local undertakings of a philanthropic nature.

Red Cross Concert.—By permission of Lieut.-Col. A. F. T. Leggatt, the concert party and orchestre of the North of Ireland Command Dépôt, Randalstown, gave a very successful entertainment in the Portadown Town Hall on Thursday night in aid of the funds of the Red Cross Society.

Galway Woollen Mills.—Rev. A. J. Considine, Adm., V.G., having resigned his position as director of the City of Galway Woollen Manufacturing Co., Ltd., in consequence of the recently promulgated Canon-Law in regard to clergymen and public companies, Mr. P. S. MacDonnell, solicitor, has been unanimously co-opted on the directorate.

Belfast District Asylum.—It appears from the eighty-eighth annual report of Dr. S. J. Graham, Medical Superintendent of the Belfast District Lunatic Asylum, that the total numbers under treatment during the year were:—Males, 693; females, 735. 157 patients were discharged, of whom 92 were recovered. The death rate was 15.4 per cent. The report of the Inspector of Lunatics refers in complimentary terms to the management of the institution and the treatment of the patients.

SINN FEIN CANDIDATE FOR LEITRIM.

Mr. John N. Dolan, Manorhamilton, who is at present interned, will be the probable Sinn Fein candidate for Leitrim at the forthcoming General Election. Mr. Dolan is a brother of Mr. Charles Dolan, now in America, who first contested a by-election in support of the Sinn Fein policy against the present member for North Leitrim, Mr. F. E. Meehan.

ALLEGED ABSENTEE IN LONDONDERRY.

At Londonderry Custody Court yesterday James Breignan, employed as a draughtsman in the North of Ireland Shipbuilding Company's shipyard, was charged with being an absentee under the Military Service Act.

Defendant declined to admit he was an absentee, and he was remanded for further inquiries on personal bail and one surety of £10.

The Last Lap Home.

I'd better light up too. Half a dozen miles yet, but the daylight has given out. The lamp splashes a spongeful of watery light around the front wheel.

Shadows are creeping out from the hedges and a pale shaving of moon floats high over the trees.

How easily the tyres take the miles, and pay them out like tape. Fast or slow, how willingly they answer each press of the pedal. Moseley Tyres! Sturdy Moseley rubber with nerves of Moseley Flexifort.

The day is collecting its thoughts. Those cattle seated away yonder across the field look like a group of solemn islands in the ground mist. Hullo! that fellow coming has lighted his lamp.

SPORTING NEWS.

PHŒNIX PARK MEETING YESTERDAY.

The opening stage of the August meeting at Phœnix Park was favoured in the matter of the weather, a gloriously fine afternoon succeeding a dull morning, and, with an attractive programme down for discussion, it was not surprising to find a pretty large company peopling the beautifully-kept enclosure. The sport attained to an interesting standard, which should be surpassed to-day, when the important Phœnix Plate will constitute such a strong feature. Fields ruled of nice dimensions, and some exciting finishes added zest to the proceedings, in which H. Beasley played a prominent part, that accomplished young horseman riding four winners.

Orb, despite his big impost, was backed against the field for the Liffey Bank Plate, and, well though he ran, he found the task of conceding 21lb. to Orlass more than he could accomplish. The latter, who was very quick into her stride, led practically all the way, and when Orb closed with her about a furlong from home she quickly drew away again, and scored in very easy fashion. My Land and Wildfellow, who each carried a penalty for their Leopardstown wins, were the most fancied candidates for the Moderate Plate, and both were prominent all through the race, but in the closing stages were unable to withstand the challenge of Matoppo, who won in comfortable style.

So open an appearance had the Greenmount Plate that backers for the most part refrained from having an investment, and, though the recent winner, Taunt, was nominally favourite, Metallic, Faricate, and Radius were just as well supported. In the race, however, Metallic dominated the situation all the way, and, jumping off in front, led throughout, and readily resisted the challenge of Taunt, subsequent to which he was bought in for 140 sovs. Out of a big entry for the Park Plate, only six runners were declared for, and Belvedere, who was badly interfered with in the Bray Handicap, won by Marie Rose at Leopardstown, was given pride of place in the wagering. He again ran very well, but in a fine set-to with Charles the Fifth suffered defeat by a head. At the ensuing auction, the son of Charles O'Malley was sold to Mr. W. B. Purefoy for 470 gns., after some spirited bidding. Talk, one of the most improved horses in training, augmented his score by winning the Clonsilla Plate by a head from Tut Tut, and incidentally gave H. Beasley his fourth winning mount during the afternoon. At one time it looked long odds on that clever young jockey supplementing these successes by taking the Ashtown Plate on Gay Bachelor, but Gem, who had swerved badly inside the distance, overhauled his mount close home, and won by a short head. In the Country Plate Rocklow, who was only recently leased by Mr. Isodore Blake, readily accounted for the opposition. Details:—

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

There were several aspects of buoyancy about the Dublin Stock Markets yesterday, in spite of the general paucity of dealing consequent on the usual week-end influences. The Funds held firm. Distillery Shares were very strong in tone, but Guinness Ord. did not rally from recent weakness. Marconi Shares were buoyant on renewed strong buying, influenced by contradiction, or qualification, of recent rumours. Rails were good in tone, especially Mullingar Stock. Dublin Trams further advanced. Bolands moved up to 50s. Textiles were quiet, and occasionally easy. Burkes were bid for. Dolphin Hotel Pref. are quoted 53s. The Ord. were recently bid up to near this figure.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917) ...... 5 p.c.

There was a keen demand for call money, this being the last full working day of the month. Up to 3½ p.c. was paid for overnight advances, but afterwards Government disbursements and the maturity of Treasury bills caused a slackening of conditions, and the rate fell to 2½ p.c. Weekly advances were still quoted at 3½ p.c. Nearly half a million was disbursed in various dividends. There was a little more doing in the discount market, but rates were generally unchanged for commercial paper. October Treasury bills were in some request at 3½ to 3 17/32 p.c.

LONDON STOCKS CHEERFUL

The usual week-end influences were operative on the Stock Exchange, and, so far as the general run of markets was concerned, there was not a great deal doing, though the tone was cheerful, and the war news sufficed to keep general sentiment fairly robust. Gilt-edged issues preserved a good tone. Among miscellaneous Gilt-edged securities there was not a great deal doing, but the general tone was very firm. Bank of England Stock was marked up to 211½, and India Threes at 59½ were also better. Metropolitan Consol Threes at 70 were about a point up, and there were several moderate improvements elsewhere. The Colonel list was spotty, with a forward tendency.

Changes:—Rises.—Consols, ⅛ to 57¼; 5 p.c. War Loan, 1/16 to 95 1/16; Canada 3½ p.c., 1 to 73; Queensland 4 p.c., 1 to 81. Falls.—3½ p.c. War Loan 1/16 to 88 5/8; 4½ p.c. do., 1/16 to 100 1/16.

ALLIED BONDS FIRM.—In the Foreign market conditions were cheerful without being very active. French Fives were a good feature, the quotation touching 80, and closed at 79½. Greek issues recorded a fairly general improvement of a point, and Far Eastern issues were generally cheerful. Egyptians met fair support. Russian Fives were a good market. South American descriptions met rather less attention. Mexican Bonds tended forward, and Brazilian Bonds were still assisted by the firmness of the Rio exchange. There was not much movement in Peruvians.

Changes:—Rises.—French Loan ½ to 79½; Greek Fives, 1 to 71; Italian Rentes, 1 to 57½; Mexican Fives, 1 to 65; Russian Fives, 1 to 56.

RAILS STRONG.—The feature of Home Rails was the strength of Districts, which advanced to 25½ at one time, and closed a point to the good at 25. Metropolitans, after being higher in sympathy, concluded unchanged. The rest of the Passenger section showed little variation, and Southern Stocks were dull for choice. As regards Trunk and Trade Stocks, the leaders were firm without material change. Great Central issues were on the dull side. Scotch Stocks backed and filled, but were about unaltered on the session.

Canadian Pacifics were unaltered around 174, despite the publication of a July revenue statement showing a decrease of 1,590,000 dollars in net revenue. Grand Trunks did little more than mark time, but the Ordinary, at 12½, was finally ½ better. Mexican Rails seesawed, and were unchanged on the session. Argentine Rails enjoyed a rather harder tendency after, their overnight set-back, but Leopoldinas in the Brazilian Railway section drooped ½ to 39½.

Changes:—Rises.—Great Northern Def., ½ to 40½; Metropolitan District, 1 to 25; Midland Def., ½ to 58½; Grand Trunk, ½ to 12½. Falls.—Mexican National 1st Pref., ½ to 7½; Antofagasta Def., 1 to 143½; Buenos Ayres and Pacific, 1 to 53.

INDUSTRIALS ACTIVE.—Among Miscellaneous and Industrial securities dealing were active. The Shipping group again came in for a good share of attention, Cunards being again to the front with very active markings. The shares touched 5½, but were unchanged at 5 at the close. P. and O. Def. rose a point to 401½. Furness Withys were steadily supported around 77/-, and Clan Line around 47½. Marconis were another good spot, rising ½ to 4½. The American Shares gained another 1/- at 30/-, and the Marine Shares left off 6d. to the good. Associated Cement Ord. was offered back 1/16 to 5¼. There were many gains averaging 6d. among Iron and Steel Shares. Breweries were hard, and Land Shares quiet. Pyrotan Leathers were quieter around 3¼. Dunlop Rubbers were offered back ½ to 4. Lamson Paragon Supply were steady without material change on the declaration of the usual half-yearly dividend on the Pref. There were fairly numerous gains of ½ to 1 among Banks. Mexican Light and Power Bonds at 58½ added a point. Gas Shares held firm, and Textiles were steady.

Changes:—Rises.—Armstrong, 3d. to 45/3; National Explosives, 6d. to 37/-; P. and O. Def., 1 to 401½; South Durham Steel, 6d. to 55/-; Vickers, 9d. to 48/-; Weardale c.p.c., 3d. to 26/9; Bartholomay Brewery Pref., ½ to 4½; South African Breweries, 1/16 to 1 1/16; Mexican Power Bonds, 1 to 58½. Falls.—Associated Cement, 1/16 to 5¼; Dunlop Rubbers, ½ to 4; John Brown (15/- pd.), 3d. to 29/9.

OIL SHARES STEADY.—There was not a great deal doing among Oil Shares. The general tone was steady. The Russian group was harder, but among Egyptians Gyppy B eased off 3d. Burmahs were better.

Changes:—Anglo-Egypt B, 57/4½—3d.; Burmah, 6¾+1/16; Kern River, 13/5¼+5¼d.; Lobitos, 44/—1/3; Mexican Eagle, 70/4½+1/4½; do. Pref., 72/-+6d.; Shell, 106/3—11¼d.

MINING MARKET CHEERFUL.—The volume of business among South African Mines was again large, though week-end influences had some restrictive influence towards the close of the session. Kaffirs again showed cheerfulness under the lead of Far Eastern Shares, despite some realising. Johannesburg advices remained satisfactory. Diamonds were waiting a fresh lead, but Rhodesians favoured holders here and there. Barriers were less active. There was some recovery among Russian Shares. In the Tin group conditions were rather sluggish. The metal was without further change.

RUBBER SHARES QUIET, BUT FIRM.—The Share market displayed a firm tone, but the approach of the week-end holiday tended to restrict dealings, and during the afternoon the volume of business shrank to small proportions. The market leaders mostly lost a few pence on the day, but there continues to be a good deal of inquiry for investment shares, and strength has been shown by several of the Java issues. Alor Pongsu changed hands at 47/6, and wanted at the price. Anglo-Dutch finished lower at 30/3, but Anglo-Java rose to 6/-. British Rubber Estates of Java were better at 2/4½. Bandar Sumatra hardened to 40/-. Bantardawa showed business at 17/6, and Castlefield at 5 5/8. Dennistoun were done at 28/- and Djasinga at 22/10½. Johore Rubber Lands were higher, and K.M.S. were better at 27/6, but Linggi were lower at 25/-. Merlimau strengthened to 5/4½. Rubber Trust firm at 26/6. Rubber Estates of Johore were done at 34/-, and Sedenak at 33/6. Sialang displayed strength at over 62/6, and Sungei Krian Pref. hardened to 30/-. United Sua Betong were better at 63/9, but Vallambrosa were easier at 19/6. There were no quotable changes in the Borneo group.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

CORK GAS COMPANY.—At the half-yearly meeting of the Cork Gas Consumers' Company yesterday, at which a 6 per cent. dividend was declared, the Chairman (Mr. W. B. Harrington) said they were still having a most anxious time respecting coal supplies, and in order to keep going had to take what they got without regard to quality. How they would fare in the winter months, when there was a big consumption, was difficult to predict; but it was quite clear they would have great difficulty in getting adequate supplies. He strongly emphasised the necessity for economy in gas consumption from now until the crisis is over. The better price of residuals had helped materially to lessen the effect of the increased expenses the company had to face. Sir John Scott expressed the hope that, notwithstanding the increased expenses, the directors would deal generously with the clerical staff. The Chairman said they had given them substantial bonuses and had stretched a point in favour of all employés, though the company found it difficult to make profits. Mr. D. St. J. Sheehan, who proposed the dividend, said it was a big reduction from 8 per cent., which was their old dividend.

BOLCKOW VAUGHAN.—Dividend of 8 per cent., less income tax.

GLENDON RUBBER.—Interim dividend of 2½ per cent. for the half-year.

BRITISH GAS LIGHT.—Dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, with a bonus of 2/6 per share, for the half-year ended 30th June last.

LAMSON PARAGON SUPPLY CO.—Half-yearly dividend at the rate of 5½ per cent. on the Pref. Shares.

AGUA SANTA COFFEE.—A dividend on the Participating Preference Shares at the rate of 7 per cent. in respect of the half-year ended 31st December, 1917.

BARNSLEY BREWERY CO., LTD.—A final dividend of 23/6 per share on Ord. Shares, free of tax; £20,000 to reserve, and £23,470 forward. The final dividend a year ago was 14/-.

MEXICO MINES OF EL ORO.—Dividend of 4/- per share, and in addition thereto a bonus dividend of 2/- per share, making a dividend of 6/- per share declared, free of tax.

CONSOLIDATED GAS, ELECTRIC LIGHT, AND POWER CO. OF BALTIMORE.—Regular quarterly dividend of 2 dollars per share, or at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum on the capital stock.

MIDLAND RAILWAY CARRIAGE AND WAGON CO.—At an extraordinary general meeting of the Midland Railway Carriage and Wagon Company yesterday morning the directors were authorised to capitalise £100,000, forming part of the undivided profits earned prior to July 1st, 1914, the allotment to be made to Ordinary shareholders in the proportion of one new share of £10 for every two existing shares of £10 each. A resolution was also passed increasing the capital of £400,000 to £750,000 by the creation of 35,000 additional Ordinary Shares of £10 each.

MARKET REPORTS.

GRAIN.—DUBLIN CORN EXCHANGE, Friday.—The weather, unfortunately for the harvest, remains somewhat unsettled, but work, nevertheless, is going along, although the wet condition of straw in the field has rather interfered, or temporarily held up, threshing in many districts. New oats are offering more freely, although there has been no great accession to the number of samples on view at our Exchange. Black oats, however, are now featuring, and the condition of new oats generally, both white and black, so far promises to be very good all round. Prices are yet unsettled, as there is rather an uncertainty with regard to them, awaiting the Controller's statement, which has not yet been published; all the same, new whites are being freely taken up at from 32/- to 34/- per barrel. There is nothing particular to report of wheat or barley yet, so far as markets are concerned. In foreign cereals the position remains firm and unchanged. The only feature of local interest appertains to a heavy cargo of wheat from the River Plate, which arrived in the Liffey to-day, and is apparently intended for distribution amongst millers, and not to augment granary stocks, in the sense of holding over. An important local race meeting is rather a set-off against the attendance at our Corn Exchange fixture to-day.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—BALTIC, Friday.—WHEAT—Market steady but quiet, offers being on a light scale. MAIZE firm; African ranges from 88/6 to 90/-, yellow La Plata 90/-, and American mixed 90/- to 91/-, with white at 92/- to 93/- per 480lbs. MAIZE firm but quiet; offers light; mixed American 95/- to 96/- landed, African 94/- to 97/- ex quay, 95/- landed.

LIVERPOOL, Friday.—C.I.f. parcels of wheat were moderately active at late rates, but maize not offered. WHEAT on the spot met a fair inquiry at late rates. MAIZE—Spot parcels were again nominal. FLOUR in only moderate request, without alteration. BEANS firm, with a fair business. PEAS were again easier. BARLEY and OATMEAL steady. In wheat parcels, Australian afloat sold at 79/6, River Plate at 77/6, American winter on sample at 74/- to 75/-, Manitoba No. 2 76/-, American barley 81/- per qr.

WAKEFIELD, Friday.—Little business passing. The broken weather has interfered with the delivery of grain, but there were a few samples from the Midlands and the East Riding, which were disposed of on conditional prices to be fixed by the Government.

DERBY, Friday.—The weather has been so bad all the week that there has been neither harvesting nor threshing, and there were no samples of wheat or barley at to-day's market. Some wheat samples are reported to show signs of rust. Oats firm; Norfolk offered at 69/- per qr., delivered in Derby, but as prices are uncontrolled very little business was done. Weather outlook more favourable.

PROVISIONS.—DUBLIN POTATO, Friday.—Farmers are sending in unusually light supplies, and the situation with regard to the consumptive demand is peculiar. There seems to be no great inquiry for potatoes in any direction, and prices are just about maintained on previous level, viz., 6/- and 6/6 per cwt. In the course of next month, when harvesting operations are nearing completion, there is sure to be a superabundance of potatoes coming in, and what the development in the position then will be is hard to forecast. Of course, the Government control values of potatoes do not take effect until the 1st November.

LONDON, Friday.—BUTTER—The last distribution is nearing completion; all complaints of Argentine butter showing mould will receive satisfactory consideration; Australian, finest, good to fine, unsalted; Irish, creameries, factories; Canadian, finest, secondary; New Zealand finest, secondary and Argentine finest, secondary, all control price—wholesale 253/4 per cwt., retail 2/4 per lb. CHEESE—Of imported there is a distribution of 100 per cent. for August consisting of Australian, New Zealand, Canadian, and States; Canadian, new, old, finest, coloured, secondary; New Zealand, white, coloured, secondary; English, finest Cheshire, finest Cheddar, finest Cheddar loaf, Stiltons, loaf; Dutch, finest farmers' Edam, fine, inferior; Gouda, cutshots, Derby, factory Edam, seconds, Gouda, Derby, and United States, all control price—1/5½ wholesale, 1/8 retail. BACON—A fairly satisfactory demand continues, but buyers have to take best cuts along with less desirable sorts; Irish, lean, sizeable, lean stout, stout sizeable, fat stout, and good and able, lean stout, seconds 188/- ex factory; Canadian, No. 1 (44lbs. to 62lbs.), 175/6; Canadian cured American, 175/6; American, Cumberland cut, 174/-; bellies, box, 150/-; rib in back, 200/- short clear backs, 150/-; all importers' prices to appointed wholesalers delivered. HAMS—American long and short cut sell well, but shoulders and picnics move slowly, being plentiful; Canadian, long cut green 170/-, short cut green 170/-; American, long cut green 170/-, short cut green 170/-; shoulders square, 143/6; New York, 140/-; picnics, 110/-, all importers' prices to appointed wholesalers delivered.

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

Bray Boy's Pluck.—Master Willie Anderson, aged 13 years, son of Inspector John Anderson, N.S.P.C.A., Bray, pluckily rescued from drowning a youngster who had fallen into Bray Harbour.

Cruelty to a Dog.—At Enniskerry Petty Sessions yesterday, James M'Donald, Kilcooney, Co. Wicklow, was fined 2/- and 8/- costs for ill-treating a dog by not providing the animal with food and water.

Presentation to Mr. M. Johnston.—The members of the various staffs recently presented to Mr. Michael Johnston, Invoicing Department, Great Northern Railway, Dublin, with a wallet of Treasury notes on the occasion of his marriage.

Travellers' Plight.—Having obtained leave of absence to visit their homes and friends in England, and being actually at the North Wall last evening, it was regrettable that between twenty and thirty men of the Service had to be turned back from the outgoing steamer, which could not take one passenger more than the scheduled number. The leave men were not the only ones left behind, as about a dozen ordinary civilian passengers had the same experience at the same time.

A Drumcondra Land-mark Disappears.—A Drumcondra land-mark is to be removed, and transferred to Ulster, it appears. Yesterday workmen commenced the taking down of "the tin church," at the head of Clonliffe road, where it has stood for over thirty years past, and was until recent years a chapel of ease for the Parish of St. George's. Since the new St. Aidan's Church was built on the main Drumcondra road the old chapel of ease has been used as a band-room and gymnasium for the district Boy Scouts.

New Y.M.C.A. Hall at Eden Quay.—Record building operations were in progress at Eden quay, near O'Connell Bridge, yesterday. Mushroom-like, a new and large timber Hall was being put together by tradesmen, and it was ascertained that the structure, which was Hoyte's temporary chemist's shop from Sackville street, was, when re-erected, to serve as a Young Men's Christian Association "hut" of generous proportions. Doubtless intended as a war-time provision, the new wooden Hall will, unquestionably, not be out of place on this line of quays, where men in khaki are continually on the move, to and fro.

Concert for Soldiers.—On Thursday evening, upon the initiative of Mr. H. O'Connor, General Secretary, Y.M.C.A., about 400 British and American soldiers were entertained by a popular Dublin concert party at an aerodrome in an adjacent town. The Rev. Ernest Hunt presided, and also rendered songs. In addition, Mrs. J. Torrens, Miss Alice Moroney, Miss Hilda Walsh, Mr. J. Jowett, Mr. J. T. Carroll, and Mr. W. H. Mackie contributed items. The arrangements were in charge of Lieut. Mitchell, D.C.M., R.C.G., who has now charge of the American Y.M.C.A. work at this particular base. At the close the party were entertained to dinner by Major Morton, C.O., and Lieut. Mitchell.

livered. LARD continues in good demand; Irish bladders, seconds, and kegs 162/- ex factory, all packages; American pails, 158/-; importers' prices to appointed wholesalers delivered. EGGS in good demand, with moderate supplies, and prices steady; English, new laid 44/- to 46/-; Irish, 36/- to 38/- per 120.

LIVERPOOL, Friday.—BACON—There were again free supplies of American bacon in importers' hands, which, however, were cuts not generally wanted, as Wiltshires and other best selections continued in small compass. SHOULDERS moderately active. HAMS in good request for both long and short cut, supplies being limited. LARD on the spot was again in fair demand. CHEESE moved fairly, as arrivals came to hand on the fixed basis of 1/5½ per lb., delivered to retailers. BUTTER fairly inquired for. EGGS steadier, with rather more inquiry at 35/- to 37/6 per 120 for Irish hen.

MANCHESTER, Friday.—Market steady. BACON—American Cumberland cut, Canadian, and Wilts. cut in good request. HAMS in good demand. LARD—Supplies of English and American cover requirements. CHEESE—Cheshire choicest, medium; Lancashire, American, Canadian: Full allocation of imported arrived, distribution being made. EGGS—Good demand; prices higher; Irish hens, 37/6 to 40/- per 120.

HALSTON STREET POULTRY, Friday.—Supplies of poultry are keeping up tolerably well; demand remains good, with little change in values in any branch of market. However, there is a differentiation with regard to the prices of prime and extra good cock turkeys, the former making an average of 10/- apiece and the latter up to 15/- and 18/- each. Hen turkeys much as before, also geslings. The future of the rabbit trade is causing some serious apprehension, owing to the reduction in Control terms, which is supposed to bring down values nearly 50 per cent. to consumers. Quotations are as follow:—Crammed fowl (very scarce), 6/- to 7/- each; best coop-fed chickens, 3/6 to 4/6 each; seconds, 2/3 to 3/-; thirds, 1/10 to 2/-; first quality goslings, 6/- to 7/6; seconds, 4/- each; prime cock turkeys, 10/- each; extra large full breasted birds, 13/- to 18/- each; prime hen turkeys, 7/- to 9/- each; extra large live hens, 6/- to 8/- and 10/- each; ordinary good table qualities, 3/- to 4/-; seconds, 2/- to 2/6 each; thirds, 1/- to 1/6; extra large prime young ducks, 4/6 to 5/6 each; good ordinary, 3/- to 4/-; forward fleshy stores, 2/6 each; others, 1/6 to 2/-; old ducks, 1/- to 1/6; prime fresh trapped rabbits, 1/7 each; seconds, 1/4; grasers, 1/5 downwards each; best young pigeons, 6d. each; old, 3d. each; wild, 4d. each. Prime young grouse, 4/-; old ditto, 2/6; prime fresh hares, 4/-; seconds, 3/- to 3/6; wild duck, in fresh plump condition, 2/6; other classes of wild fowl still difficult to quote for.

DUBLIN FRUIT AND VEGETABLE, Friday.—A fairly large supply of fruit and vegetables on market. Sales were scarcely so consistently well supported as previously, probably owing to the strike affecting requirements of hotels and restaurants, but values all the same remain on a satisfactory basis. Peaches, for prime selections, made 8/- to 10/- and 12/- per dozen; seconds, 5/- to 6/-, and small inferior sorts, 1/6 to 3/-; best black grapes, 2/- to 2/6 and 3/- per lb.; white grapes, 1/6 lb.; home grown grapes averaged 1/6 to 2/2 per lb.; apples, from 5/- to 8/- and 12/- per half bushel, according to quality, on trays, 3/- to 6/-; good pears averaged 8/- per tray, and extras, up to 17/-. Plums made an average of 1/- per lb.; kishes, 25/- to 40/-, and other packages, 15/- to 30/-. Tomatoes in big supply, made from 11/- to 12/6 per dozen lbs.; inferior sorts, 9d. per lb.; cucumbers, 2/6 to 5/-, 6/-, and 7/- per dozen; vegetable marrows, from 2/6 to 6/- dozen; rhubarb 1/6 to 2/-, and specially good sorts, 3/6 dozen bunches; kidney beans, 1/3 to 2/10 per tray, and 1/6 to 2/- per float; peas, 1/6 to 2/6 and 3/6 per float; York cabbage, inferior sorts, to average, went from 25/- to 39/- and 50/- per load; extras to specials, from 70/- to 98/- and 100/- per load; cauliflowers, 2/- to 3/- per doz., and special sorts, up to 4/- and 6/- per dozen; smalls, 1/- to 1/4; Swede turnips, 3/- to 3/10, 4/- and 5/- per cwt.; celery, 6d. to 1/9 bundle; white turnips, were from 8d. to 1/7 per bundle; Tripoli onions, 1/10 to 2/6 and 2/10, according to size and quality of bundle; scallions, 7d. to 1/3 and 1/9 per do.; parsnips, 1/6 to 2/- per dozen bunches; carrots, 1/6 to 2/- per ditto; parsley, 4d. to 6d. per float; lettuce, 3d. to 7d. and 9d. per dozen; thyme, 2d. to 5d. and 8d. per bunch; beet, 3d. to 8d. per dozen.

DUBLIN FISH, Friday.—A very moderate supply of fish on market from either local or country sources. Country deliveries included 4 packages salmon, 13 chests lobsters, 11 herrings, and 14 mackerel. Demand all round good for what offered, notwithstanding the shrinkage in hotel and restaurant requirements in view of the strike. Best lobsters averaged 17/6 to 22/6 per 13; seconds, 10/- to 15/-, and smalls, etc., 3/- to 6/- and 7/- per 13; turbots went from 2/- to 15/- and 20/- each, and brill, from 1/6 to 4/- and 5/- each; best black soles, 30/- to 40/- per 9 pairs; mediums, 20/- to 25/-; slips, 5/- to 12/-; large plaice, 6/- to 8/- per 4, and others, 3/- to 6/- per 8 and 12; half boxes plaice, from 40/- to 95/-; ray, 15/- to 20/-; country mackerel, 10/- to 15/- per box; herrings, 30/- to 35/-; about 15 or 20 packages Howth herrings came to hand, which averaged 10/- to 12/- and 14/- per 120; there were also 13 boxes of mackerel from local boats, which realised 5/- to 6/- and 8/- per 120.

BILLINGSGATE FISH, Friday.—Supply fair; demand steady. English, Irish, and Scottish salmon, soles, and slips, all 2/8; red mullet, 2/3; turbot, brill, and halibut, 1/11; cured haddocks, 1/5; dories, 10d. per lb.; plaice, 18/- to 19/-; lemon soles, 22/-; whitches, 18/- to 20/-; merrims, 12/- to 14/-; live cod and hake, 12/-; mackerel, 7/6; whiting, 10/- to 12/-; gurnet, 9/-; ling, 10/-; large haddocks, 11/- to 12/-; bream, 10/- to 11/-; fresh and salted herrings, 6/5 per stone; lobsters, 20/- to 80/- per score.

GRIMSBY FISH, Friday.—Very short supply, prime classes of cod, codlings, and kit and gibbed haddocks, all being much below requirements, and allocated by the salesmen at maximum Control rates. Small haddocks and whitings were a fair show, and, with gurnets, were the only varieties which came into competitive trading. Small haddocks range from 6/- to 9/-; rough whitings made 6/-, but selected lots, 8/- to Control; gurnets, 1/- to 1/6 per stone.

BUTTER AND EGGS.—LITTLE GREEN, Friday.—There remains little actual change in the general position of this market over the week for either class of produce. A considerable proportion of unsuitably coloured and overheld creamery butter continues to come in, and arrivals only from dairies of repute can be satisfactorily realised by wholesalers. Other stuff cautiously dealt in. Eggs show a slightly steadier undertone. Shipping inquiry, however, remains tame enough, but country dealers, nevertheless, pursue their disposition to play off cross-Channel bids against the local trade in preferential consignments. Fine creamery butter, according to dairy, 252/- to 255/-, and specials, 256/8; mediums, 244/- to 250/-; inferior, 238/- to 244/- per cwt.; farmers' butter, 1/10½ to 2/2 per lb. Best run of case eggs, 33/6 to 34/6, and selected, or reliable sorts, 35/- to 36/- per 120; other descriptions, 28/- to 31/6 per 120.

CORK BUTTER, Friday.—Firsts, 227/-; seconds, 215/-; thirds, 200/-; fresh butter, 233/- per cwt.

PRODUCE.—LONDON, Friday.—SUGAR—Market unaltered. HONEY firm, with a good inquiry. COFFEE—Spot market fully steady, and a moderate trade. RICE in steady request. BEANS and PEAS offered reservedly. SPICE—Pepper in a quiet state. Ginger, also tapioca steady, but trade quiet. Shellac steady, quiet. RUBBER dull, and tendency of prices weak; plantation standard crepe spot sold 2/1½; standard ribbed smoked sheet spot sold 2/-; fine hard Para spot value 3/3½. OILS—Turpentine steady, unchanged. Petroleum firm, unaltered.

CLYDE CRUSHED SUGAR, Friday.—Market unchanged.

COPPER steady, unchanged; electro, £137 to £133; strong sheets, £161. LEAD quiet, unchanged. SPELTER—G.O.B., £54 to £50 c.i.f., as to position.

HAY AND STRAW.—DUBLIN, Friday.—There was an exceptionally small supply of hay and straw brought on offer to-day, and the market came under the control of a new and graduated scale of charges. These were not in every instance strictly adhered to, whether from ignorance or otherwise. However, there is an evident unanimous disposition on the part of leading factors to faithfully comply with the official order. Prices are now graded for civilian orders at 8/- per cwt. for first and second crop rye hay, 7/- per cwt. for third or fourth crop seed hay, and 7/- per cwt. for best upland or meadow hay, with 6/- for dogtail and inferior qualities. Only a few loads of choice strong hay was on market, equal to 8/- per cwt., but 7/3, 7/6, and 7/9 was in some cases paid for prime strong old meadow, and back to 6/- for other kinds. Wheaten straw, £4 per ton, and oaten, £4 15s.

TRADE REPORT.—MANCHESTER, Friday.—In its leading features our market is practically unchanged from yesterday. The demand for cloth continues fairly healthy, in some directions keeping well ahead of supply. Light fabrics are still required for India, and there is inquiry for finishing cloths to be dealt with. Printers' and similar goods move quietly, but steadily for various outlets. Spinners are reluctant to add to engagements, and the few lines booked are at very full rates.

WITH THE GUNNERS.

A FIELD BATTERY IN ACTION.

THE O. PIP: BRINGING UP AMMUNITION.

A field battery is in action. Planted at intervals along a high hedge are the six eighteen-pounders, their muzzles poking through the leafy screen, while over each is rigged a shelter of leaves and boughs to hide them from the enemy's eye. This is the "camouflage" of which we have heard so much at home. When a convenient hedge and bushes are not available, then we have an artificial protection of fishing-net strung with green and brown strips of cloth. At the entrance to a dug-out, in rear of the guns, where the telephone is connecting the battery with the F.O.O., or Forward Observing Officer, who is watching the firing from near the front line, stands the Sergeant-Major, megaphone in hand, giving the orders to the gunners. They do not see their target. They aim at something else, and are told by the F.O.O. how much to right or left, over or short, they are to shoot, and the range to fire at. It is a complicated procedure for the outsider, much too complicated to explain here. But it gets the target all right.

In swift rotation, from one end of the battery to the other, the guns are firing. Their work is wire-cutting, in preparation for an advance the next morning. "One, fire! Two, fire! Three, fire!" comes the orders through the megaphone. The gunner on his seat beside each piece pulls back the lever. Instantly a flame belches out of the gun's mouth; she recoils violently, and as the breech moves smoothly back to its position the gunner grasps the handle, opens the breech, and flings out the empty brass cartridge case. As soon as the breech is back in position, another man shoves in a fresh shell, the breech shuts with a clang, the layer, with his eye glued to the sight, works the shining brass wheels, shouts "Ready!" and waits for the order to fire again. Around the gun other members of the crew are adjusting the fuses and preparing charges. Hot work for all, especially when the guns are popping off so quickly that the live shell going in almost hits the empty case coming out. But it's much hotter where the shells are going to!

From the battery goes forward the telephone wire to the O. Pip., or Observation Post. For a good part of the way it is flat on the ground. Occasionally, where there is labour at hand, it is buried to protect it from being broken by shell or bullet or the feet of the passer-by. In the trenches it is hung over projections from the wall, well out of danger. The infantryman soon learns to know his life may depend on the wire any moment, and takes no liberties with it. The O. Pip. may be the first-floor window in the sole remaining wall of a ruined house, or a peep-hole in the front line trench—anything or anywhere, so long as it is near enough or high enough to give some view of the target. Its occupants are an officer (the F.O.O.) and a signaller, with a portable telephone connected to the battery wire. The guns are being "registered" on their targets. "No. 1 gun, fire!" says the officer. The signaller repeats the order through the telephone. Five seconds later and he says, "No. 1 gun fired, sir." The officer watches the shell burst, and calls out, "Drop 25 and repeat!" Again the signaller sends the order, and again in five seconds he observes, "No. 1 fired, sir." The officer watches the second burst, and makes further corrections, adding and dropping, lengthening and shortening until he is satisfied, and gives the last order, "Target No. 1, register that!" No. 1 gun can now be fired at any hour of the day or night with the knowledge that every time it will get right there. And so on with the other guns in the battery and their particular targets.

They come to the base by boat, from the base to railhead by train, from railhead to the ammunition "dump" by light railway or motor lorry—big shells, medium shells, small shells, 15-inch shells, and eighteen-pounders, long and short, slim and stumpy. For a fighting man there is no more gladsome and heartening sight. From the dump to the field batteries, the shells are taken according to the state of the road, in ammunition wagons or on pack mules, with each shell in a neat little wicker basket of its own. The R.A. drivers who bring the guns into action and take them out, who day and night go on feeding them with ammunition, are well thought of in the Army. And they deserve it, for what they don't know about managing a frightened horse or mule isn't worth knowing.

The Artillery is open to all Irishmen between 18 years 8 months and 40, who are in Grade One. They can join at any of the Irish Recruiting Council's Offices. Pay begins at 1s. 6d. a day with free kit, rations, and separation allowance.

Any recruit, whether for the Army, Navy, or Air Force, can enlist in any area he chooses.
